SENATE COMMITTEE DECIDES ON WIDEST INQUIRY ON FUNDS

Roused by Moore, Members Vote Investigation of State and Local Campaigns.

STATE CHAIRMEN SUMMONED

Suggested by Cox's Representative as Witnesses to Prove $15,000,000 Fund Plan.

TAMMANY TO BE TARGET

Penrose Machine Also to be Subject of Inquiry—Recess Is Taken Until Tuesday.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The Senatorial Committee investigating campaign funds adjourned today until Tuesday without giving Edmond H. Moore, representative of Governor Cox, an opportunity to present the data on which the Democratic candidate based his charges that the Republicans were raising a $15,000,000 campaign fund.

The members of the committee, roused by statements of Mr. Moore to newspaper men that the committee "was not seeking evidence," determined after conferences lasting most of the afternoon to go into a wholesale investigation of party finances independently of the charges of Governor Cox or the countercharges of the Republicans.

The committee will inquire into the activities of every political machine, Republican and Democratic, down to the smallest ward unit, and some members expect to reveal scandals that will end once and for all the use of large amounts of money in political campaigns.

The Penrose machine in Pennsylvania, the Tammany machine in New York, the Republican and Democratic machines in Chicago, the Kansas City machine are among those which will be subjected to investigation.

Moore Offers to Give "Leads."

When Mr. Moore arrived here today he informed Senator Reed that he would give "the leads" for the inquiry into the alleged $15,000,000 fund and "the committee could get the necessary information direct."

There was a conference of the committee, when it was decided to take a recess till Tuesday, have Senators Reed and Pomerene get the names of competent witnesses from Mr. Moore and issue subpoenas for their appearance at the next committee meeting. Senator Reed was asked to obtain from Mr. Moore also a description of every document which would in any way support the Cox charges.

While the conference was going on Mr. Moore talked with reporters, saying that it was within the power of the committee "to give Truman H. Newberry plenty of good Republican company."

"I have," added Mr. Moore, "the names of the men who can give absolute proof that before the public conscience was aroused the heads of this money-getting organization publicly boasted of a plan that would raise $16,000,000. So far this investigation has been a farce. If this committee wants to get the evidence it can call these men who have been conspicuous at this hearing by their absence. I can prove that in the City of Atlanta alone $25,000 was raised. I can produce the man who raised it before Harding was nominated—and the nomination so disgusted him that he will not vote for Harding this Fall."

After the committee adjourned subpoenas were issued for J. J. Bryson of Brazil, Ind.; Mrs. Jacob Bauer of Chicago, Fred A. Miller of Columbus, Ohio; W. K. Woodford of Cleveland, Dudley S. Blossom of Cleveland, Garrett De Forest Kinney of Peoria, Walter Dickey of Kansas City, Mo., and H. G. Garrett of Winchester, Ky., all of whom are Chairmen or Vice Chairmen of the Republican Ways and Means Committees in their States.

Subpoenas also were issued for Harry N. Blair, assistant to Fred W. Upham, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, who, Mr. Moore said, was "the financial genius of the Republican organization and father of the city quota plan," and for several Republican field agents whose names the committee refused to make public.

Poindexter on Senatorial Funds.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (Associated Press).—The decision of the Senate investigating committee to take a recess today to permit members to keep week-end speaking engagements was unexpected. Mr. Moore had appeared to take the stand and had told newspaper men that he expected to present documents in support of Cox's charges that millions were flowing into the Republican campaign chest.

Mr. Moore told the newspaper men that he would attempt to prove that the Republican leaders had publicly announced in January that they planned to raise a $16,000,000 campaign fund and "had boasted of it."

"They have changed Lincoln's aphorism from 'A Government by the people' to 'Government buy the people,'" Mr. Moore added.

The morning session of the Senate Committee was devoted to hearing testimony by Miles Poindexter, Senator from Washington and Chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, and Herman E. Henke, Treasurer of the National Young Men's Republican League.

Senator Poindexter stated that his committee planned to raise about $200,-

Rio Grande Cuts a Big Slice Off the Boundary of Mexico

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 2.—Approximately 100 acres of Mexican territory was shifted to the American side of the international line last night, when the Rio Grande, now at flood stage, cut a new course in the lowlands ten miles west of Brownsville and left the Tahuachal ranch on the river's north bank.

Under an agreement between the United States and Mexico, the land will continue under Mexican jurisdiction. It was said to have been the largest land shift here in twenty years.

COX STARTS TRIP THROUGH 22 STATES

OPENS IN MICHIGAN TODAY

In Columbus Address He Tells Farmers They Should Be Represented on Federal Boards.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 2.—With a program that calls for a minimum of five speeches a day and an itinerary that will take him to twenty-two States over a criss-cross, winding route of more than 10,000 miles, Governor Cox tonight set out for the West.

With his party occupying three special cars, he left Columbus just before midnight. He will spend all of tomorrow in Michigan, where he is slated to make addresses at Manchester, Tecumseh, Jackson and Lansing. In the latter city the Governor will make an afternoon and an evening address. He will visit every State west of the Mississippi save Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas.

Only when it is impossible to make connections with regular trains will his party travel by a special train. The Governor's private car is the Federal, which in times gone by has been used by both President Wilson and former Justice Hughes. When Mr. Hughes was the Republican nominee in 1916 he traveled in the Federal on his Western trip.

One of the underlying motives of the Western trip is the candidate's desire, in his own words, "to take his cause to the people."

The tour is, perhaps, the most strenuous ever undertaken by a nominee for the Presidency. It surpasses the famous Bryan "swing around the circle" in 1896, when "The Commoner," then in young manhood, visited practically every nook and corner of the country.

He already has talked to audiences aggregating more than 500,000 persons, and when he crosses the Mississippi on his way home it is expected that he will have personally addressed, on the Western trip alone, more than 1,000,000. He says that he is "carrying his front porch" to the country, whereas his opponent continues his self-isolation in a small Ohio community.

Conferences in Chicago.

On Saturday the Governor will speak in Milwaukee, returning from there to Chicago, where he will hold a series of important conferences with Democratic leaders of the Central West. Starting from Chicago, he will begin his real Western drive, opening it with speeches in St. Paul and Minneapolis and going from there into North Dakota.

Governor Cox had no further comment to make today concerning his charges that the Republican leaders were planning to collect a "corruption" fund of not less than $15,000,000. He will hold a conference in Chicago Sunday with Edmond H. Moore, his personal representative, who is now in that city. No call has come for the Governor to appear before the Senate investigating committee.

The nominee told several hundred delegates from the National Board of Farm Organizations today that he favored the appointment of farmers to membership on the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Reserve Bank Boards, Central and Regional, the Tariff Commission and the appointment of a "dirt farmer" as Secretary of Agriculture. He made this statement in response to a question by A. C. Davis of Gravette, Ark., Secretary Treasurer of the National Farm Union.

Governor Cox congratulated the farmer on having "ended his Rip Van Winkle sleep."

"The farmer is entitled to a larger representation in Government, but the public service, in my judgment—and if I did not believe this I would not say it—will have its efficiency advanced by a larger representation of agricultural thought," he said.

The Governor reminded his hearers that in his speech of acceptance he recommended that farmers have representation on the Federal Reserve banking boards, and he added:

"I wish a man representing these interests were there now. A great many interests do not look with favor on my candidacy for the reason that they want possession of the Federal banking system. They want to change the law so no one but a banker can be a member of the board."

The time had come, he added, for the farmer to have his feet under the table when policies were being made, and he told the delegation he had favored the appointment of a "dirt farmer" to the Tariff Commission, pointing out that this body, dealing with imports and exports, was intimately concerned in farm products.

"The farmer represents interests that contribute to the international volume of

CONSIDERS PLAN UNFAIR

Points Out It Would Not Bind Bolsheviki in New Attempt at Invasion.

HAS TO DEFEND HERSELF

Recalls She Was Forced to Face Danger Alone Despite Sympathetic Attitude of Her Allies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Poland's answer to the American representations designed to prevent further conflict between the Poles and the Russians was made public by the State Department tonight, together with correspondence between the two Governments which preceded it.

The effort of the United States was directed to persuading Poland that it would be unwise for her armies to pursue the retreating Bolshevist forces across the so-called ethnographic line fixed tentatively by the Peace Conference as the eastern boundary between Poland and Russia. The answer, while described as "not disappointing," does not, on its face, fully meet the suggestions of this Government and to that extent is certain to be regarded as unsatisfactory, although no official admission of that character is obtainable.

In effect Poland evades a direct answer to the American suggestions by maintaining that "it could hardly be considered fair that artificial boundaries that do not bind our opponent should interfere with the military operations of the other."

This implied declination to give assurance that the advantage gained over the retreating Bolshevist forces would not be followed up beyond the Peace Conference line is softened somewhat by an expression of hope that a speedy and just peace will end the difficulties between Poland and Russia, which give concern to the United States. But, on the whole, the Polish Government fails to meet directly the desire of the United States that the Polish armies would refrain from invading territory which, in the opinion of the great powers, technically belongs to Russia.

The correspondence made public consists of four communications—three from the Polish Government and one from the United States. They are appended.

Polish Reply to Colby Note to Italy.

The Polish Minister at Washington, Prince Lubomirski, on Aug. 31, transmitted to the Department of State the text of a note, dated Aug. 28, from the Polish Minister of Foreign Affairs, Prince Sapieha, in reply to the American note of Aug. 10 to the Italian Ambassador, already made public. The Polish note of Aug. 28 follows:

"Legation of Poland, Washington, Aug. 28, 1920.

"Sir: I have been requested by the Government of the Republic of Poland to convey to you, Mr. Secretary, its thanks for the essential principles on the Polish situation expressed in your note of Aug. 10 to the Italian Ambassador.

"The declaration that the United States Government and the American nation are, by way of the employment of all available means solicitous for the maintenance of political independence and territorial integrity of a united, free and autonomous Polish State, is very gratifying to the Polish nation and has been highly appreciated by the Polish Government as a guarantee that the rights of the Polish nation shall never be curtailed. Poland sees in it the manifestation of the deep sympathy which unites both nations and which has so many times been demonstrated in their historical development.

"I am authorized to express to the United States Government deep gratitude for its open condemnation of the political system and methods of the Bolshevist Government.

"The note of Aug. 10 reached Warsaw at a time when Poland was flooded by overwhelming Bolshevist forces and when, owing to the lack of material means, only a great moral strength could win the battle of Warsaw. At this decisive moment the weighty words expressed in the note proved a valuable moral support.

"By the supreme effort of our national army not only was Warsaw saved; this victory will, with the help of Providence, contribute in a considerable degree to the weakening of the Bolshevist power, which, having brutally seized the Governmental machinery of Russia, is straining its efforts to force upon the world its oligarchic principles, which are contrary to the general conception of justice and democracy.

"I have great pleasure in assuring you, in the name of the Polish Government, that we share the feelings of sympathy for the Russian people as manifested by the American Government.

This war, which was forced upon us by the attack made on Polish cities, is a defensive war and is waged against Bolshevism and not against the Russian people.

"The most prominent leaders of the Russian nation, heading the true Russian democratic movement, see in the success of the Polish war endeavors the

Coolidge Orders Investigation of Burrell; State Treasurer Under Fire as Election Nears

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Governor Coolidge appointed a committee late today, composed of two State Senators and three members of the House of Representatives, to investigate the conduct of State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell. He said the investigation was to determine whether there had been any misconduct or malfeasance on the part of the State Treasurer.

When questioned as to the work to be done by the committee, Governor Coolidge said:

"The investigation is to determine whether there has been any misconduct of his office on the part of Mr. Burrell and whether there has been any malfeasance in office."

The committee members are Senator Frank G. Allen of Norwood and Walter E. McLane of Fall River, and Representatives B. Loring Young of Weston, Frank E. Lyman of Easthampton, and Wesley E. Monk of Watertown. The Governor said that no special significance attached to the fact that all the committeemen were Republicans.

He added that he knew of no reason why there should not be made available to the committee the special report on the condition of the State Treasury, and the report of Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen giving the result of a questionnaire sent to State depositories as to their dealings with the State Treasurer. He said he did not know whether the committee would be able to report before Tuesday next, the date of the State primaries.

Mr. Burrell, when informed of the Governor's action, said:

"I welcome a most thorough investigation."

Burrell has been severely criticised for his admitted solicitation from banks of contracts for an advertising agency which he conducted. He is a candidate for renomination on the Republican ticket at the primaries, and his name is the only one printed on the ballot for State Treasurer. A sticker campaign for the nomination is being conducted, however, by James Jackson, former Chairman of the New England division of the Red Cross, and Frederick N. Kerr, an unsuccessful candidate in the primaries last year.

Jackson agreed to run at the request of the Associated Republican Clubs of Massachusetts.

The Republican State Committee has not indorsed either Jackson or Kerr, but yesterday sent a letter to Burrell suggesting that he withdraw his candidacy.

Burrell said today that he would not withdraw.

AUTO THIEF'S DASH KILLS 1, INJURES 6

DRIVER QUICKLY VANISHES

Police Seek Young Man in Army Uniform—Woman's Hurts the Most Serious.

One man was killed and six other persons were injured yesterday afternoon, when a stolen automobile, driven by a young man in soldier's uniform who had lost control, ran into a crowd at West Forty-fourth Street and Sixth Avenue, most of whom were waiting for the opening of the Hippodrome. The automobile thief, whose reckless driving caused the accident, was only slightly injured. He escaped by abandoning the automobile and disappearing in the crowd.

The man killed was Louis Murphy, a traveling salesman, who lived at the Hotel Dagmar, Hagerstown, Md. Mr. Murphy, who had in his pocket a ticket for the afternoon performance at the Hippodrome, lived for two hours, dying at 3:35 o'clock in Bellevue Hospital. He had a compound fracture of the skull, a fracture of the pelvis and two bad wounds in the abdomen. He was 27 years old. His sister, Miss Florence Murphy of Appalachicola, Fla., is on her way here from Hagerstown.

The most seriously injured was Mrs. Frieda Hartmann, 7 North Seventh Street, Newark, N. J., wife of A. J. Hartmann. Mrs. Hartmann suffered a compound fracture of the left arm and a deep cut over the left temple, and her skull possibly was fractured. Mr. Hartmann, who was with her, was not seriously hurt, escaping with cuts and bruises.

Federal Agent Hurt.

The others injured were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Leroy Long, Lemoyne, Pa., both of whom were cut and bruised; Graham L. Rice, 425 West 118th Street, an agent of the United States Department of Justice, whose principal injury was a deep cut on his scalp, and William Hanley, who gave his home as the Elks' Club. He told the police he would be attended by his own physician. With the exception of Mrs. Hartmann, the injury to whose head may have serious results, the other injured persons were able to leave the hospital after receiving surgical attention.

With the sidewalk crowded it was considered remarkable that the casualty list was not larger. The accident occurred about 1:30. Not more than two minutes afterward the first of a score of sight-seeing automobiles, carrying 900 Russian children from Fort Wadsworth and for whom Mr. Rice had been assigned to act as an escort, stopped at the exact spot. Had the accident taken place five minutes later several hundred children would have been in the path taken by the runaway automobile.

Two See Theft of Auto.

The automobile which did the damage was stolen from in front of the New York Yacht Club, 37 West Forty-fourth Street, while the owner, F. G. C. Lyon of Great Neck, L. I., President of the National Gas Governor Company, was inside at luncheon. The doormen of the Iroquois and Algonquin Hotels told the police later that they saw a young man in a soldier's uniform get into Mr. Lyon's automobile and drive away rapidly. Before they could investigate, they said, the car had passed them and the accident had occurred.

There had been no time to organize a chase, but the thief apparently feared pursuit, for he went into high speed at once and drove west in Forty-fourth Street between lines of automobiles parked at the curbs. As he neared the Hippodrome corner, half a block from his starting point, he narrowly missed collision with an eastbound taxicab. The turn to the right was blocked by an automobile standing at the curb, so the driver of the stolen car turned to the left and in so doing completely lost control.

Access to the street from the Hippodrome fire escape system is obtained by way of a skeleton iron stairway, which is let down by pulleys immediately before each performance. This fire escape had just been let down. Mr. Rice, the Department of Justice agent, was standing on the sidewalk in front of this stairway when the automobile hit him.

ANTHRACITE MINES CEASE PRODUCTION

"Vacationists" Now 125,000, Though Scale Committee Signs Contract with Operators.

INSURGENTS WARY OF LAW

Special to The New York Times.

WILKES-BARRE, Sept. 2.—The acceptance by the Scale Committee of the United Mine Workers of America of the wage award approved by President Wilson and the signing by this Committee and the Operators' Scale Committee at Scranton, of a two years' contract embodying the terms of this award, had no effect on the insurgents who yesterday started the vacation movement in the anthracite field. On the contrary the movement spread today, until practically the entire industry was at a standstill, and it is predicted that the few collieries still operating would be closed tomorrow.

Of the 175,000 workers in districts 1, 7 and 9, about 125,000 walked out, causing a loss in production of about 300,000 tons of coal and $625,000 in wages for a single day. About 125 collieries were idle. Many of them the largest in the field.

Efforts are being made in some sections to call out firemen and engineers. This has caught the operators completely by surprise, and if successful may result in serious damage to property.

Independent operators fared much better than the big companies. While the number of the former operating was decreased from twenty-five to fifty per cent., they were able to keep up steam and production on a reduced scale.

Insurgents Avoid Disorder.

Fear of running afoul of State and Federal laws prompted the insurgents to begin what is actually a strike with the utmost care. No disorders of any sort were reported and no attempt was made to establish pickets or endeavor to turn back from work those who wished to stand by the union organization and it's leaders. Enoch Williams, who has led the insurgents for many months, directed all movements from his home in Taylor.

State troopers and deputy sheriffs are in readiness if trouble occurs. Not a call reached the headquarters of either force today and for the present trouble is not expected.

The sudden shutting off of the production is bound to cause an anthracite shortage, for operators said today that none of the companies have any coal in storage and that in recent months there has been no chance to lay up a supply for emergency.

The Wyoming Valley, Hazleton and Schuylkill regions appear to be the hotbeds of the insurgent movement. The "vacation" movement found heartier acceptance in these sections than in the Scranton-Carbondale district and other parts. The union leaders are standing firmly by their pledge to accept the award and endeavor to keep the men at work and have missionaries in all parts of the field, but the insurgents are equally busy in exhorting the miners to stop work.

The Lehigh Valley, the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre, the Susquehanna Collieries Company, the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, the Markle interests, the Reading companies and the D. L. & W. were hard hit. The Lehigh and Wilkesbarre had only two collieries working and these with a decreased force. The Lehigh Valley had ten collieries closed and one working. One half of the D. L. & W. collieries were idle. The Susquehanna Company had ten closed, while in Hazleton twenty-five were idle. In the Schuylkill region forty-five mines were not operating.

Federal agents are active. Information is being gathered in all sections and forwarded to Washington and the general belief of the strikers is that Federal action will be taken to break the walkout. The insurgents believe they have avoided Government intervention by taking a "vacation."

The union leaders are spreading broadcast the assertion that it is probable President Wilson will be induced to reopen the award. Thomas Kennedy, President of District No. 7, and one of

RESCUING THE CREW IMPRISONED HOURS IN SUBMARINE S-5

Twelve of the Thirty Taken Off and Rest Will be Saved, According to Wireless Message.

IN PERIL FOR 42 HOURS

NAVAL VESSELS HURRIED AID

Men Kept Alive by Air Fed Through Hole Cut Into Hull of Submerged Vessel.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Twelve of the crew of the submarine S-5, which had been held close to the surface for hours by a line from the United States army transport General Goethals, after the submarine had become disabled, were taken off and the rest were being rescued, according to a wireless message received at 2 o'clock this morning at the Philadelphia Navy Yard from the General Goethals via Cape May.

The first man was taken off at twenty minutes after 10 o'clock, when the submarine had been submerged for more than forty-two hours.

Held at Surface by Transport's Cable.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The United States submarine S-5 was being kept barely at the surface of the Atlantic Ocean fifty-five miles east of Cape Henlopen tonight by a precarious hold secured on her stern by the General Goethals, an army transport, while a dozen vessels of the navy are racing from various points to her rescue.

With her crew of four officers and twenty-six men, the S-5 had been submerged for thirty-six hours, but through a hole cut in her stern by the crew of the General Goethals enough air is being pumped to keep the men alive until naval equipment rushed on the fastest vessels available can get there to complete her rescue.

How the S-5 became disabled and how the General Goethals learned of her plight had not been learned late tonight by the Navy Department.

Captain B. F. Hutchinson, Assistant Chief of Operations, said the battleship Ohio, from the Southern drill grounds, was under way for the spot, as were two destroyers from the Norfolk base, a destroyer with naval constructors and special equipment from Philadelphia, and a fourth destroyer and the torpedo ship Bridgeport from New York.

The rescue vessels are under orders to get the men out first, Captain Hutchinson said, by raising and cutting into the submarine. Messages from the General Goethals said that sufficient air had been gotten into the hull to "revive" the crew, and explained that the S-5's position in the water was almost vertical.

Cables from the submarine's stern to the General Goethals are proving sufficient to hold her to the surface, and men were landed who cut the hole through which the air pipe was introduced. Ordinarily the air supply in a submarine of her type, Captain Hutchinson said, would suffice to keep her crew alive for seventy-two hours, but her peculiar position would indicate that much of the air had been lost.

The rescue boats are equipped to cut the side out of the submarine if necessary. Her peculiar position in the water has probably made it useless to attempt to take any of her men out the occasionally used route of the torpedo tubes, it was explained, because the tubes are in her bow and pointed toward the ocean bottom. The hole which the General Goethals has been able to make is only a small one, and not large enough to withdraw any of the men.

First Message Heard by Private Plant.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 2.—The first message of the plight of the S-5 was picked up at Farmington tonight by a private wireless plant owned by David L. Moore, in his residence.

The message, from the General Goethals, gave the submarine's last position in latitude 38:36 north, and longitude 74:00 west, which is virtually due east of the Delaware capes.

The radio read:

"On Board U. S. S. General Goethals, at Sea, Sept. 2.—Send destroyers with gear to relieve crew in submerged submarine S-5. Been in this condition thirty-five hours. Bring material for cutting through hull."

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—Air is now being pumped into the submarine S-5 by two steamers which are standing by the submerged vessel, fifty-five miles southeast of Cape Henlopen.

The crew of twenty-four men and six officers are still alive, according to wireless advices just received at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

The United States destroyer Overton, equipped with apparatus to meet any emergency, sailed from the navy yard here tonight to the rescue of the S-5.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The submarine S-5, reported in trouble, left the navy yard here on Monday for Baltimore on recruiting service, carrying thirty-five men and two officers.

She was recently commissioned and it is understood that this was her maiden trip. She was built at the Fore River yards of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation at Quincy and is of the latest type.

According to the latest naval list, the S-5 is commanded by Lieut. Commander

6,000 Await Ships in Sicily; Many Americans Held Abroad

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The State Department has received a report from Palermo, Sicily, stating that American citizens and Italian residents of the United States, who have gone to Italy to visit their relatives, have been unable to secure early return passage to the United States, particularly in second and third classes, as all the accommodations on the passenger steamers are taken up several months in advance.

The report stated that on Aug. 1 there were more than 6,000 persons in Sicily awaiting transportation to the United States and that steamship service from Palermo consisted of one sailing at intervals of eight days, the steamer embarking an average of 400 emigrants each time. The delays, the report added, have caused considerable hardship.

3,000 STRIKE HERE TO HUMBLE BRITAIN

SAY MOVE IS WORLDWIDE

Take Up Cudgels for MacSwiney and Mannix, but Union Repudiates Action.

Three thousand longshoremen and dock workers of Brooklyn, employed in loading and unloading British ships, last night pledged themselves not to return to work on any English vessel until "England recognizes the Irish Republic." The strikers demand that Great Britain allow Archbishop Mannix to land in Ireland, that the hunger-striking Lord Mayor of Cork be released and that all troops be withdrawn from Irish soil.

Their action, it was stated at a meeting last night in Veronica Hall, New York, was only a small part of a general scheme of a worldwide strike by labor to humble Great Britain. Francis Ryan, as Chairman, read telegrams from Boston, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Newport News, Galveston and other cities which promised that longshoremen and dock workers of those and other ports would join in the ambitious movement within twenty-four hours.

News dispatches from Boston last night stated that the dock strike in Charlestown and East Boston already had spread to include freight handlers and employes of grain elevators supplying British ships with cargo.

Ryan's announcement that labor throughout the world would refuse to load British ships was received by cheers from 2,000 of the 3,000 strikers present. The cheering lasted several minutes.

International Repudiates Strike.

All the speakers were strong in their denunciation of Great Britain and all promised that the strike of labor throughout the world would bring the British Government to its knees.

No attention apparently was paid to a statement issued earlier in the day by the International Longshoremen's Association, which repudiates the action of those of its members who quit their posts on piers where British ships were loading several days ago.

Patrick McGovern, first speaker at the meeting, read resolutions that struck the keynote of the gathering and were unanimously adopted. The resolutions ran:

"We hereby pledge our undying adherence to cease work on British ships throughout the world until England recognizes the 'Irish Republic,' bows her head on the altar of labor and takes the terms handed down by American labor, whose voice we here speak. We also pledge that until Archbishop Mannix enters Ireland, the Lord Mayor of Cork is liberated and British troops are withdrawn from Ireland means will be found to compel the British Government to do so."

McGovern asserted that the strike would not affect American bottoms, but he said that none of the 3,000 already on strike would go back to their jobs until England had acceded to the terms in the resolution. He said that dock workers were holding other meetings in Brooklyn in the same cause.

Says It's Labor's Fight.

"Three thousand stalwart men have stopped work to force the British Lion out of Brooklyn or British troops out of Ireland," he said. "It's the Irish spirit—no use—England can't kill it. It is not simply an Irishman's fight. It is the fight of labor all over the world.

"Russia already has recognized the 'Republic of Ireland.' Will you work on a British ship until Britain recognizes Ireland as a republic?"

"No" was the answer from the two thousand throats. It took several minutes to restore order.

Miss Helen O'Reilly of the women pickets of the British Consulate said that "England is a parasite among the nations, is actually a small nation and should be a small nation."

"Brothers," she continued, "if you remain on strike English ships will not be loaded and Mannix will land just as sure as the sun shines. Not only will Mannix land, but every English soldier will leave Ireland. They can no longer divide us on religious lines or on lines of nationality. Labor is labor, the same the world over."

Miss O'Reilly said England had sent troops from India into Ireland, and declared it "typical of England to use one subject nation to shoot down another subject nation."

After saying that the name of MacSwiney would "live in every household

Judge's Terms Are Announced in a Letter to Mayor Hylan.

MEN MUST GO BACK TO WORK

SENIORITY TO BE RETAINED

Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer last night issued a statement giving five terms upon which the strike of the B. R. T. employes might be ended. The statement came after the Judge and Lindley M. Garrison, Receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit System, had been in conference in the latter's suite in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel for nearly four hours. The terms were:

1. That the men shall return to work.
2. That on their return to work their seniority and other privileges shall be restored to them.
3. That the pay increase sought—10 per cent. over that of August, 1919, or 8 per cent. over the current wage—shall immediately apply.
4. That the employes shall have the right of collective bargaining fully assured to them.
5. That the employes shall be assured of free and full opportunity to select representatives of their own choice to deal directly with the management.

Terms Given in Letter to Hylan.

Judge Mayer's statement was in the form of a letter to Mayor Hylan and read as follows:

Sept. 2, 1920.

Hon. John F. Hylan, Mayor of the City of New York, Chairman the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

My Dear Mr. Mayor: I duly received your letter of even date informing me that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, together with the Governor of the State, met with representatives of the Amalgamated Association and were in receipt of an offer of settlement from the joint board of such association, a copy of which offer is contained in your letter. You then refer to a statement made by me over the telephone to you that I would not deal either directly or indirectly with the Amalgamated Association, but would be pleased to state to you and the Board of Estimate, if you so desired, the terms upon which the present strike might be ended, and you request me so to state.

At the outset I feel that I should briefly state the reasons which actuate me in the premises.

The Amalgamated Association elected a committee, which made a contract, dated Dec. 16, 1919, with the receiver, regulating wages and working conditions. That contract was violated by the action taken by the Amalgamated Association in sanctioning the present strike. The present strike was called in absolute violation of every safeguard in the constitution and by-laws of the Amalgamated Association to prevent precipitate action, and was called without any notice to the management or any notice to the public. I will be recreant to my obvious duty to the people of this community if I should again place their vital interests, involved, as they are in this transportation system, at the mercy of an association that has proved itself faithless to its obligations and irresponsible in its conduct. I cannot, therefore, consistently with my firm conviction of my duty, permit negotiations or agreements, directly or indirectly, now or hereafter, with this association; and, of course, I cannot bargain with this association as to terms upon which the strike may be ended.

If the men (excepting those responsible for the present situation) return to their positions their seniority and other privileges will be restored to them. They can return with the absolute assurance that the Court will see to it that the right of collective bargaining will be carefully safeguarded, and that representatives of their own choice can have direct dealing with the management. In working out the requisite methods to accomplish these things the Court and the receiver will welcome the cooperation of the Governor, the Mayor, the Board of Estimate, the Public Service Commission and the Transit Construction Commissioner.

The receiver, on July 16 last, announced an increase of pay of 10 per cent. over the wage scale of August, 1919, applicable to those under contracts when and if the committees with which the contracts were made should accept the offer. The committee representing the men on strike did not accept this offer, and it, therefore, did not become effective as to these men.

Coming now to the direct answer to your question, the terms upon which the present strike may be ended are as follows:

1. That the men (except those excluded as above) shall return to work;
2. That on their return their seniority and other privileges shall be restored to them;
3. That the 10 per cent. increase in pay above referred to shall immediately apply;
4. That the employes shall have the right of collective bargaining fully assured to them;
5. That the employes shall be assured of free opportunity to select representatives of their own choice to deal directly with the management.

Of course, seniority and other such privileges cannot be held open for any length of time, and therefore it is imperative if the men desire to return to work on the above terms that they should do so promptly.

Very truly yours,
JULIUS M. MAYER,
District Judge.

The Board of Estimate, which adjourned its special session yesterday subject to the call of the Chair, will hold a meeting today after receiving the letter of Judge Mayer.

When the letter of Judge Mayer was shown to Louis Fridiger, counsel for the strikers, at the Continental Hotel last night, he said:

"To me it appears like the usual subterfuge employed by those who are bent upon the destruction of an organization —an attempt to advance some plausible reason for so doing. We have exhausted every known and every possible means for the settling of the strike and the restoration of the service to the interests of the Borough of Brooklyn. It seems as though the other side deemed the destruction of the men's organization more important than the convenience and necessities of the citizens of the Borough of Brooklyn."

Conference With Strike Leaders.

Governor Smith, Mayor Hylan and members of the Board of Estimate went into the conference with the strike leaders at the City Hall at 3 o'clock. The Executive Committee of the strikers submitted their letter, agreeing to urge the men to go back to work immediately, if Judge Mayer would offer an increase of ten cents an hour for employes of the surface lines and increases of fifteen cents an hour for employes in the mechanical departments.

The suggested rates reduced by more than one-half demands originally submitted by the union leaders on July 28. The July demands were for increases varying from 40 to 50 per cent. The increases asked yesterday varied from about 18 to 23 per cent. In the case of motormen and conductors on the surface lines, for instance, the present scale ranging from 52 to 62 cents an hour would be from 62 to 72 cents an hour.

If the B. R. T. agreed to these demands, approximately $5,000,000 a year would be added to the wage costs. Receiver Garrison testified that the payroll was now $25,000,000 a year, while gross income was $40,000,000 a year. Mr. Garrison offered an increase of 8 per cent., or $2,000,000 a year. The demand is thus 150 per cent. greater than his offer and would, if accepted, mean that $50,000,000 of the $40,000,000 gross income would be absorbed by the payroll.

Whether the union leaders meant this as their best proposition or were prepared to bargain over it and submit to reduction in another point Louis Fridiger, counsel for the strikers, had admitted that the previous demands were very much padded, in order to leave a spacious margin for haggling.

Hylan Talks with Judge Mayer.

When the letter was received Mayor Hylan went personally to the telephone and called up Judge Mayer at his chambers. After some preliminary conversation, in which Judge Mayer ascertained that the offer came from the Amalgamated leaders whom he had denounced and also got a statement from the Mayor to the effect that the Amalgamated leaders had sanctioned the strike, Judge Mayer refused to deal with the group of high officials, as bearers of a proposal from the Amalgamated. The following formal statement was issued by Judge Mayer:

"If the Amalgamated sanctioned this strike, as I am informed by the Mayor, I will not deal with them either directly or indirectly. That means that I cannot give consideration to any proposal originating with the Amalgamated, even though transmitted to me by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. If, however, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment desires to know upon what terms the strike may be ended, so far as the court is concerned, I will be only too glad upon the written request of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to state such terms in writing if they so desire.

"I am, of course, always glad to see the Governor, the Mayor and the board, but a personal visit will not change the determination which I have just stated over the telephone."

Union leaders protested against the statement of Judge Mayer, in which he made Mayor Hylan's statement that the Amalgamated had sanctioned the strike the basis of his refusal to treat with them, asserting that the newspapers had printed their statements four days ago that the Amalgamated had sanctioned the strike, while three days ago Strike Leader P. J. Shea had stated on the witness stand before the Public Service Commission that the Amalgamated had sanctioned the strike. They pointed out that two days before Judge Mayer had received both his members the Board of Estimate bearing a proposal from the strikers, submitted both by letter and verbally, at the meeting of the Board of Estimate.

Says It Is a Fight Against Union.

When the meeting was adjourned, Louis Fridiger, counsel for the strikers, said;

"They are out in the open now. Their pretense has been that they are eager for arbitration and peace, and that the strike was forced on them, but it is plain that their real plan was to force a strike in order that they might attempt to crush the Amalgamated. We are at least glad that they are out in the open."

After the meeting the following reply, in which the conference conveyed by letter the proposal of the strikers which the Judge refused to receive from them in person, was made public:

City of New York,
Office of the Mayor,
Sept. 2, 1920.

Hon. Julius M. Mayer, United States District Court, New York City:

My Dear Judge: On Thursday, Sept. 2, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, with the Governor present by invitation, met with the representatives of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electrical Railway Employes of America in an effort to stop the strike on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit lines and allay the sufferings and distress resulting therefrom. The joint board made an offer of settlement that in their opinion would be entirely satisfactory to the men, and it is set forth in the following, which is a copy of their letter:

New York, Sept. 2, 1920.

The Hon. John F. Hylan and Members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, City Hall, New York City, New York:

Gentlemen: As a result of the conference held with you this morning, the Joint Executive Board which is made up of representatives of the three branches of the railway service in the Borough of Brooklyn, met and after a conference reached the conclusion that if the men were granted increases in pay over that which they were receiving on the 28th of July, August, 1920, in the amounts indicated below, this committee would submit the same to the men and unanimously recommend that such increases be accepted.

Employes in the transportation department of the subway and elevated and surface lines, an increase of 10 cents per hour.

Employes in the mechanical department and the miscellaneous departments connected therewith, an increase of 15 cents per hour.

Your instructions this morning were that we should submit our minimum figures and those submitted above are in accord with said instructions.

Most respectfully yours,
LOUIS FRIDIGER, Attorney;
P. J. SHEA,
J. H. REARDON.

In view, however, of your statement over the telephone that you would not deal either directly or indirectly with the Amalgamated Association, in pursuance of your own suggestion, the Board desires to ask upon what terms the strike may be ended so far as your court is concerned. Very truly yours,

JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor,
Board of Apportionment and Estimate.

Resolute in His Stand.

Judge Mayer refused to add anything for publication to his letters, but he let it be understood that he was most resolute in his stand, as officially outlined in those letters. It was said that the Judge was ready to fight "to the last day of his life," if necessary, to eliminate the Amalgamated from the operation of the B. R. T. lines.

The conference at the City Hall made Governor Smith its spokesman. After describing the letters, which had passed, he said that he did not expect any reply from Judge Mayer until today.

"Do you feel optimistic?" was asked.

"I feel more hungry than anything else," he replied.

"Do you feel that the strike is likely to end soon?"

"How can anybody feel anything about that? I know no more about it than you do."

"It is the difference between a feeling and a hope," put in Mayor Hylan.

"We are all hoping for the settlement of the strike," said Governor Smith. "It is a hard thing to see a county containing 2,500,000 of people distressed by a strike. Of course, we are all hoping for a settlement."

STRIKERS CRITICISE JUDGE.

Counsel, However, Advises Tearing Up Petition Favoring Charges.

A petition calling for a Federal investigation of "charges" against Julius M. Mayer and for impeachment, if the charges proved to be true, was signed by many strikers and their sympathizers, said by officials of the meeting to number 3,000, at the meeting of the strikers at the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum yesterday.

The petition was passed and signed after a speech by Charles Bright of the Equality League, who assailed Judge Mayer as a "hand-picked" Judge, and continued:

"Whenever any of the big interests, like the Morgans or the Rockefellers, have a matter to go before the Federal Court, it is well known that they wait until Judge Mayer is on the bench."

The wording of the petition was as follows:

"The undersigned hereby indorse the cause of the Equality League for the purpose of aiding in its efforts to purify the judiciary.

"Charges have been made by prominent officials, lawyers and others, as noted in the press, and further formal complaints lodged with the Department of Justice against Julius M. Mayer.

"We, therefore, urgently indorse the Equality League's movement and join in this appeal to Congress for immediate action.

"If the charges are unfounded, he should be exonerated. If the charges are true, Judge Mayer should be impeached.

"When matters of grave importance to millions are about to come before the courts the judiciary should be above suspicion, and in the face of these charges an immediate investigation is imperative."

When he was told last night of the impeachment proceedings at the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum, Judge Mayer laughed and exclaimed:

"Grand."

It was asserted last night that Mr. Bright, the introducer of the petition, had previously sought to have several other Federal Judges impeached.

B. R. T. SERVICE IMPROVES.

The B. R. T. forged ahead yesterday in service on subway, elevated and surface car lines. At 5 P. M. the company ran 153 trains, each of five cars, rendering service 49 per cent. normal. An hour later the peak of the surface car operation came when 170 cars were serving the eight lines in commission. B. R. T. figures on subway and elevated schedules were:

This morning at 6 o'clock the company predicts 25 per cent. operation of surface lines. Twenty lines will be served, the twelve new ones to be: DeKalb Avenue, Bergen Street, Broadway, Nostrand Avenue, Sumner Avenue, Jamaica Avenue, Brooklyn Bridge locals, Vanderbilt Avenue, Reid Avenue, Myrtle Avenue, Sixty-fifth Street-Fort Hamilton, Sixty-fifth Street-Bay Ridge.

B.R.T. Strikers to Lead Labor Parade

The striking B. R. T. employes, whether the strike is ended by that time or not, shall have the honor of leading the Labor Day parade in Brooklyn. This was definitely decided at the meeting of the men in the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum last night. John B. Coughlin, President of the Central Labor Union of Brooklyn and Queens, in a brief speech offered the men the honor position in the line, and the offer was accepted.

GARRISON THROUGH WITH UNION, HE SAYS

"Strikers Are Now Outlaws and We Will Not Deal With Them," Receiver Asserts.

BROTHERHOOD MEN STICK

Motormen, Towermen and Signalmen Give Assurances They Will Remain at Work.

The B. R. T. plans to retain in its employ the more experienced of the strikebreakers not classed as "professionals" in an effort to break the hold of the Amalgamated, it was learned yesterday. No official comment, however, was obtained on this point at the offices of the B. R. T. Many of the strikebreakers, out of work in their home cities, said they planned to remain in New York if the company would retain them. The "professionals"—those who said they helped break car strikes in Denver, Cleveland, Chicago and other cities—will decamp when the need for them is over, it is expected.

Receiver Lindley M. Garrison said that the strikebreakers numbered between 2,500 and 3,000, of whom a large percentage are not yet at work, but are being educated to operate trains.

"Until the men come back to work," he said, "there will be no increase in pay and no further discussion of the subject. They are now outlaws and we will not deal with them."

Speaking of Strike Leader Patrick J. Shea and Louis Fridiger, counsel for the strikers, he said that the company would not deal with them again under any circumstances.

"They have violated every trust," he said. He asserted that the manner in which the strike vote was taken was a violation of the by-laws of the union itself and that a further violation of the union's own regulations was the failure to obtain the authority of the International Association before the strike was called. This, he said, was such proof of irresponsibility as to make it impossible to deal with men under such leadership.

Says Brotherhood Men Will Stick.

Regarding reports that the motormen, towermen and signalmen, who belong to the railroad brotherhoods and are not on strike, would walk out rather than continue to work with strikebreakers, Mr. Garrison said:

"I have been positively assured these men will not violate the agreement and go on strike. I would like to clear away all the rumors to that effect. The company trusts these men implicitly."

When the statement of Mr. Garrison was called to his attention Mr. Fridiger said:

"The issues are what interest me in this matter. I do not care about personalities."

Strike Leader Patrick J. Shea said that he did not care what names the Receiver called him.

"Whether I am a red-eyed Bolshevist or not I will leave to those who know me and to the public to judge. I have no reply to make. Let all the personal abuse come from the Receiver.

"Then, as to the claim that they have recruited more than 2,500 strikebreakers is a great exaggeration. They have less than 1,000. The people who ride on cars operated by them risk their lives. It takes two weeks to train conductors and motormen. These men are being trained overnight and put to work, as the accidents on the lines testify. After the Malbone Street tunnel accident, in which 100 people were killed and 300 injured by the B. R. T.'s use of half-trained strikebreakers, new laws were passed on the subject of compelling the use of trained men, but I do not see much evidence of their enforcement.

98 Per Cent. Struck, Shea Says.

"About 98 per cent. of our members struck. I have not heard a single case where a man who struck has returned to work. They are not staying home because they are afraid, but they have struck in order to get a living wage. I have seen many strikes, but never one which has been developing more successfully than this one."

Strikers pointed out yesterday that there were few if any shopmen among the men recruited for the emergency, and that repairs to cars were being made. Subway, elevated and surface cars which went out of service due to some minor mechanical disorder stayed out of commission.

The only large group of strikebreakers to arrive yesterday got in at Pennsylvania Station at 2 o'clock in the morning and were quickly transported to the Bay Parkway station. Smaller groups reported for duty, and many individuals applied for work, according to one of the strike-breaking agencies. Many elderly men were turned down when they failed to pass the strict physical examination required by the company.

Three More Surface Lines Operated.

Although surface car operation was at a standstill in and out of Coney Island, company officials announced that they had enough men at the barn to man the cars. Acting Public Service Commissioner Alfred M. Barrett and Deputy Commissioner Morgan T. Donnelly announced that their reports from the Commission's inspectors indicated that the morning rush hour service showed a marked improvement yesterday, when three surface lines which had been tied up were operated. These were the Ninety-Street line, with twenty-seven cars, the Richmond Hill, with eighteen cars in service, and the Fulton Street line. The number of cars in service on the Fulton Street line was not reported. The Flatbush Avenue line operated about twenty-five cars, the Gates Avenue line twenty-one, and the Park Slope line, twenty.

Six persons were slightly injured when a Gates Avenue car jumped the track at a Myrtle Avenue switch in the morning. The car was in charge of William Roach, who said he lived at 168 Montague Street. Near the switch the car failed to take the brake, and, jumping the track, crashed into an auto truck which was taking on a load of passengers at the curb. A crowd of strikers jeered Roach, who with Policeman Burke, the police guard, suffered cuts and bruises from flying glass. Some of the passengers in the truck were shaken up, but refused medical attention. An ambulance surgeon dressed the wounds of Roach and Burke.

Crewless Car Dashes Down Long Grade.

Crewless and passengerless, a Flatbush-Seventh Avenue car made a wild dash down a steep grade, starting at Ninth Avenue and Twentieth Street, early in the afternoon and crashed into an automobile after it had narrowly missed pedestrians as it raced for a mile and a half. The motorman, a strikebreaker, it was said, failed to brake his car properly when he left it standing on the grade near the depot.

William Curry, a conductor, leaped aboard the car and tried to put on the brake, but jumped off again when he found it worked stiffly. When the onrushing car reached Gravesend Avenue it was traveling at forty miles an hour, witnesses said. Near Church Avenue it upset an automobile driven by Milton Alexander of 525 Gravesend Avenue, throwing Alexander several feet away. He was uninjured, but his automobile was badly battered. The collision slowed up the trolley car and Charles Grubmeyer and Bert Willey of Richmond Hill, electricians, brought it to a halt between Cortelyou Road and Avenue C.

Strike leaders said yesterday they had received reports that strikebreakers manning cars were smoking while on duty in violation of a city ordinance.

75,000 MAY STRIKE TO AID PLUMBERS

DISORDERS IN VAN STRIKE

Painters Assert 10,000 of the 15,000 in the Union Have Returned to Work at New Scale.

F. G. Beidenkapp, national organizer of the Amalgamated Metal Workers' Union, said last night that 75,000 members of the United Building Trades Council would strike unless the demands of Plumbers' Local 32 were granted. It was said the men in the council represented workers in all the building trades, including carpenters, electrical workers and others in the metal trades.

"Such action would cause the halting of new building construction," said Beidenkapp.

The officers of the plumbers' union said that judging by the way in which the employers were granting the demands of the men the strike would be over in a week. The men are demanding $9 a day, a 44-hour week, reduction of overtime to an absolute minimum and ten holidays a year.

J. Kelly, delegate of the plumbers, said 1,000 of the 2,000 men in the union were still on strike.

Divergent Statements Made.

Widely divergent statements were made by employers and employes involved in the Fall trade strikes. The Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers announced that the opposition of employers was crumbling and that of a total membership of 15,000 approximately 10,000 men were back at work under agreements granting them increases of $1 a day.

Representatives of the master painters said only a few smaller employers had given in to the demands. They said that to grant the $10 a day demanded by the painters would mean that all the 115,000 workers in the building trades would demand wage increases conforming to this rate, thus considerably increasing the cost of building houses.

In the strike of moving van drivers and packers, Charles Morris, of the Van Owners' Association said the employers were standing firm. They were still willing to grant an increase of $3 a week to their men. He added that not more than 100 men, working for small independent van owners, had returned to work. J. J. McKenna, business agent of the van men's union, said that from 500 to 600 men had returned after their employers had signed individual contracts. "We will stick it out 100 per cent. or bust," he declared.

E. Russell Herts, representative of the Master Painters' Association and the Society of Interior Decorators, said not one member of either organization had signed up with the painters' union and that those who signed agreements were mistaken. The statements of the union representatives on this point were misleading, he asserted.

Preparing for "Finish Fight."

Philip Zausner, Secretary of the painters' organization, declared he would give to any reputable person the name and address of each of the 500 to 600 employers of the 10,000 men who had already signed agreements. "It is time to call a halt on the false and malicious propaganda of the employers," he added. He also denied that wages have gone up 25 per cent. in the last year. The men received $8 last year and $9 when they went on strike, said the Secretary, an increase of 12½ per cent.

Preparations were made by the union for what its officials termed a "finish fight." A strike assessment of $5 was laid on each member, and, it was said, $65,000 was raised.

Charles E. Mack, President of the Master Painters and Decorators Association of Greater New York, said the strike of the painters would add further to the trouble of apartment house tenants this Fall. He predicted that the city would always be subjected to such inconveniences so long as painting was a seasonal occupation. He placed the remedy up to the Legislature, which, he said, could spread moving dates so that the bulk of the moving and therefore the painting, came not in September and October, but throughout the entire year.

Violence by van strikers was reported from widely scattered parts of the city last night. Fifty men stopped all vans in the vicinity of Seventh Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street, dragged the drivers from their seats and severely beat them.

Pickets Hold Up Vans.

For two hours pickets held up all vans on Fifth Avenue east of Fifty-seventh Street. They offered no violence to the drivers but urged them not to work today, and on obtaining their promises permitted them to pass on.

At Broadway and Sixty-sixth Street two drivers were dragged from their vehicles and beaten. One driver was escorted away and returned with a bloody shirt. He said he had decided to join the union.

Another disturbance occurred at Broadway and 115th Street at 8 o'clock when 100 strikers attempted to stop all vans. Their action caused a congestion of traffic for twenty minutes. The strikers were finally dispersed.

Strike pickets forced non-union van drivers to empty a loaded van in front of 205 East Thirty-ninth Street, where the furniture of Mrs. Mary Burns was being removed to a storage warehouse. After obeying the order the non-union men called policemen, who guarded them while they again loaded the furniture on the van.

A van driven by a non-union man passed Beethoven Hall, strike headquarters. Pickets cut the ropes holding the furniture, which fell to the street. Others beat the horses to a gallop, but they were stopped by a policeman after running a hundred feet.

The van driver and his helper went into the hall and joined the union.

Charles Morris of the Van Owners' Association warned all persons who were contemplating moving not to intrust their furniture to unreliable moving men. He said many out-of-town truckmen had come to New York to "make a cleaning" and were absolutely irresponsible.

BEATEN BY STRIKERS, BOY IS LEFT FOR DEAD

Stabbed and beaten, a 17-year-old boy was thrown by B. R. T. strikers into a vacant lot at Broadway and Conway Street yesterday and left for dead. This was the most serious of disorders that developed during the fifth day of the strike, although there were many attempts to injure passengers and police riding on elevated and surface cars.

According to the police, Jacob Kline of 1,733 Norman Street, Long Island City, was passing the East New York car barns early yesterday morning, when he was attacked by a party of strikers. The police said the strikers apparently thought the lad was a strikebreaker. Kline, frightened by the sudden rush of men, attempted to run to safety, but was caught and knocked down repeatedly. Policemen passing the vacant lot discovered the boy's unconscious form. There was a deep cut in the boy's neck and he was removed to the Kings County Hospital, where last night it was said he was not expected to recover.

The boy who was killed on Wednesday during a strike riot in Coney Island was identified yesterday as Abraham Hanover, 13, of 40 East Third Street, Manhattan. Identification was made by his father, Samuel, a butcher, in the Coney Island Hospital Morgue.

Because of the strict measures of the police in halting disturbances a committee of strikers called at the office of District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Kings and complained that the police had used unnecessary harshness toward them. They cited several cases, and Mr. Lewis said he would reserve comment until he saw what sort of evidence came out in court in the cases instanced.

When the first trolley car left the East New York barns yesterday morning at 6 o'clock several strikers and their sympathizers congregated near the structure, threw stones at the car. No damage was done and nobody was hit. The police cleared the crowd from the vicinity of the barn and kept a police line a block away. Similar lines were established at all the barns when it was found that the police could better cope with the strikers.

The first jail sentence growing out of disorder in the strike was imposed on Albert Nathanson of 91 Dumont Avenue, a striking motorman. He was sentenced by Magistrate Folwell to ten days in the workhouse on a charge of disorderly conduct. At Fulton Street and Myrtle Avenue on Wednesday Nathanson was accused of shouting "scabs" and "rats" and other abusive language at strikebreaker-manned cars. Sergeant Keller of the Adams Street Station, who arrested the former motorman, said that Nathanson resisted arrest.

Richard W. Butler of 108 Utica Avenue was before Magistrate Dodd in the Adams Street Court on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was paroled for examination today. The charge against Butler was shouting at a surface car crew and passengers: "Remember the Malbone wreck. You are riding with a lot of scabs and rats."

Joseph L. Louro of 419 Twelfth Street and Tony Ricci of 179 Fourth Avenue were two other strikers held in this court.

Bernard Cappadonna of 630 President Street, was held in $2,000 bail for the Grand Jury, charged with violating the Penal Code covering damage to railroad property. He was accused of putting metal slugs in the door-opening mechanism of a subway train.

Cries of "scab," alleged to have been uttered by Joseph Campione, a theatre ticket dealer, of 385 Warren Street, Brooklyn, caused the arraignment in Flatbush Court of Policeman Daniel J. Mullin of the Bergen Street Station said Campione tried to force his way into a surface car at Flatbush and Sixth Avenues, attempting to attack the motorman, and that the policeman said he was kicked on the shins. The theatre ticket dealer was held in $500 bail.

Eight strikers were before Magistrate Nolan in the Fifth Avenue Court. Two of them were sentenced to ten days apiece, while the others were held in $500 bail each for examination today. Five were up in the Gates Avenue Court. Four were held in $500 bail, while Nathan Wishkoff, a striking motorman, of 337 Hooper Street was held in $2,000 bail for examination on Sept. 7 by Magistrate McCloskey. Wishkoff, according to the complaint against him, hurled a brick at a Ralph Avenue car. The missile hit Policeman John Harron of the Ralph Avenue Station, who made the charge of felonious assault.

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT RETORTS TO COLONEL

Says No One Party Won the War —He Believes League Issue Will Be Made Clear.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 2.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for Vice President, told an audience here tonight, closing the first half of a three days' tour of the State, that "the issue of the League of Nations as against no League of Nations or as against some substitute, wholly indefinite, will appear clear to the American people."

During his address the nominee, apparently referring to a recent speech by his distant relative, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., in this State, said:

"One of the most unfortunate efforts of political campaigns is the tendency on the part of partisan speakers to arrogate to their own party the credit for everything good and to assign to the other party the blame for everything that has not been satisfactory. I say this with reference to a certain type of speaker which exists in all parties. It is exemplified by some who claim that one party or the other was responsible for the winning of the great war.

"I firmly believe, however, that blind partisanship is rapidly disappearing, especially now that the women of America have been accorded the franchise. Most men and women will vote this Autumn with the realization that the question at issue is the governing of the United States during the coming four years.

"The voters are more apt than ever before to read history truly. They will agree, I firmly believe, that the part of America in the great war was a national part; that the war was not won by Democrats or Republicans, but that when the crisis came men of all parties joined forces with the sole determination of bringing the war to a victorious conclusion."

business, and some one should be there as his representative on the Tariff Commission," he exclaimed.

In upholding the wisdom of having a farmer on the Interstate Commerce Commission the Governor related how last year Ohio spent a vast sum of money to clean up transportation conditions.

"And there is not a man on the commission who knows anything about farming. I am not criticising the policy, I am merely contrasting what ought to be with what has been, he said. "If we wanted cars to move grain some good, hard-headed farmer would know what we were talking about when we made that request."

The Governor, speaking as farmer to farmer, congratulated the delegation on a determination to work out better things in accordance with the extension of progress into industry and Government.

"The fertility of soil is improved by plowing up hardpan with a few sticks of dynamite, and the real function of a progressive is to break up that hardpan that is the spirit of 'let it alone.' The time is here when the farmer must follow the same line of efficiency that the manufacturer has taken. The manufacturer is your competitor for labor and you cannot meet that competition unless you organize your business along the same modern fundamental lines the manufacturer is organized on. You have got to buy co-operatively in America, and if you develop your purchasing department and continue to advance your production, you have another department to give your attention to.

"You farmers must be protected against agencies that are upsetting the laws of supply and demand" was the Governor's introduction to a discussion of the necessity of cold storage regulation. "We want an increase in storage facilities, but we want the Government to keep an eye on it," he continued. "The time has come for the Federal Government to regulate it. As it is now, they buy when you have to sell, and they sell your product to the consumer as they want to sell it. Such maniqulation has led many city people to look, without any justification, on the farmer as a profiteer."

IRISH CAPTURE PLAN OF BRITISH ARMY

TWO MORE DIE IN BELFAST

Rioting Continued Late Wednesday Night, but Abated Yesterday—Call MacSwiney Appeals Useless.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—A Sinn Fein raiding party invaded the Royal Air Force headquarters at Baldoyle, near Dublin, Saturday night, and carried off a large number of secret military documents, including the army code and cipher used at the present time, according to the Daily Mail.

It is declared that the coup was the most daring and important that has been attempted in Ireland since the present unrest in that country began.

Among the papers stolen, it is said, were orders relating to the joint operation of the army, navy, Air Force and the Royal Irish Constabulary; the scheme of Irish defense plans, the details for lighting airdromes for night flying, and proposals for new developments of the Royal Air Force in Ireland. Revolvers, ammunition and field glasses were also taken.

BELFAST, Sept. 2.—There was no serious disturbance in Belfast today, the result largely of the firm action of the military authorities. Strong pickets occupy all the best tactical positions, and in face of this display of force the rowdy elements have subsided.

General Bainbridge, the competent military authority, is attempting to end evictions, and in a proclamation he promises to bring to justice all persons responsible for serving unauthorized notices to quit, accompanied as they usually are by threats to destroy houses and furniture.

The death roll as a result of the riots in the city is now 28.

This morning a big meeting of shipyard workers on Queen's Island decided to suggest to General Bainbridge that special constables should be armed and equipped. They passed a resolution addressed to Lieut.-Col. Sir James Craig, M.P., who will attend a meeting of the Ulster Unionist Council tomorrow, in which it was declared that the Sinn Fein element had been allowed to arm themselves to the teeth. The resolution expressed the conviction that the time had arrived for the Ulster Volunteer Force to be mobilized and supplied with arms and ammunition in conjunction with the military.

BELFAST, Sept. 2 (Associated Press).—Snipers fired into a dense crowd shortly before 11 o'clock last night near the Crumlin Road jail, and for a time panic reigned in that section of the city. One civilian was fatally injured by a bullet fired by one of the snipers, and although soldiers were rushed at once to the scene and pursued the man who did the shooting, he made his escape.

During a small riot in Dover Street, where hostile crowds gathered during the late evening, one man was seriously wounded.

Police Raid Many Dublin Houses.

DUBLIN, Sept. 2.—Numerous private houses, stores, public buildings and schools were raided by the police and military in Dublin last night.

The places raided included the offices of Arthur Griffith's paper, "Young Ireland"; the Clontarf Town Hall, the residences of relatives of Sinn Feiners and the publishing establishment of M. H. Gill & Son, who are the principal Catholic publishers in Dublin.

CLAREMORRIS, Sept. 2. — Serious damage was done at Ballaghadereen last night by fire and shooting, following upon an attack on the police by sixty armed men, in which one constable and one civilian were shot dead.

The second constable, McCarthy, who was reported dangerously wounded last night, died this morning.

BRUNCRANA, County Donegal, Sept. 2.—While the Postmaster and seven assistants were sorting the mail this morning ten armed men entered the Post Office and compelled the staff to stand facing the wall.

Three raiders stood on guard while the others rifled the mails, taking letters for the police, naval and military authorities. The raiders then departed unmolested.

APPEALS FOR MAYOR USELESS.

Greenwood Says They Will Not Be Heeded—MacSwiney Weaker.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The condition of Lord Mayor MacSwiney, as announced late tonight at Brixton Prison was without change. He was said to be extremely weak.

Mrs. MacSwiney and the Mayor's two sisters, Mary and Annie, took turns at the bedside watching during the day.

"I feel that the end is near," said one of the sisters this morning. "He realizes that he is very low and asked me this morning to read to him from the Devotional Manual, 'Certain Thoughts on Death.'"

But for two hours' sleep last night the Mayor would have been dead this morning, said his brother. This was the twenty-first day of his fast.

Appeals in behalf of MacSwiney will not be recognized by the British Government, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, strongly intimated in an interview with the correspondent of The London Times at Lucerne today. Sir Hamar also indicated that the Government would unswervingly adhere to its Irish policy.

"None of the mercy which some seek to invoke for the Lord Mayor," said the Chief Secretary, "was shown the eighty policemen who have lost their lives in Ireland.

"The present lawlessness in Ireland," The Times correspondent quotes Sir Hamar as declaring, "is the work of a small body of men, who are striving, by carefully planned anarchy, to impose secession from the British Empire on 80 per cent. of the people of Ireland, who do not want to secede."

Sir Hamar declared that if the Sinn Fein "had been willing to accept anything less than complete Irish independence, Premier Lloyd George's proposal to meet Irish leaders would not have remained unanswered."

He reiterated that the Government was willing to grant Ireland any form of government acceptable to the majority of the people, so long as the rights of the Empire should be employed to prevent secession in Ireland.

Aberdeen Writes to The Times.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Marquess of Aberdeen, twice Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, has written a letter on the Irish crisis in which he suggests that immediate steps be taken to effect a reversal of the policy of coercion, and urges the prompt release of the Lord Mayor of Cork.

"To compare his case with that of a criminal designing to escape punishment is not only callous, but shows deplorable inability to understand the spirit and motives which led this young man to what is in essence an act of self-sacrifice for the sake of a cause in which with all his heart and soul he believes," says the Marquess.

Loyal Coalition Decries Interference.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The Loyal Coalition, of which Senator Lloyd is President, today sent to Secretary of State Colby a telegraphic protest against intercession in the case of Terence McSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, who is on a hunger strike in an English jail.

"The organization with which he is suffering is self-inflicted. The case is not in any sense a proper concern of the Government of the United States," the protest said.

The Loyal Coalition, which has its headquarters here, was organized six months ago for the "purpose of carrying on an educational campaign against all hyphenated interests which seek to dominate our country, disrupt our relations with friendly nations, especially with the British Commonwealth, and annul the good results of the late war."

Its membership is limited to American citizens. Its principal activities since organization have been in opposition to the Sinn Fein movement.

MILAN, Sept. 2.—The industrial crisis is assuming graver proportions. The Employers' National Syndicate has proclaimed a general lockout in the mechanical and metallurgical trades all over Italy. Meantime the factory-seizing movement is fast spreading from Milan to Turin, Rome, Naples and other big centres.

When the administration boards of the principal metallurgical concerns in Turin tried to enforce the lockout yesterday thousands of workers stormed the gates, scaled the walls and took possession of the extensive establishments belonging to the Fiat Company, a single one which employs more than 10,000.

The workmen further occupied the vast machinery shops, aeronautical building and yards of the Ansaldo firm and

HARDING DEMANDS TEAM GOVERNMENT

THEY PLAY GAME IN MARION

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 2.—A one-man team, playing for the United States, "muffed disappointingly in our domestic affairs and then struck out at Paris," Senator Harding told the Chicago National League team which put on an exhibition game for him here this afternoon.

The Senator has always been a baseball fan and he has often complained that one of the hardships of a front porch campaign is that he could not see a big league game. So William Wrigley, Jr., and A. D. Lasker, joint owners of the Chicago Cubs, promised to bring their team to Marion, and today they made good on their promise, and the Senator and Mrs. Harding and one-quarter of the able-bodied population of Marion were at the ball park to witness an exhibition game between the Cubs and the Marjon team.

"I want to tell you, Senator Harding, of the very great pleasure we have in coming from Chicago to your home and that we anticipated with the greatest pleasure the game this afternoon. We are glad of the opportunity to be here, Senator Harding, and greet our next President. We have heard that you are a very enthusiastic fan and that Mrs. Harding is also. That is the sort of people we like to play for, and we are taking particular pleasure in having two such fans to play before today.

"Every man here this morning is keen to do his very best, Senator, for you, for Mrs. Harding and for your friends this afternoon."

Pays Tribute to Baseball.

Senator Harding responded:

"Cubs, I pay to you my tribute to baseball, because I like the game, just like every other real American. It has been in the blood for over a half century and it has helped us as a people. Of course, there has been a vast improvement since the early game, but I am sure it is not reactionary to remind you that you and I try to hit them and the big thing is to reach the home plate. There are progressive ideas, but it rejoices the average crowd of rooters to note an old-fashioned Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance.

"I like the tension of a tight game, I like to see the balls go over the plate and see decisions follow. I admire the skill of the pitcher, but I like to see the ball hit. I like the rooters. It is great to be a rooter. It is fine to see him recognizing a great play, but I like his partisanship, his zeal for the home team, his eagerness to help win. There is soul in his interest and he works as hard as the players. That is the explanation of baseball popularity. We are all partisans of some team. I am sure I rejoiced as much as Garry Herman when the Reds copped last year. It adds to the absorbing spirit of the enthusiastic partisan. I never saw a game without taking sides, and never want to see one. There is the soul of the game. I feel the same way in big national matters. I like to think of America first. I want our country to float the championship pennant in the contest for human achievement.

"You can't win a ball game with a one-man team. Games are won by good pitching, good catching, good fielding, good defense, good offense, hitting them out and team work. I like a pitcher who puts the ball over and trusts his fielders to play their stations. I like a team that knows its signals, and I salute the player who ignores the individual record and goes out to win the game. No one man can win a pennant. It can't be done in baseball or in the conduct of government. From either viewpoint the game is too big and too fast and too many rooters concerned.

Wants Team Play in Government.

"Maybe it is old-fashioned, but I am for team play. This harmony of endeavor where every man plays his part, no matter who is starring, is what wins in baseball and will win victories for these United States.

"I am opposing the one-man play for the nation. Too much fanning out, too much unpreparedness, for war or for peace. Nobody has confidence in a ball team which is untrained. National unpreparedness for war cost us many precious lives and endless billions in waste, and unpreparedness for peace is costing billions more and holding us in anxiety and uncertainty.

"It is my observation that the national team, now playing for the United States, played loosely and muffed disappointingly in our domestic affairs and then struck out at Paris. No one can dispute the American team played badly when it got on a foreign field.

"As a spokesman for the Republican Party, I am urging team play in government on the home grounds, with all the home fans behind us, and team play when we represent America in the all-the-world series. There are too many men batting above .300 to rely on one hitter.

"And I am advocating something more —play according to the rules. It is the only fair way, because the rules apply to all players precisely alike. The rules in the supreme American game are in the Federal Constitution, and the umpire is the American people. Stick to the rules, hold fast to the Constitution, and we can be sure we are right.

"There was a meeting of League officials where they sought to change the rules. In the parlance of the game, the contending team tried a squeeze play and expected to secure six to one against the United States. But the American Senate was ready with the ball at the plate, and we are still flying our pennant which we won at home and hold respected throughout the world.

"Hail to the team play of America! Hail to the hundred millions of American rooters! The citizenship of the Republic expect Uncle Sam to put them over or bat them out, as the situation requires, and counts upon team play in government, team play in citizenship and everybody interested in America first."

There were 7,000 Marionites grouped around the diamond when the Harding party arrived, and they gave the Senator a rousing reception. Descending from the grand stand, the Senator slipped on a glove and caught a dozen passes from Grover Cleveland Alexander. And he caught every ball, although Alexander didn't use his wicked twirls, but it was good for the movies.

Having "warmed up," Senator Harding stood in the pitcher's box and struck out Flack, Cub's right fielder. It was a technic. strikeout, for both Flack and the umpire were generous. While the Marion catcher had to reach wide for the last two throws.

Refuses Plea of Delegation of Teachers.

MARION, Ohio, Sept. 2 (Associated Press).—Dividing his time between work and play, Senator Harding today made two front porch speeches, held several conferences on political issues and campaign management, and then went out to see a baseball game which was played in Marion as a special compliment to his enthusiasm as a fan.

In an address to a delegation representing various teachers' organizations he advocated better compensation for the teaching profession. He declined, however, to accede to a request made by his callers that he indorse the Smith-Towner bill providing for a Federal Department of Education and larger Federal participation in school financing.

The delegation of teachers which called on the Senator was headed by William T. McCoy of Chicago, and included representatives of the National Educational Association, the American Federation of Teachers and several other organizations of larger membership. In reply to the request for an indorsement of the Smith-Towner measure, the nominee said he had been unable to study it closely enough to express an opinion.

"It is rather a curious indication of the trend toward Federal control," he continued, "that at this very moment not less than four or five new Cabinet officers are being proposed. I am not a miracle of human intelligence and cannot pretend to say to you today what ought to be done in each particular instance.

"I am not a student of the Smith-Towner bill and I could not be so unfair as glibly to pledge to you any specific action. But I do pledge you the most sympathetic concern and a determination, if responsibility comes upon me, to call the attention of the Congress to the pending crisis in American education, and to urge the best thought of the country to its early solution."

Knox Confers with Harding.

Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, former Secretary of State and a leader among the irreconcilables of the Senate during the treaty fight, was one of those with whom the nominee conferred during the day. The country's foreign policy and particularly the proposal of Senator Harding for a new association of nations was the subject of their talk, but the specific considerations of the conference were not revealed.

In a statement tonight Senator Knox declared his conviction that the foreign policy of the Wilson Administration would be repudiated at the November election and that Senator Harding's stand would commend itself to the voters of the country.

"The one great thing to be hoped for in the campaign," said Senator Knox, "is an adequate appreciation of its opportunities for the Republicans of all sections to record their protest against the maladministration of national affairs during the last eight years.

"Senator Harding has made it clear that we are not independent if we surrender any of the functions of government to an alien council, and but one thing can excuse such surrender of our independence, and that is our conscious, willingness to do so. Only an avowal of lethargy and indifference to the highest duties of enlightened government can justify transferring their discharge to strangers.

"You cannot conduct a political campaign on a specific foreign policy. But you can on the question as to whether our foreign policies, whatever they are, shall be submitted to foreign control.

"Senator Harding's fervent reverence for his country, its institutions and its people, will guide him aright, and, with due regard for the spirit of the age his wisdom will reflect the wisdom of the ages in matters of vital import."

ROOSEVELT MISQUOTED.

Candidate Tells What He Really Said at Butte About League Voting.

KITTERY, Me., Sept. 2.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for Vice President, who began today a three days' speaking tour of Maine in connection with the State campaign, made the following statement to The Associated Press before beginning his campaigning:

"On my return to the East I find that wide publicity has unfortunately been given an erroneous report of a speech made by me in Butte, Mont., nearly three weeks ago in regard to the votes of various American republics in the Assembly of the League of Nations. I feel certain that the misquotation was entirely unintentional.

"It has been charged that I declared that the United States would, if a member of the League, 'control' or have the votes of at least twelve West Indian, Central or South American republics.

"I should think it would be obvious that one who has been so largely in touch with foreign relations through the Navy Department during the last seven years could not make a deliberate false statement of this kind.

"What I actually stated and what I have continued to state is this: The League of Nations Assembly gives a vote to all nations irrespective of their size. Every American republic, including the smaller ones in the West Indies and Central and South America, could have such a vote by membership in the League. History has shown that the international interests of the United States and at least a dozen of these republics are broadly identical. Our course has been their course and theirs ours. This has been abundantly proved in the past. It is also true in my judgment that in any grave international question coming before the Assembly of the League of Nations the United States would vote with these republics and they would vote with the United States. This is based on the fact of common interest and of historical precedent.

"I feel certain that if in the assembly the British Empire with six votes were to cast them in a manner contrary to American interests the United States would find the great majority of the other American republics would be in accord with our position because of mutual interests.

"All of this discussion, however, is of very secondary importance in view of the clear statement in Article V. of the League of Nations, 'decisions at any meeting of the assembly or of the council shall require the agreement of all the members of the League represented in the meeting.' Furthermore, it is well known that the council is the true governing body of the League. In the council the British Empire has one vote and the United States has one vote.

"Obvious attempts have been made to stir up trouble over the misquotation of my speech. I have received no word from the State Department and the representative of no other American republics know the facts and realize that no alleged statement of the kind charged could have a word of truth in it. The good-will and understanding is too deep-seated to be disturbed by a misquotation."

JOHNSON STILL SILENT.

Republican Committee Gets Many Requests for Californian.

It was announced at headquarters of the Republican National Committee last night that no word had been received from United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California to indicate whether he would take the stump for Senator Harding. It was admitted that more demands for campaign speeches by Senator Johnson than by any other campaign orator were reaching the Speakers' Bureau. Next in demand, it was stated, was Mrs. Corinne Robinson, a sister of the late Colonel Roosevelt, whose plea for the nomination of General Wood caused a thrill in the Republican National Convention last June. Mrs. Robinson will take the stump for Mr. Harding.

The intensive speaking campaign, it was announced yesterday, would begin on Sept. 17, which will be celebrated as Constitution Day, as it marks the 133d anniversary of the adoption of the United States Constitution. On that day Senator Harding will deliver from his front porch at Marion, Ohio, what is intended as one of the most important addresses of the campaign. "Back to the Constitution" will be the dominant theme. On the same date Republican campaign orators will speak in all parts of the country.

The Republicans just at present are focusing on Maine, where a full set of State officers are to be elected a week from next Monday. The Republicans in Maine, according to all reports, are having a real fight on their hands. Besides the local talent, the National Committee has sent about thirty orators to the Maine front and will keep them there until the eve of election.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Sept. 2.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., announced at her home today that she would take the stump for her husband, who is running for renomination as member of the Assembly from the Second District. Mrs. Roosevelt was Miss Eleanor B. Alexander.

Teacher Named for the Assembly.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Judson S. Wright of Falconer, President of the State Teachers' Association, was designated today as the Republican primary candidate for member of Assembly in the first Chautauqua District to succeed Herman L. Ames, deceased.

WOMEN FOR LEAGUE, SHE WARNS HARDING

10,000,000 Pledged to Vote for a President on That Issue, Declares Mrs. Moore.

GET WOMEN'S VIEW ABROAD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—That the women of America should vote in the Presidential election for the League of Nations is the opinion of Mrs. Philip North Moore of St. Louis, President of the Delegation of the National Council of Women, who are on their way to Christiania to take part with the women of twenty-five other nations in a great women's conference.

Mrs. Moore does not say definitely, "vote for Cox." She herself is a Republican and declares that she is scarcely yet ready to take that step. But, in her own words, "the declaration of Senator Harding has put millions of women in a great quandary."

"It has twice been the unanimous decision of our council," said Mrs. Moore, "that we must have the League of Nations, either as signed at Versailles, or modified by reservations that protect our constitutional rights. And now Senator Harding has declared definitely against the League.

"Unless he modifies that attitude and declares himself ready to accept the League principle, it will be impossible for 10,000,000 women represented in the National Council, pledged as they are to the League, to support him."

To Renew League Pledge Abroad.

At the international conference in Christiania, the resolution pledging the woman of America to support the League, which was adopted at their conference in March, will be presented, and Mrs. Moore is confident that this resolution represents the consensus of women's opinion in America.

"We want to go to Christiania," she said, "not apologizing for our country to the women whose countries have accepted the League covenant, but standing for the women of America as supporters of the League."

Mrs. Moore does not believe either in Senator Harding's proposal for an entirely new League.

"There are no sufficient reasons," she said, "why the present covenant should not be adopted, with reservations making the position of America clear, and there are a great many reasons why other countries would not agree to dispense with the covenant in order to accept Mr. Harding's new league.

"The peace structure has been built up with too much patient care to permit its being torn down to make way for some entirely new edifice which has as yet nobody's complete approval."

Will Report on European Opinion.

Members of the delegation of which Mrs. Moore is at the head are making a minute and complete study of opinion with regard to League matters in all European countries they are visiting, and at Christiania they expect to add enormously to the knowledge already obtained.

Before their return to America they will draft a formal report and on that report they expect many women, especially among those not already affiliated with any party, will make their decision as to how they will vote.

Though as yet unwilling to believe that Senator Harding's attitude is so definitely taken as to be irreconcilable with the women's pledge, Mrs. Moore, as a Republican, is filled with concern.

"He will have to alter his stand," she said, "if he wishes to secure the women's vote, and before taking their decision which candidate to support all American women will have to watch carefully their attitude on this most vital of all questions."

MRS. CATT SURE OF VOTING.

Asserts Action by Tennessee House Can't Block Suffrage Amendment.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, said yesterday at her headquarters, 171 Madison Avenue, that there was no possibility of the action of the Tennessee House of Representatives in reconsidering their ratification of the woman suffrage amendment invalidating the amendment. Mrs. Catt said that the most the opponents of women suffrage could hope to accomplish was to raise some legal technicality, which she said would be of no effect.

"If such a thing is done, the suffragists will be ready for them," Mrs. Catt said. "We have retained the best lawyers obtainable in each State where such a point is likely to be raised. We have retained Charles E. Hughes to act in any Federal question that may be involved.

TENNESSEE HOUSE ACTS.

Will Send Governor Transcript of Non-Concurrence on Suffrage.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 2.—The Tennessee House of Representatives adopted today, 48 to 36, a motion to furnish the Governor with a sworn transcript of the action taken by the House Tuesday in non-concurring in the suffrage amendment resolution.

The motion included a request that the Governor certify this transcript to the Secretary of State at Washington.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Governor Coolidge issued a proclamation tonight requesting that "every possible facility be extended for the registration of women" in this State.

SAYS STATE CAN CURE ILLS.

Judge Miller Holds Its Police Power Adequate for All Problems.

LOWVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Nathan L. Miller, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, declared in a speech at the Lewis County Fair today that the solution of problems, involving the very life of the people of the State was within the police power of the State.

He asserted that there was no problem more insistently demanding practical, constructive and energetic solution than that of food production and distribution, and said that co-operation between the producer and the consumer was the first essential.

Turning to the problem of milk production and distribution, Judge Miller said that the problem was how to eliminate the waste and needless expense for the benefit of producer and consumer.

"Interference of the State should be limited to the necessities of the case," Judge Miller said. "The State should never undertake to do what the citizens can do as well or better. The State should not interfere with individual initiative and effort more than than to clear the way, to prevent oppression and abuse, to insure equality and give economic laws free operation.

"We ought not to allow any preconceived notions to interfere with the wisest solution of the problem. The police power of the State is limited only by the public necessity."

HEARS ROOT PLAN IS 'WITHOUT TEETH'

London's Understanding Is That It Is Far from Providing the Tribunal Harding Hoped For.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Senator Harding's speech at Marion, declaring his readiness to welcome any machinery in the League Covenant, which could be used properly and advantageously, and his suggestion that such machinery could be found in a "Hague tribunal with teeth in it," aroused some expectations here that the international jurisprudence scheme which Elihu Root advocated at the recent Hague conferences was a considerable advance from the ill-fated proposals from the Russian Czar that led Andrew Carnegie to erect his Palace of Peace.

The proposals, submitted by Mr. Root and approved by the Hague Conference of Jurists, have been embodied in a document which is being issued to all governments by the Council of the League of Nations. In its covering letter the Council of the league does not express any opinion on the merits of the plan, but makes some observations that may be described as recommendations for its consideration. Full details of the plan will not be made public before Sept. 15, but, according to the information available, there is little in it to justify Senator Harding's supposition that it will provide a Hague "tribunal with teeth in it."

SEES COX WINNER IN WEST.

Judge Marx of Cincinnati Says He Will Carry Ohio by 75,000.

A Democratic sweep of the West and a Democratic majority of 75,000 for Governor James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for President, in his home State, Ohio, was forecast at Democratic National Headquarters yesterday by Judge Robert S. Marx of the Superior Court of Cincinnati. Judge Marx, who now presides over the tribunal in which for a number of years ex-President William Howard Taft administered justice, visited the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee after a tour of the West, which, he said, had taken him into nineteen States.

"The current belief in all the States I traveled through is that the Democratic Party is on an easy road to victory," said Judge Marx.

"Governor Cox of Ohio is a greater asset to the Democratic Party than was realized when he was nominated," said Judge Marx. "He has grown steadily in the esteem of the people, and has talked to them frankly, modestly and convincingly—has shown himself to be aggressive, farseeing and courageous. He will surely carry Ohio by at least 75,000. The Republican Party in Ohio has a bitter factional fight on within its ranks between the soldier element and the Old Guard. The result of this fight has been the kicking off the Republican ticket all the soldier candidates.

"The soldiers of the Republican Party are extremely bitter and resent the treatment accorded them by the Old Guard.

"Governor Cox will receive a great many Republican votes. The Democrats have named Captain Thomas Morrow of the Ohio division to run against Stephens for Congress. Morrow will surely be elected.

"W. A. Julian, the Democratic candidate for United States Senator in Ohio, is certain to be elected.

BUDENNY'S DRIVE ENDS IN DISASTER

THOUSANDS TAKEN CAPTIVE

Loss in Killed and Wounded Heavy —Bolsheviki Also Badly Defeated on Other Fronts.

WARSAW, Sept. 2 (Associated Press).—The Bolshevist army of General Budenny, noted cavalry leader, was annihilated during the operations in the Lemberg sector which began Aug. 29 and ended Sept. 1, says the Polish official statement on military operations issued today.

General Budenny's mounted men had been endeavoring to break through the Polish lines and march upon Lublin. They had virtually completely an encircling movement against Zamosz, midway between Lublin and Lemberg, but were outflanked by the Poles and attacked from the east. The engagement resulted in the defeat of the Soviet forces along the entire centre of the front, and the Russians were compelled to retreat in disorder with the Poles in close pursuit.

Sixteen Guns Among Booty.

The Bolsheviki lost heavily in killed and wounded, adds the statement, the Poles capturing thousands of prisoners, sixteen guns and enormous quantities of material.

The fighting centred in the Zamosz region, the battle taking the form of numerous cavalry clashes, with the infantry filling in the gaps and attacking all along the line simultaneously. The operations were carried out in accordance with the Polish battle plan, which had led the Russians into traps where they were attacked from all sides.

Besides announcing the victory of the Poles over Budenny in the Zamosz battle, the communiqué reports successes along the entire centre and southern fronts, where the Russians were bested in the fighting.

General Budenny's mounted army, the Polish statement says, had received absolute orders to break the front in the region of Zamosz and march upon Lublin, together with the Twelfth Soviet Army, which was also to pass to the offensive in the region of Cholm. Because of the advance of the Poles previously along the Bug, however, the offensive of the Twelfth Army was rendered impossible. The Soviet troops, concentrated in the region of Piszca, Smolar and Jagodin, were unable to stand under the Polish attack and retreated, leaving many prisoners in the hands of the Poles.

The first defeat upon the Budenny forces was inflicted by the Poles in the region of Grabowiec, just to the northeast of Zamosz, where a Bolshevist brigade had been massed. More than 200 prisoners were taken in this encounter.

Haller's Forces Outflanked Foe.

The decisive part in the battle was taken by the pursuit group of General Stanislas Haller, which had swung to the rear of Budenny's forces and was moving persistently in their tracks. General Haller's chief forces attacked in the direction of Zamosz from the east. General Budenny, realizing the danger, began to retreat. He met everywhere, however, the fighting Poles bent on surrounding him.

Battles also developed in the region of Wolice, Sniatycka, Miaczyna and Zawalewo, where the Russians, disregarding their enormous losses, repeatedly renewed their cavalry charges. The Budenny horsemen were defeated in all these battles, the Poles taking many prisoners, while several detachments which had succeeded in breaking through are now reported beating a scattered retreat with the Poles close on their heels.

Among the Russians killed were the Chief of Staff of the Fourth Division, two brigade commanders, several regimental commanders and twelve commissars. Of the captured material, two of the sixteen guns taken were heavy artillery pieces.

To the east of Lemberg, the statement adds, the Poles repulsed the Russians beyond the Bug after much fighting.

Co-operation between the Poles and Ukranians is declared to be a grave menace to the Bolsheviki, and it is said the latter have shown their appreciation of this by offering important concessions to Poland at the expense of Lithuania. These offers, it is asserted, were made by the representatives at semi-official conferences with members of the Polish peace delegation while it was in Minsk.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Russian Soviet forces endeavoring to encircle Lemberg have retired to the eastward under Polish pressure, says the Soviet official statement of Wednesday received today by wireless. Some successes for the Soviet troops are reported on the centre of the fighting front. The statement says:

"In the Cholm region (forty miles east of Lublin) we crossed to the right bank of the Western Bug near Opalin (fifty miles east of Lublin) and flung back the enemy to the left bank of the river.

"In the Vladimir-Volynski region, after occupying Hrubieszow (seventy miles southeast of Lublin) and developing our advance, we occupied a number of villages seven miles west of Hrubieszow.

"In the Sokal region (forty-five miles southeast of Hrubieszow) fighting is proceeding in our favor. In the Lemberg region, under enemy pressure, we retired somewhat to the east on the sector north of the Lemberg-Brody railway. In the Bereslav and Orlekhov regions (in the Crimea) we are engaged with the enemy, who is offering fierce resistance."

Red Sailors Ordered to Front Revolt.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—All available Bolshevist reserve forces have been ordered from Petrograd to the fighting area in the vicinity of Grodno during the last fortnight, according to information reaching the State Department today by cable from the Baltic region under date of Aug. 31.

An effort to mobilize sailors and to take them from their ships near Cronstadt for service on the Polish front resulted in a mutiny on Aug. 26, and a number of fatalities occurred as a result of the clash between the rioters and the Bolshevist troops and artillery. The uprisings were finally suppressed, but not until after the disorders had spread to Petrograd's suburbs.

POLES AND WRANGEL PLAN JOINT CAMPAIGN

Cossacks in Revolt Against Bolshevist Railroad to the Aral Sea.

WARSAW, Sept. 1.—Negotiations for joint operations by Polish and South Russian forces are going on between the Government and General Baron Wrangel.

TASHKENT, Asiatic Russia, Sept. 2 (via Harbin, Manchuria).—The railway from Aktiubinsk to the Aral Sea is in the hands of insurgent Cossacks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Official dispatches from Admiral McCully, at Sebastopol, fail to confirm Bolshevist reports of the defeat of General Wrangel in Stavrida, north of the Crimean Peninsula. The loss of Stavrida would be rather serious for General Wrangel, as it serves as his granary, and without it he would find it difficult to obtain sufficient food supplies for his army and the Crimean population as well as the refugees in the Crimea.

From the beginning of his campaign General Wrangel's strategy has had as its principal object the capture and retention of Stavrida, which was necessary in order to make the Crimea self-supporting. He has also been planning the occupation of the region north of Stavrida, which would furnish the Crimea with coal. If he should lose Stavrida, he would be dependent upon outside help to feed the overcrowded Crimea, and the supplies would have to come by sea. The quantity that might be obtained from foreign assistance, it was asserted, would be insufficient.

Strategically, Russians here affirm, General Wrangel, even if driven completely from Stavrida, can maintain his control over the Crimea against largely superior forces, as the neck of the peninsula is narrow, and he would have the assistance of the allied war vessels in the Black Sea, which are now engaging militarily in the campaign.

The report that the forces dispatched by General Wrangel across the Sea of Azov to the Kuban were annihilated is believed here to be probably true. It was General Wrangel's purpose, Russians here state, to use this expedition to incite insurrection among the Kuban people, whose sympathies are declared to be with General Wrangel. It is assumed that the detachment which landed was too small, and also that General Wrangel miscalculated the preparedness of the people to rise in revolt, as a miscarriage of an uprising would result in a massacre of the people by the Bolsheviki.

Russian authorities here do not view the situation with alarm, and reports are received with greater frequency telling of growing discontent in the areas abandoned by General Denikin last Spring. For this reason it is believed the Bolsheviki, in sending greater forces against General Wrangel, are trying to anticipate such eruption of the population in those regions.

SIBERIAN PARTIES TO MERGE.

Semenoff and Vladivostok Regimes Plan Unity Under Assembly.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—An agreement has been signed by General Semenoff and representatives of the Vladivostok Government providing for unification of the Semenoff and Vladivostok régimes under a National Assembly, the State Department was informed today.

Under the agreement Semenoff is reported as retaining his authority over the Cossacks and as commander of troops in the Transbaikal, but relinquishing all other powers.

General Semenoff, coincident with signature of the agreement, issued an appeal to all Russians not to submit to the Bolsheviki or to the former adherents of the Czar, proclaiming that the right to govern rested alone with the people.

WARSAW GREETS GIBSON.

American Minister Meets Witos, New Premier, for First Time.

WARSAW, Sept. 1 (Associated Press).—The first day in Warsaw of Hugh S. Gibson, United States Minister to Poland, after his visit to the United States was spent today in conferring with various Polish officials, including Premier Witos, whom Mr. Gibson met for the first time.

When Mr. Gibson arrived last night he was met at the station by a large delegation of Americans and Polish officials, the latter declaring Mr. Gibson one of the best friends the new republic ever had. Speeches were made at the station heartily welcoming the American Minister and expressing appreciation of all he did in Poland's behalf during his recent stay in the United States.

BALFOUR ATTACKS RUSSIA SOVIET NOTE

Denies Britain Ever Recognized Limitation of the Polish Army to 50,000.

NO CAUSE FOR INTERVENING

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Arthur Balfour's reply to the Russian note in regard to the Soviet's peace terms to Poland was issued today. The reply is a masterpiece of dialectics, and more than justifies the British Government's recourse to the methods of so-called open diplomacy, or, more correctly, propaganda, which were for long utilized only by the Soviet representatives.

Balfour points out how Tchitcherin was in error "in supposing that the British Government ever recognized that the limitation of the Polish Army to 50,000 men was a just term of peace. The British Government never expressed such an opinion. What it said was that this term would not be considered either by the British Government or the British people as sufficient ground for active intervention, a view which they felt bound in honor to express clearly and at once lest their silence should be misinterpreted by those who had to conduct peace negotiations on behalf of Poland at Minsk."

Balfour next refers to the Soviet Government's "astonishment" that the British Government should "disapprove of Poland being permitted to raise a supplementary armed force in the shape of a civic militia."

"This singular statement," says Balfour, "is evidently a jest, and neither requires nor deserves a reply, but it is a jest which seems intended to disguise the true character of a diplomatic transaction which certainly requires, though it has not received, an explanation from the Soviet Government."

Balfour recites the circumstances of the British inquiry regarding the Soviet Government's intentions toward Poland, and points out that in the Soviet's reply "no hint was given that a civic militia was to be selected from any particular class of the population, and that the choice of this class was to be imposed on the vanquished by its victorious enemy."

Balfour suggests that deceit was intended, but "instead of dealing with this crucial point M. Tchitcherin suggests in his dispatch that the objection felt by his Majesty's Government to the civil militia are due to the fact that it was to be composed of workmen. This is an error. Their objections would have been just as strong if it had to be composed of millionaires."

In conclusion Balfour says:

"Much of M. Tchitcherin's dispatch is occupied with a comparison between the condition of the wage earning population in Soviet Russia and in Great Britain, respectively. This is apparently based on the fact that there are inequalities of wealth in Great Britain, which in Russia are no longer to be found.

"Balfour does not doubt the statement, though he is not prepared to discuss Tchitcherin's inference which "seems quite irrelevant to the main purpose of this letter," but, speaking for himself, "he may perhaps be permitted to observe that he never for a moment questioned the complete efficacy of the Soviet methods for making men poor. It is in the more difficult and, in his view, more important task of making poor men richer that failure is to be feared."

GERMANY REJECTED ALLIANCE WITH SOVIET

Also Declined Proposals to Join Western Powers Against Reds, Dr. Simons Says.

BERLIN, Sept. 1 (Associated Press).—Dr. Walter Simons, the Foreign Minister, addressing the Reichstag Foreign Affairs Committee today, declared he had been urged to collaborate with the Russian Bolsheviki against the Western powers as a means of breaking the bonds imposed by the Treaty of Versailles but that after mature reflection he had rejected this course.

"If we had followed these exhortations," said the Foreign Minister, "Germany would immediately have become a theatre of war. Furthermore, the disastrous consequences which Bolshevism might be expected to bring with it would have fallen with double force upon Germany."

Dr. Simons said proposals also have been made that Germany co-operate with the Western powers against Russia, which he considered an equally impossible course.

AGREE ON RIGA FOR PARLEY.

Tchitcherin Gives Way to Poles on Resumption of Peace Negotiations.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—M. Tchitcherin, the Russian Soviet Foreign Minister, in a wireless message to Prince Sapieha, the Polish Foreign Minister, picked up by Paris this afternoon, accepts Riga as the scene of further peace negotiations between Russia and Poland.

WARSAW, Sept. 2 (Associated Press).—The members of the Polish peace delegation remaining in Minsk have been recalled to Warsaw. They will leave Minsk Friday and are expected here Saturday, joining the delegates already in Warsaw. The Polish representatives will then proceed to Riga or any other neutral place selected for the continuation of the Russo-Polish peace conference.

It is announced that the Poles are not considering any change in the personnel of the peace delegation for the renewed conference, although Prince Sapieha may find it necessary to accompany the delegates.

Definite counter-proposals by the Poles will be the first order of business when the conference meets. Prince Sapieha said no difficulty was expected on territorial questions. He declared the Poles would not agree to reparations unless the question was arranged on a mutual basis of the damage done by both sides, which Prince Sapieha said virtually meant there would be no reparations.

Disarmament was impossible for the Poles to accept, the Prince continued, Poland's attitude on this question being that no foreign nation had the right to interfere, as it was Poland's own business. Poland could not allow the national strength to be impaired by a foreign nation, he said, and would not give up control of the railroad line demanded by the Soviets in their fifteen peace points.

Prince Sapieha declared the Poles, as a result of their military successes, were not in the position of a defeated nation and, therefore, the Soviet fifteen points could not be insisted upon, discussion of them being virtually useless. Poland's original peace ideas and desires had not changed because of the improved military situation, the Foreign Minister said, and Poland wanted peace and needed peace. Prince Sapieha expressed the hope that a just peace would be the outcome of the renewed negotiations.

The Foreign Minister said Poland would make peace with the Soviet delegates whomsoever they represented—Ukrainia, Lithuania or other States—this not implying recognition of those States, however. Regarding territorial questions involving Lithuania, Vilna being the main question, Prince Sapieha refused to speak, but said he was hopeful Poland would come to a friendly agreement with Lithuania.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The Poles have occupied Seyny in Lithuania east of Suwalki, for strategic reasons, the Foreign Office announced today. The Poles also are advancing beyond Suwalki for the same reason, it was added.

POLES NOT WELCOMED IN LITHUANIAN TOWNS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Trouble between Poles and Lithuanians has begun. A few days ago, when the Poles entered Augustowo, just inside the Lithuanian border, they announced that they were welcomed by the inhabitants. As they moved further into the country they declared that their welcome at Suwalki and Seyny was "extraordinarily warm and enthusiastic." The Poles sent out this piece of true Oriental politeness by radio and so got a day's start on the blunt peasant press bureau of Lithuania, which had to use the telegraph.

The Lithuanians declared that their detachment in the town of Augustowo had been forcibly expelled by Poles, as it had been too small to fight, but that at Seyny and Suwalki their troops had resisted stoutly and only been forced to retire when the Poles brought up reserves.

The Lithuanian statement bears the stamp of truth, especially as regards Seyny, where about this time last year the Poles in superior force occupied the district, drove out the Lithuanian soldiers and performed a small but efficient pogrom complicated by religious differences on the Lithuanian civil inhabitants. Any enthusiastic welcome the Poles got in Seyny was probably from local Poles who doubtless have been getting pogromed somewhat themselves in the few weeks of the Lithuanian-Bolshevist occupation and were sincerely delighted to see their country men back again.

Legally speaking the Poles have some justification. They claim that as the Lithuanians allowed the Bolsheviki the use of the area in question for military operations they are also entitled to use it. It is stated semi-officially that the Poles do not intend to keep the territory, but simply to cross it in their enveloping march on Grodno, and that they have given the French assurances they will make no attempt to re-occupy Vilna.

The question is really more important than it looks. Polish conduct will give a fair measure of how far they are trustworthy in other respects. Also from the French viewpoint Lithuania is a key State. If as a result of Polish oppression Lithuania is driven into the arms of Germany and Russia, all the fuss the French have been making about the danger of a common frontier between Russia and Germany is simply a waste of breath. Lithuania will be a perfectly good link.

Last year it was nothing but the personal influence of the American and British Baltic Commissioners, Commander Gade and Colonel Tallents that prevented Lithuanian indignation against Polish injustices from breaking all bonds. The Lithuanians believed that America and Britain would stand up for them, and, as they did not much like either the Germans or the Bolsheviki, they kept quiet. But they will not go through the same thing quietly again. No fair but wholly untruthful words about enthusiastic welcomes will appease them. They regard the Polish occupation of their country as the invasion of a foreign enemy. Unless the Poles give prompt guarantees that the occupation will be temporary and that Vilna will be unmolested, the confusion in this much-troubled section of Europe will shortly be more confounded.

Polish Finance Minister in Paris.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Ladislas Grabski, former Premier of Poland and at present Minister of Finance, arrived in Paris today to negotiate a commercial treaty with France and arrange payment for war material. The newspapers consider M. Grabski's mission as of considerable political and economic importance.

SOVIET SPOKESMEN DENOUNCE AMERICA

ASK FOR MEDICAL RELIEF

Dudley Field Malone Wants Ban on Hospital Supplies Lifted—Debs Called "His Red Excellency."

The United States was denounced for refusing to permit medical aid shipments to Russia by speakers who addressed a crowd of 8,000 persons in Madison Square Garden last night under the auspices of the Soviet Medical Relief Committee, which plans to purchase supplies here for shipment to the Soviet Government. The speakers were Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, unrecognized Soviet Ambassador; Dudley Field Malone, candidate for Governor on the Farmer-Labor ticket; Arturo Giovannitti, Secretary of the Italian Chamber of Labor; Conoel Rouston Bek, Norman M. Thomas, a Presbyterian clergyman, and Dr. J. L. Magnes, who presided.

The crowd cheered Martens for fully fifteen minutes before permitting him to speak. The demonstration included the chanting of the Soviet anthem. Martens then read his speech haltingly in English and afterward in Russian.

"There is much talk of Bolshevist propaganda against America," he said. "There is no such thing. But there is propaganda against Soviet Russia. We are not afraid of it. We would gladly open the doors of Soviet Russia wide for any one to come there and work with us in the field of science and education. We would not ask them whether they believed in the Socialist system so long as they were willing to work with us. We would take our chances with the influences of American engineers, teachers and skilled workers. In the field of industrial development there is much American influence we would welcome.

"America might have been expected to refrain from interference with the course of historic events in Russia. There was a tremendous opportunity for the practical and technical intelligence of America to aid in the building of the new Russia.

"Only in such an age of sophistry and deceit could the barbarous blockade of Soviet Russia have been maintained; only such an age could have attempted to construct the 'cordon sanitaire,' which Lloyd George, himself cynically acquiescing in it, truly termed a 'death cordon.'"

Malone Denounces Colby Note.

Dudley Field Malone was cheered loudly as he declared:

"Our Government has made itself directly responsible for the murder of thousands of Russian people. Its support of Kolchak, Denikin and Wrangel was lawless and immoral and without the least authority from the American people. The latest note on Soviet Russia showed clearly that the present Administration is the greatest reactionary force in the world. I hope the sadly depleted forces of the Department of Justice are busily writing down what I say when I tell them that the blood of countless Russians is upon the heads and consciences of the leaders of the present Administration."

Giovannitti declared that the meeting was not called to beg for recognition for Soviet Russia on grounds of humanitarianism. The Red armies, he added, would take care of that. He declared that the Italian Government had virtually recognized the Soviet Government by sending Count de la Torretto to Odessa from which "he will go as Ambassador to Nicolai Lenin."

Giovannitti added that the General Board of the I. W. W., the Seattle Labor Conference and the Chicago Federation of Labor should call upon all the organized forces of labor to secure the needed recognition. His candidate for the Presidency, declared Giovannitti, is "His Red Excellency, Eugene V. Debs."

Mr. Thomas, who is editor of The World Tomorrow, announced that the Russian children at present in this city, on their way to France, in custody of the Red Cross, had adopted a resolution in which they didn't want to go to France, but back to Russia.

"How are they going to find their parents in France?" the minister asked.

Malone Resolution Adopted.

Mr. Malone introduced the only resolution adopted at the meeting. It declared that the "citizens of New York" assembled in Madison Square Garden had resolved that "this imperialistic conspiracy against the Russian people, secretly arrived at, must no longer have any part in American policy." It included a demand that full commercial relations with Soviet Russia be established, denounced the alleged blockade against drugs and medicines, protested against the proposed sending to France of 780 Russian war children, requesting that they be sent to Soviet Russia, and declared finally that "it is the sense of this meeting that the only peaceful solution of the turmoil lies in the immediate recognition of the Russian Soviet Government, which we urge upon the Government of the United States."

Colonel Bek's speech was in Russian. He declared that the Soviet Army did not want Warsaw, but could have taken it with ease. A collection was taken up during the meeting and it was announced that a substantial sum had been raised. It will be added to the fund for medical supplies.

Want Children to Avoid France.

If the American Woman's Emergency Committee, with headquarters at 14 West Twelfth Street, has anything to say about it, the 428 Russian boys and 352 Russian girls who are being taken by the Red Cross from war refuge in Siberia to their homes in and near Petrograd won't go by way of Paris.

Miss Helen Todd, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the committee, which originally fought against the Russian blockade, told newspaper men yesterday that a protest against going to France signed by 400 of the Russian lads has been sent in duplicate to Red Cross heads here and in Washington.

She added that the committee had hired the Lexigton Opera House for next Sunday morning, and had sent out a call to members of women's clubs and mothers in general to join in a walk from the committee headquarters to the opera house.

It also was stated that the committee had retained lawyers to take legal steps to prevent the Russian children from sailing for Bordeaux on Monday, as scheduled. Miss Todd said that she and other committee members had talked with the Russian lads and they had said through an interpreter, "We want to go home. France hates us. France is our enemy. France shoots our soldiers."

Miss Todd also said that Ludwig C. A. K. Martens of the Soviet Bureau had promised if the young folk were taken direct to Petrograd that they and their Red Cross benefactors would be fed and protected.

MRS. NOTT SHRINKS FROM MURDER KNIFE

Identifies Weapon Which Wade Says She Gave Him to Slay Her Husband.

COLLAPSES WHILE IN COURT

She and the Confessed Killer and Johnson Are Held on First Degree Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 2.—This was a dramatic day in the life of Mrs. Ethel Hutchins Nott, the body of whose husband was found in her trunk ten miles north of here Monday night, the head crushed in and nineteen stab wounds and four bullet wounds marking the torso. On this the fourteenth anniversary of the marriage she was charged with murder in the first degree, and a courtroom full of fashionably dressed women, professional gamblers and a motley crowd of curiosity seekers gasped as the confessed murderer of her husband broke away from the police and appeared to kiss her as she sat sobbing in her chair.

Mrs. Nott, who is 32 years of age; Elwood B. Wade, 23, of 130 Hillside Avenue, and John Edward Johnson, 20 years old, of 4 Beardsley Lane, all were charged with murder in the first degree. The body of the victim, George E. Nott, 265 Judson Avenue, broker and gambler, lies in the morgue here awaiting the arrival of relatives from Boston.

Mrs. Nott was brought into the Coroner's courtroom today in a state of collapse. Two big policemen helped her to a chair. Young Wade left his chair and was at Mrs. Nott's side in a moment. His hand resting on her shoulder, he leaned over until his cheek brushed her cheek. It looked as if the widow was being kissed by the youth charged with the brutal murder of her husband.

Superintendent of Police Patrick J. Flanagan motioned to Detective Edward Derrick to separate the pair. Mrs. Nott broke into sobs as Wade spoke to her and she was removed from the courtroom in a state of collapse. She was brought in a second time when the Coroner was ready to receive her testimony.

She told Coroner John J. Phelan that she married Nott fourteen years ago today.

"Do you know Elwood B. Wade" she was asked.

"I do."

"How long have you known him?"

"About a year."

"Do you know Johnson?"

"Just a little. He was at my house last Sunday."

"Was Wade at your house last Sunday?"

"Yes."

A long, keen-edged butcher knife, which Wade says Mrs. Nott, handed to him to administer the death stroke to Nott after Nott had been beaten over the head with an iron pipe and shot four times, was shown to Mrs. Nott by the coroner.

"Did you ever see this knife?" the Coroner asked.

She looked at it, then covered her eyes with her hand, from which the wedding ring had been removed. After some hesitation she whispered: "Yes."

"Where did you last see it?"

"On the ice chest at my house," she replied.

The revolver, one purchased by Nott and given to Wade by Mrs. Nott several weeks before the murder, was then identified by Mrs. Nott, as was the hatchet which Johnson carried into the Nott home "to protect himself" on the morning of the murder.

On advice of counsel Mrs. Nott refused to tell before the Coroner how the murder was committed. The police say they have statements taken by the official police stenographer from Mrs. Nott following her arrest in which she places the blame for the actual commission of the crime on the shoulders of Wade.

Wade, in his statement, a transcript of which was entered as evidence in court today, says Mrs. Nott gave him the knife to administer the final blows to Nott to "stop his hollering."

ANTHRACITE MINES CEASE PRODUCTION

the strongest leaders in the union ranks, today said:

"This whole situation is now in the President's hands. If he follows the same course as he did in the bituminous controversy it will be very easy to establish peace. In the bituminous case the men were given a bigger increase than the anthracite men. But that award was not satisfactory and the bituminous men asked that the case be reopened. The President granted this request and the soft coal workers got something near what they believed necessary to live. We have a right to follow that same course inasmuch as our award is far less than that of bituminous miners. We have asked the President to reopen this case. If he follows precedent, the anthracite trouble can be speedily settled."

The Workers, Soldiers and Sailors Council of Philadelphia has made an effort to join the insurgents in strike movements. Circulars have been distributed here and agents are here in the field asking for an amalgamation of interest. The circular in part reads:

"Mr. Coal Worker: Last year the steel workers went on strike. They were defeated. They fought alone. Last year coal miners went on strike. They were defeated. We railroaders also went on strike. If we continue on at present we must be defeated. There is one answer. There must be a combination of forces of the workers who are forced to strike. We are asking you to co-operate with us. With the miners and railroaders united there is no power on earth that can deny us a portion of that which we demand. We must get together for the first time in the history of the American labor movement and give the boss the soundest licking he ever got; a licking that will hereafter bring him to his knees in granting our demands."

The circular is also signed by the United Association of Railway Employes of North America.

MINERS AND OPERATORS SIGN 2-YEAR CONTRACT

Former Demand Reopening of Wage Award—May Appeal to Wilson.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 2.—Anthracite operators and miners tonight signed a two-year contract embodying the terms of the wage award approved by President Wilson. The agreement was signed under protest by the representatives of the miners whose Scale Committee will meet here tomorrow to ask that the wage agreement be reopened and that the mine workers receive further increases as was done in the case of the bituminous coal diggers.

The miners' Scale Committee in a statement to the operators declared that the award was "far from being satisfactory," that it was economically unsound, disturbed the differentials, straddled the real issues, would cause confusion and react against harmony and co-operation. It was said the committee might decide tomorrow to make their request direct to President Wilson.

After much discussion a compromise was reached providing that the back pay of $18,000,000 should be turned over to the workers on or before Oct. 16, or in forty-five days.

Coal operators tonight said they were inclined to believe certain union leaders were not averse to widespread failure of miners to report for work, and declared that in places where the men are 100 per cent. organized and the union had complete control, no effort has been made to keep the men at work. It was felt in some quarters that the men, eager to receive the back pay, will soon return to work and that after Labor Day there would be a general resumption.

Under the award accepted today contract miners will receive an increase in pay of 17 per cent., men employed by the day known as company men 20 per cent., and certain other unskilled labor, 25 7/8 per cent. It was said tonight the miners desire an additional increase of 15 per cent. for the contract miners, and that the company men should receive a further advance of $2 a day. Other demands will also be made, it was said, so as to bring conditions and wages in the anthracite field on a par with those in the bituminous regions.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The miners' delegates today sanctioned the issue of strike notices, but notices are not to expire on Sept. 18, as expected, but on Sept. 25.

This gives an extra week to the peacemakers and though the labor extremists are talking loudly today of making no concessions, the conviction has grown that means will undoubtedly be found to avert a strike.

ASKS COX'S AIM ON LIQUOR.

Drys' Campaign Manager Demands Governor's Exact Stand.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—W. G. Calderwood, campaign manager for the Prohibition Party, sent a telegram to Governor James M. Cox last night asking that he "promptly and unequivocally state whether, if he is elected, he will use official influence and veto power to defeat any weakening of the Volstead act."

The telegram said that the charges made against Governor Cox that he had the support of liquor interests make such a statement necessary.

TIERNAN INDICTED AS A BOOTLEGGER

Hotel Man Who Bought Whisky Also Held with Judge's Brother by Federal Jury.

MALOY CRITICISED BY ROSS

U. S. District Attorney 'Not Pleased' by Richmond Prosecutor's Failure to Submit Evidence.

William P. Tiernan, brother of J. Harry Tiernan, County Judge of Richmond, and Henry Hugot, proprietor of a hotel at St. George, were indicted yesterday by a Federal Grand Jury in Brooklyn on charges of feloniously violating the Volstead act by conspiring to transport three barrels of liquor found in Hugot's hotel on the night of Aug. 17 last. The charges developed from an investigation of the murder of Robert Eckert, chief of a band of Staten Island bootleggers.

The indictments were returned less than two hours after the inquisitors convened. Le Roy W. Ross, United States Attorney for the Eastern District conducted the examination of witnesses. It was announced later that the inquisitors would reopen the inquiry next Thursday, when Mr. Ross expects to have additional evidence connecting others on Staten Island with widespread contraband liquor traffic.

Before Mr. Ross entered the Grand Jury room he announced that he had sent an agent of the Department of Justice to Joseph A. Maloy, District Attorney of Staten Island, with a request that Maloy turn over to him all the evidence in his possession revealing the connection of bootleggers with the Eckert slaying and that the Staten Island prosecutor had failed to comply with the request.

Maloy Criticised by Ross.

Mr. Maloy is said to have told the agent he would not be in a position to send such evidence to the Federal prosecutor until after the arraignment next Tuesday of William Moloney, proprietor of a hotel at South Beach, S. I., and Charles Kane, owner of the automobile in which Eckert was slain, on a charge of participating in the murder.

"I am not in the least pleased with Mr. Maloy's conduct in this case with reference to this office," declared Mr. Ross. "I shall give him until the 7th to send me whatever evidence he has. If he does not do so by that time, I shall take steps to compel him to produce such evidence, if he has any."

Moloney and Kane were held on the murder charge by Judge Tiernan ten days ago, when the County Judge presided in the Stapleton Court in the absence of Magistrate Frederick S. Mullen. Judge Tiernan later, in reply to criticism of his sitting in the case, said he did so because Magistrate Mullen told him earlier in the day he was ill. Magistrate Mullen who is now on a thirty-day leave of absence, granted by Mayor Hylan, issued a statement three days ago in which he said that Judge Tiernan presided in the Stapleton Court without his consent, but that when he (Mullen) was informed that the County Judge was presiding he decided it would be "unseemly" to ask him to abdicate.

It was said at Mr. Ross's office that evidence was being prepared for the Grand Jury next Thursday in connection with the arrest of Howard Tiernan, cousin of Judge Tiernan, who was arrested in Brooklyn on July 8 charged with transporting liquor in violation of the Volstead law.

Mr. Ross said he had requested Mrs. Eckert to call on him in the next two or three days to reveal what she knew about the "whisky ring" on Staten Island. Mr. Maloy announced several days ago that Mrs. Eckert had given him much information concerning bootlegging activities.

Prohibition Agents to be Quizzed.

William F. McGuire and James Weldon, prohibition agents, who for six months were assigned to Staten Island, also will be questioned by Mr. Ross.

Max Katz, chauffeur of a motor truck on which it is alleged Eckert transported a load of whisky from Staten Island to Manhattan was arraigned before Magistrate Simpson in the New Brighton Police Court yesterday on a charge of participating in the murder of Eckert. Assistant District Attorney Norton admitted he did not have sufficient evidence on which to connect the chauffeur with the murder and the murder charge was dismissed.

As Katz walked from the court room to the sidewalk he was intercepted by a detective, who again arrested him. His counsel, former District Attorney Fach, demanded that the detective show a warrant. The detective had none, but as Katz turned away the detective grabbed him by the arm. Katz then preferred a charge of assault against the detective, who gave his name as "John Andrews."

Magistrate Simpson dismissed the charge against the detective and when Katz reached the sidewalk again he was arrested by Detective Sergeant Graham as a material witness in the Eckert murder. He was held in $100 bail, which he furnished.

Detectives working on the Eckert murder admitted no additional evidence had been obtained to clear up the mystery. It is understood Mrs. Eckert, the widow, will be in court next Tuesday when Moloney and Kane are arraigned.

POISON DEATH UNSOLVED.

Newark Prosecutor Still Working on Williams Poison Mystery.

The mystery surrounding the death of Franklin B. Williams, chief engineer of the Whitehead & Hoag Co., whose body was found in his home in Newark, N. J., last Tuesday, had not been cleared last night.

An analysis by Dr. A. E. Edel, a chemist of Newark, and Acting County Physician William Miningham, revealed that death had been caused by cyanide of potassium. No traces of this powerful poison, however, were found in a medicine bottle, containing about an inch of powder, or in a tumbler with crystals on its bottom that was found beside the bottle, near the body.

Prosecutor J. Henry Harrison of Essex County, who has been directing the investigation, said last night that he was inclined to discard a theory of murder that had been tentatively held earlier. He expressed this opinion after hearing reports from Detective Meyer of his own staff and Detectives Kenny and Manning of the Newark Police Department. He said, however, that he was not satisfied and would continue to push the inquiry.

"I have learned that Williams, as head of the chemical laboratory of the Whitehead & Hoag Company, had access to cyanide in tablet or crystal form," said Mr. Harrison.

Williams was married on June 4 last to Mrs. Elizabeth Wagner of 189 Avon Avenue. She told the Prosecutor she had been married twice before. She said that divorce separated her and her first husband, Wagner, and that her second husband, Terwilliger, was found dead with a bullet in his left temple in a room in the Hotel Windsor, Philadelphia, in 1918.

The Prosecutor questioned James Dabagian, 23, a roomer in the Williams's home, yesterday, but said that the young man had convinced him and the detectives that he knew nothing of the affair. Dabagian was at the home of a cousin in Paterson, N. J., on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. Williams said last night that she knew no reason why her husband should kill himself. She said, so far as she knew, he had no enemies. His life was insured for about $2,000.

DANCING TEACHER HELD.

Hearing on Children's Society Complaint Set for Today.

Charged by the Children's Society with impairing the morals of four children at his school of classical dancing at 123 East Fifty-ninth Street, Albert Hinrick, 40 years old, was held in $200 bail for a hearing today by Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan in Yorkville Court yesterday.

In support of his affidavit charging violation of Section 483, Penal Code, Agent Richard J. Curran of the Children's Society, said he watched through a keyhole of Hinrick's school Wednesday night and after seeing Hinrick in company with four girls of from 8 to 12 years old, scantily clad, broke in the door and placed him under arrest.

The four children, who were brought to court by their mothers, were Isabella Walener, 8 years old, and her 12-year-old sister, Goldie, both of 318 East Fifty-ninth Street; Gertrude Kersten, 8, of 751 Amsterdam Avenue, and Catherine McKenna, 11, of 222 East 115th Street.

AUTOS KILL 5, HURT 32 AS B. R. T. IS POLICED

MANY DRIVERS GET AWAY

Alarming Growth of Accidents Laid to the Brooklyn Strike Conditions.

Five persons were killed and at least thirty-two injured, some of the latter seriously, in automobile accidents, other than that near the Hippodrome, in and near New York City yesterday and last evening. The unusualy large number of such accidents was said in police circles to be due in part to the lack of policemen, large numbers of whom have been transferred from other boroughs to Brooklyn for service in connection with the B. R. T. strike.

Information obtained from Police Headquarters in Brooklyn last night was to the effect that 1,000 policemen had been transferred from Manhattan, the Bronx and Richmond for strike duty in Brooklyn. It was estimated that at least 600 more policemen in Brooklyn and Queens had been taken from their usual task of patrolling the streets and assigned to the strike police force, most of which has been held in reserve.

At Atlantic and Fourth Avenues, Brooklyn, it was said, forty traffic policemen have been necessary to untangle the congested traffic that three such policemen usually handle. Expert traffic policemen have been drawn from the other boroughs to work at the congested points.

Girl Killed Near Home.

Rosanna Patterson, 8 years old, of 93 Old Broadway, died last night in Knickerbocker Hospital from injuries received when run down in front of her home by an automobile truck driven by Spencer Corwin of 581 Thirty-sixth Street, Brooklyn.

Daniel Sheren, 22 years old, of 63 Alabama Avenue, Brooklyn, died last night in Bellevue Hospital from injuries received from being run over by an automobile in front of 205 East Fifteenth Street. Sheren was said to have fallen from a wagon he was driving directly in front of the automobile, the driver of which, George Danner of 96 Snediker Avenue, Brooklyn, was held blameless.

Anthony di Nicola, 6 years old, of 171 Forsyth Street, was killed by an automobile last night at Forsyth and Rivington Streets. The police of the Clinton Street Station obtained the license number of the automobile from a witness. The driver was said to have given his name and address to another witness and then gone away.

Albert MacDarrell, 2 years old, 678 Glenwood Avenue, Brooklyn, was run over in front of his home by an automobile truck driven by William Harned, 2,755 Fulton Street, and instantly killed. No arrest was made, as witnesses said the child slipped from the curb under the wheels.

John Pitiyansky, 5 years old, was run over by an aute near his home, 51 Carroll Street, Brooklyn, and died while being taken to the Long Island College Hospital. The auto was owned and operated by Charles Depresso, 284 Hamilton Avenue.

Mrs. Rebecca Brodsky, 46 years old, of 795 DeKalb Avenue, Brooklyn, and her daughter, Miss Regina Brodsky, 25 years old, were hurt early this morning when thrown from an automobile, driven by Mrs. Brodsky's son Leo. The Brodsky automobile collided with one driven by Joseph E. Langdon of 39 Windsor Place, Brooklyn, at Madison Avenue and East Sixtieth Street. Each woman was cut and bruised about the head and it was thought for a time that each had been seriously injured. They were taken home after treatment at the Presbyterian Hospital.

In one of the Bronx cases the victim, Joseph Osborn, 20 years old, 660 Dawson Street, who was struck by an automobile at Prospect Avenue and East 160th Street, is likely to die or be permanently crippled. Osborn was left lying unconscious, while the driver of the automobile which struck him, also carrying two women, speeded northward and escaped. The driver of another automobile stopped and carried the injured young man to Lebanon Hospital, where Dr. Kaufman said his spine was fractured and that his condition was critical.

Six Hurt in Crash.

Six persons were injured, one seriously, at Ridgewood, N. J., in a collision between two automobiles driven by Mrs. Georgia Malone, 445 Bell Avenue, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., and Dr. Samuel Goldhaler of 4,112 Thirteenth Avenue, Brooklyn.

Benjamin Paterson, 415 Bell Avenue, Hasbrouck Heights, suffered a fractured skull, a broken arm and internal injuries. Mrs. Lillian B. Lorenzo, 407 Terrace Avenue, Hasbrouck Heights; Dr. Harry Shapiro, 1,229 Fifty-second Street, Brooklyn; Miss Dorothy Goldhaler and the two drivers were slightly cut and bruised.

Isaac Krakow, 70 years old, 69 East 113th Street, was struck by an automobile truck at Park Avenue and 113th Street. He was taken to Beth David Hospital suffering from internal injuries, and his condition was said to be serious. Policeman William Kuntz of the East 104th Street Station was near the corner at the time and gave pursuit, firing several shots. The driver escaped, but the policeman took the number of the car, and later arrested Joseph Conifrey, 1,968 Park Avenue. Conifrey was held in $2,500 bail for examination Saturday when arraigned before Magistrate Marsh in Harlem Court.

Sergeant Patrick Gorman of the Hunter's Point Station was seriously hurt while directing traffic at the Bridge Plaza, Prospect Street and Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, when he was run down by an automobile driven by Robert R. Hill, 140 School Street, Manhasset, L. I. Gorman was taken to St. John's Hospital in a serious condition with internal injuries, three fractured ribs and fractures of both legs.

List of Minor Mishaps.

Paul Smith, 55 years old, 1,145 Clay Avenue, the Bronx, struck by automobile at Park Avenue and 166th Street; he received fractures of both ankles and was taken to Lincoln Hospital.

Helen Glande, 18 years old, 816 Second Avenue, and Blanche Dyntry, 314 East Fortieth Street, hit by automobile in East Thirty-eighth Street; they were only slightly bruised and went home after being attended by an ambulance surgeon.

GOLDWYN OUT AS HEAD OF GOLDWYN PICTURES

Resignation Is Said to Have Followed Disagreement with Board —M. Kendall in Charge.

The resignation of Samuel Goldwyn as President of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, which he has headed since its organization four years ago, was announced yesterday. Mr. Goldwyn has also resigned as a member of the Executive Committee, but will retain his stock holdings and will continue as a member of the Board of Directors. F. J. Godsol simultaneously has resigned as Vice President of the company and as a member of the Executive Committee.

Messmore Kendall, who built the Capitol Theatre, which was recently affiliated with the Goldwyn interests, has been chosen Director in charge of the company, pending the election of a new President, and it is considered likely that he will be elected to the office. Mr. Kendall and General Coleman du Pont have been elected to the Executive Committee.

Mr. Goldwyn's resignation is said to have followed a disagreement with the Board of Directors on a matter of general policy, but it was said last night by one close to the affairs of the company that no fundamental changes would follow Mr. Goldwyn's withdrawal. Messmore Kendall, the acting President, is a lawyer of large financial interests and is a large stockholder in the George H. Doran Company, publishers.

3 Women Flee Bedford; 1 Caught.

BEDFORD, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Three women escaped from the Bedford State Reformatory today in the first attempt made since Mrs. Frank L. Christian became Superintendent a month ago and instituted a policy of gentle firmness. The leader of the fleeing trio, Levina Dickinson, was captured at Croton Falls, where, according to reformatory officials, she became conscience-stricken and telephoned to them, asking that she be taken into custody. Railroad men deny this and assert that a sergeant of the State Constabulary captured her.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

A Vanished Farce Restored.

LITTLE MISS CHARITY, a musical comedy in two acts and four scenes; book and lyrics by Edward Clark, music by S. R. Henry and M. Savin. At the Belmont Theatre.

Graham	Henry Vincent
"Dicky" Foster	Frederick Raymond, Jr.
"Fingers" Clay	Frank Moulan
Amy Shirley	Marjorie Gateson
Hotel Clerk	Oliver H. Bingham
Rozalie	Ann Mayo
Angel Butterfield	Juanita Fletcher
Miss Wheeler	Edna Shaw
Woodrow Porter	Benard Wells
Mortimer Gayling	Jere McAuliffe
Billikins	Lillian White

When the resounding success of "Very Good, Eddie" suggested that many a used-up farce of a bygone season might, by the aid of a few composers and some costumers, be turned into a pleasant and profitable musical comedy, there began a great searching of memories and old playbills, with results that were quite surprising. It then inevitably occurred to the managers that it might be a good idea to add music to some old farces that had not been successes at all, on the chance that it had been this very lack of songs and dances that ailed them in the first place.

This would account for the resurrection last night at the Belmont Theatre of a farce called "Not with My Money," which, after a brief and uneventful career, had collapsed in Thirty-ninth Street two or three seasons before. It has now been renamed "Little Miss Charity," agreeably interrupted with dances and generally enlivened with some vaguely familiar but extremely danceable music, accredited by the program to S. R. Henry and M. Savin.

The choice of such a piece for such a purpose remains, however, quite puzzling, for it has few of the ingredients that have come to be accepted as making the basis for an evening of merriment, innocent or otherwise. The reliance then is largely on the musical setting, of which the oft-repeated mainstay is one of those foxt-rot turns that follow you down the aisle and out into the street. It is blandly reminiscent of a ditty in "Irene" and it jogs along to a lyric which runs something like this:

That certain something,
That certain one thing,
Which sends the shivers and the shivers
all the way unto your brain;
That great sensation
Of adoration, &c., &c.

With such sprightly lyrics as this one, and with some that are rather more sprightly, "Little Miss Charity" is garnished.

The company numbers a good many people who have yet to make their fame on Broadway, but there is one old standby in the person of Frank Moulan, who makes a great pother about trying to remember a line concerning "the allegedly distressed and ostensibly oppressed workingman," when he knows perfectly well he ought to be somewhere learning the really difficult patter songs of "Utopia Limited" and "The Princess Ida." Mr. Moulan is as amusing as the occasion permits and there is some agreeable aid extended him by Marjorie Gateson.

Film Star's Condition Critical.

Robert Harron, the moving picture actor who accidently shot himself in his rooms at the Hotel Seymour, is in a critical condition, according to physicians at Bellevue Hospital, but friends and relations of the young man who visited him last night still held out hope that he would recover. The wound does not seem to be so much the cause of his immediate danger as his great loss of blood.

Bequests to Catholic Charities.

In his will, filed yesterday, John J. Deery, head of a marble works concern, who died on the 16th ult., at his residence, 321 West 103d Street, made these bequests: N. Y. Catholic Protectory, $5,000; St. Vincent De Paul Society, $2,000; Church of St. Paul the Apostle, $1,000; Catholic Bureau for Dependent Children, on East Twenty-second Street, $2,000; St. Joseph's Day Nursery, 469 West Fifty-seventh Street, $500, and the Home for Crippled Children, at Port Jefferson, L. I., $1,500. To Elizabeth Stewart of 520 West 153d Street, an old employe, is left $4,000; to John Gostely of 1,466 First Avenue, another employe, $1,000, and to other servitors smaller bequetsts. The residuary is for the widow, Theresa M.

Porter Acquires Another Hotel.

Harry J. Choucherie, former head porter and manager of transportation at the Hotel McAlpin, who recently acquired the Colonial, 125th Street and Eighth Avenue, yesterday added the Elmwood Hotel, East Orange, N. J., to the chain which he hopes to own. John Cruse, for many years a buyer and manager for New York restaurants, will be the new manager of the Elmwood for Choucherie.

The shock threw Mr. Rice at least twelve feet into the air. His most serious injury was caused by the top of his head striking one of the transverse iron rods supporting the fire escape. Mr. Rice seized this horizontal iron support with his hands and clung there until the automobile had passed.

Cars Wrecked in Crash.

Mr. Murphy, who was killed, was hit at the same time or just after Mr. Rice. The automobile struck the iron stairway, bending it so that one end stood three feet from the sidewalk. It glanced off and crashed into the window of the Hippodrome Optical and Novelty Company, which occupies the corner shop in the Hippodrome Building, smashing the plateglass show window. It then rebounded, slid over the sidewalk and came to rest with its front wheels just off the curb in Sixth Avenue. When it arrived there the automobile was a wreck, its left mudguard and wind shield shattered, and its radiator broken in.

At least a score of persons were in the square of sidewalk constituting the extreme corner when the automobile went across. Mr. and Mrs. Hartmann and Mr. and Mrs. Long, all of whom were waiting for the Hippodrome doors to open, were struck there. Mr. Murphy, according to those who saw the accident, was caught beneath the automobile and carried for a considerable distance.

A crowd of several thousand persons gathered with a quickness that was remarkable, even for New York. Kaufman Moses, manager for the Meyer Manufacturing Company, a men's furnishing store next to the optical shop, blew a police whistle and called to the crowd to seize the driver of the automobile.

Driver, Unhurried, Disappears.

The driver, according to Mr. Moses and other witnesses, was thrown forward on the broken wind shield, but seemingly was only slightly hurt, if at all. He stepped out of the automobile unhurriedly, glanced at the seven persons lying prone on the pavement and still unhurriedly walked into the crowd and disappeared before the six or seven policemen, who came running from nearby posts, had time to grasp the situation.

Charles Seehof, proprietor of the optical shop, helped carry some of the victims of the accident into his store and the others were taken into the store of the Meyer Manufacturing Company. All except Mr. Hanley were taken to Bellevue Hospital as soon as ambulances could be called. Help in their treatment was given by women of the Red Cross who arrived with the Russian children.

Sergeant Bernard Ditsch and Detectives O'Leary and Walsh of the East Fifty-first Street Station, obtained an excellent description of the automobile thief and a general alarm was sent out for his arrest. In addition the police took steps to cover all army hospitals on the chance that he had been injured and would report at one of them for treatment, as well as all other army posts and headquarters in and near New York City. The belief that he might have been slightly hurt was caused by the statements of some of the witnesses that he put his hand to his face, as if it were cut or bruised, as he walked away.

Auto Thief Minutely Described.

According to the description furnished by the police the driver wore a campaign hat with a yellow cord, indicating that he belonged to the cavalry or Quartermaster's Department; a khaki shirt and breeches, and canvas leggins of an old issue which preceded the cloth puttees now in use. This was taken to indicate that he probably was no longer in the service. The man was described as about 24 or 25 years old, between 5 feet 4 inches and 5 feet 7 inches in height, about 145 pounds in weight and of dark hair and complexion.

Mr. and Mrs. Long gave a clear description of the accident after they left the hospital and returned to the Hippodrome, where they witnessed the last part of the performance. "We were waiting for the doors to open," said Mr. Long, "having arrived a short time before at the Pennsylvania Station to visit relatives at 401 East 136th Street, the Bronx.

"I own a car myself and am used to automobiles, and when I heard the sound of a motor racing in that neighborhood I knew at once that something was wrong. I turned just in time to see the automobile before it hit us. I consider our escape miraculous. I felt certain for a moment that my wife was killed. Fortunately, there was only one fatality. I was pleased to learn that none of the others struck is likely to die."

Mr. Long said he believed the automobile was going at least forty-five miles an hour. He said he had only a glimpse of the driver and would not be able to identify him.

The police late last night had not found the driver of the stolen automobile. They expressed belief, however, that with a good description they had an excellent chance of locating him within a day or two.

PUMP AIR TO CREW OF SUBMARINE S-5

C. M. Cooke, Jr. Her other officers, according to the list, are Lieutenant C. L. Jacobson, Lieutenant (J. G.) C. F. Grifhan, Ensigns J. B. Langstaff and Gunner R. Holt.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 2.—Two destroyers, the Preston and the Breckenridge, left here at 11 o'clock tonight to assist in the rescue of the submarine S-5, reported to be submerged off the Delaware Capes. The destroyers have diving apparatus aboard and equipment for the rescue work. They are due to reach the reported location of the S-5 at 2 A. M.

The battleship Ohio reported by wireless at midnight that she was on her way to assist the disabled submarine and had an electric drill and acetylene torch on board.

The officers and men of the submerged Submarine S-5 have been greatly revived by the pumping of fresh air into the vessel, according to a wireless message received in New York last night from the steamship General Goethals.

The message said:

"Four officers and twenty-six men have been revived considerably by fresh air pumped through small hole in side of submarine. Men from General Goethals cutting on hull. Chance of relieving crew before destroyers' arrival about midnight doubtful."

Peace-time submarine accidents have been comparatively few within recent years, although prior to the war more than 200 lives were lost as a result of mishaps to undersea boats of the big naval powers.

The most serious accident to an American submarine was the loss of the F-4 at Honolulu in March, 1915, with her crew of twenty-one men. An inquiry into the accident determined that the disaster was caused by a leak resulting from a corroded battery lining. The boat went to the bottom during manoeuvres and was not found until two days later. She was finally raised with the aid of pontoons.

Four men were killed and ten were injured by an explosion inside the E-2 in the drydock of the Brooklyn Navy Yard in January, 1916.

Five men were killed and three were injured in an explosion on the A-7 at Cavite, Philippine Islands, in July, 1917.

Three men were drowned in July, 1919, when the obsolete G-2 sank without warning while conducting depth bomb experiments near Pleasure Beach, Conn.

The commander and three members of the crew of the H-1 lost their lives when the craft went aground on Redondo Point, near the entrance to Magdalena Bay, Lower California, on March 18 this year. The H-2 ran ashore in a dark night, with a heavy sea running.

TO END BALL PARK DISORDER

Acting Chief Magistrate Asks Jail Sentences for Bottle Throwers.

Acting Chief City Magistrate McGeehan yesterday sent a letter to the Magistrates asking their co-operation and that of the police and citizens in suppressing disorderly conduct at baseball games. Rowdyism among a "certain element" is increasing and "bottle throwing, with the umpires and players as targets, has become almost daily occurrence," said the letter. He asked the Magistrates to protect the public by sending offenders to jail.

"At this time," he wrote, "when the whole populace, as never before, is following with excited interest the glorious contests at the baseball fields and at the same time demanding that the best teams be given "a fair field and no favor," we, as Magistrates, I am confident, will pledge our aid to the protection of the fair name of New York for sportsmanship by sending to jail any one who interferes with the play and endangers those who participate in it by throwing bottles or anything else. A man who throws a bottle might sentence a player to six months in the hospital. I recommend that we sentence any such person to six months in jail."

SAY RELATIVES KILLED MAN.

Wife and Father-in-Law of Murdered Brooklyn Tailor Held.

Mrs. Frances Catalamo, 25 years old, and her father, Joseph Ribaudo, were arrested last night and locked up in the Coney Island police station on a charge of homicide in connection with the murder of Tony Catalamo, a tailor, husband and son-in-law, respectively, of the prisoners.

Catalamo was shot in the head and killed yesterday morning as he lay asleep in his bed at 99 Bay Forty-seventh Street, Brooklyn. Near by his wife and 5-year-old son were asleep.

Mrs. Catalamo was awakened by the shot and said that a stout man with a mask on his face disappeared in the darkness. Her screams attracted the attention of Patrolman Apfel of the Bath Beach Station. Apfel summoned aid and Detectives Ross, Doody and Henne responded.

Ribaudo told the officers that he received Black Hand letters recently demanding $3,000 under pain of death for himself and his daughter's family. He turned the letters over to the police. In searching a stable in the rear of the house, which is a one-story bungalow, the detectives came upon a revolver which, they say, belongs to Ribaudo.

The detectives say that Catalamo and his wife appeared recently in the Domestic Relations Court and in the Coney Island Court after being unable to settle their family affairs harmoniously.

Entrance to the bungalow is obtained by means of a ten-foot ladder, as the building has been raised in order to permit the addition of another story. Mrs. Catalamo said she was sure her husband's murderer went out by the door.

ASKS MARRIAGE ANNULMENT

Wedded 13 Years, Says Wife Broke Pact for Second Ceremony by Priest

After being married for thirteen years, Vivian Lawrence Drew of 573 Seventy-seventh Street yesterday applied to Supreme Court Justice Squiers in Brooklyn for an annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Kathryn Drew of 321 Ninth Street, Brooklyn. The couple were married on Aug. 30, 1907, by a Justice of the Peace.

Drew said that they made an agreement before the marriage to have a second ceremony performed by a priest, and that Mrs. Drew refused to carry out the agreement. Drew alleged that his wife had the fixed intention of never carrying out the agreement. Decision was reserved.

M. O. Prentiss Gets Attachment Against H. V. Greene Co., Inc., and H. V. Greene.

CHARGES BROKEN CONTRACT

Plaintiff Alleges Failure to Organize International Rating Bureau.

An attachment for $505,000 against the H. V. Greene Co., Inc., and Henry V. Greene, of Boston, was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday in a suit by Mark O. Prentiss, of 31 West Eleventh Street, for breach of contract to promote the United States Clearing House of Foreign Credits, Inc., which Prentiss planned to organize as an international credit rating bureau. The company is a dealer in investment securities with its main New York office at 291 Broadway and branches at 47 West Forty-second Street and 391 East 149th Street. The order of attachment was served on all the local offices of the defendant and on its branch at Syracuse.

Prentiss sued on the ground that 52,500 shares of stock in the corporation which he owned had become valueless as a result of the defendants' acts, and he asked what he considered the value of the stock. He alleged that he proposed to Mr. Greene that the Greene corporation sell stock in the projected international credit bureau and agreed to submit to Mr. Greene the names of suitable persons as officers. He said he proposed Fairfax S. Landstreet, George Ed. Smith and Dwight E. Austin, but that after Mr. Greene had met them statements derogatory to him were made to them and they resigned from his concern and agreed to serve as officers of the Bankers' Union of Foreign Commerce and Finance, which Mr. Greene then began to promote, and which was based on the same plan as the plaintiff's company, with $10,000,000 of stock.

Prentiss also alleges that after he introduced John J. Arnold as a suitable person as a director, Arnold was induced to become executive officer of the corporation the defendants were promoting and was made secretary to Mr. Greene.

The Great Eagle

in our court of honor in the Philadelphia Store suggested to one of our friends to tell us the fable of

The Eagle and the Crow

Here it is—

An eagle from the top of a high mountain made a swoop down through the air and pounced upon a young lamb and bore it away.

A crow who had built her nest in a tree near the foot of the rock, observing what had passed, darted down and fixed her claws in the fleece of another little lamb of the same flock, but being unable to either lift her prey or disentangle her feet she was caught in a trap.

The shepherd came along and was told the incident of the eagle which the crow had seen, and that she imagined herself to be an eagle until she was convinced she was nothing but a jealous crow.

To mistake or overstate our own talents often exposes us to ridicule and sometimes to danger.

"Know Thyself," our old country school teacher taught us, and to then endeavor to do our best and "leave the rest."

Paris is wearing Tricolette Frocks

The Women's Gown Salon has made a special note of the fact that Paris is wearing that finely woven tricolette cloth, known as "mignonette," and that many of the loveliest frocks seen there at this time of the season are of this material.

A new collection of these frocks has newly arrived in the Salon, very conservatively priced at $45, $55 and $65.

In midnight blue, black and dark brown. These frocks feature long straight lines, and the longer waistline that is favored at the moment. Some are touched with embroidery, others are beaded. All the models are simple and becoming.

Second Floor, Old Building.

Women's Autumn Coats

With certain new and delightful characteristics

AT $69.50—coats of duvet-de-laine in soft brown, pine needle green, midnight blue, and soft castor color: many fur trimmed, with collars and bands of nutria, of French seal (dyed coney), and of ring-tail opossum. A few are embroidered in self color in large attractive designs.

AT $89.50—coats of fine bolivia cloth and evora cloth, in pine needle green, dark brown, soft castor and tan, also in midnight blue and Copenhagen blue. Some have generous collars of nutria and French seal.

The models are in the enveloping wrappy styles, or on the more conventional coat lines. Conspicuous among them are coats embroidered in self color in large motifs of self embroidery, applied quite differently from any that appeared last season.

Another very attractive model is the sport corset for golfing, riding or athletics. Very flexible top and elastic hips are the features, $5.75.

For Miss 14 to 20

Prices average about $10 less than those of last Autumn—that is by comparing qualities, for there were dresses last year at these same prices.

Serge Frocks at $29.75 and $39.75

Frocks at $29.75 are of navy blue serge in a smart model introducing an effective use of the new heavy floss embroidery at the sides of the skirt.

Frocks at $39.75 are in the model illustrated—the one with oblong motifs of braid. When the dress is of navy blue the braid is of gold metal soutache, and when of black the braid matches. Collar of embroidered batiste edged with wee ruffle of footing.

Satin Frocks, $45

EVADING THE ELECTION LAWS.

The inquiry at Chicago by the Senate committee has not, thus far, been very illuminating or elevating, but it has brought out one significant fact. This is that there are many ways of "beating" the laws relating to campaign expenses. Local organizations of all sorts and with many disguises can raise money which they do not send to the regular party committees and which is not reported. Individual philanthropists undertake certain forms of party work, according to some pet idea of their own, and finance it out of their own pockets. There is a great variety of plans to evade the law, some amusing, some contemptible. But the meanest of them all is the attempt to get around the statute prohibiting the levying of campaign contributions upon Federal employés. A member of the Democratic Committee confessed at Chicago to having done this. It cannot be too severely condemned. It is not far from blackmail. Governor Cox has declared that he will not take any campaign gifts from brewers. He doubtless will make it clear that he will not tolerate the screwing of money out of Government office holders.

DUMFOUNDING MR. ROOT.

A special dispatch from London to The Public Ledger of Philadelphia declares that Mr. Root was "dumfounded" on reading in the English papers the reports of Senator HARDING'S latest speech on the League of Nations. This is not wholly the correspondent's imagination. He speaks of Englishmen with whom Mr. Root has had conversations and who know something of his mind. The precise cause of Mr. Root's disquietude seems to be that the Republican candidate got rather muddled about the new international court which the former Secretary of State has been helping to create. This work was done at the request of the League, and is to be submitted to the League for approval. But about this Mr. HARDING seemed to be ill-informed or not to be clear in his own mind.

It is not to be really supposed, however, that this or any other political event could throw ELIHU ROOT off his poise. He has wandered as long in politics as Ulysses did on the way home from Troy, and has acquired much of the aplomb as well as wisdom of that much-enduring man. Mr. ROOT has been familiar with all kinds of platforms, presided over critical party conventions, observed many and queer candidates, suffered from much campaign oratory. He is not easily to be startled now. He probably had formed a pretty shrewd estimate of Mr. HARDING'S mental quality, from observation of him in the Senate and elsewhere, so that no word from Marion booming across the Atlantic could throw him even momentarily off his balance. The strong probability is that he made a pretty sure guess in advance as to what would come from the Ohio oracle.

Furthermore, whenever Mr. ROOT appears to be dumfounded he is most to be feared. A mistake, a hitch, a complication, an intricate party situation—these are the things that exhilarate instead of depressing him. They appeal to him like a difficult and complicated lawsuit. Of what use is it to possess unusual powers of comprehension and of adjustment if you do not delight to apply them to disentangle blundering mortals from their own errors? No, it will not do to think of Mr. ROOT as greatly or long put out by Senator HARDING'S speech. It would mean simply one more interesting problem for him to tackle as soon as he gets home. And nothing is more likely than that, after that event, the Republican candidate will extemporize some more lifelong convictions about the League of Nations.

A NEW INDUSTRIAL SIGN.

The sudden apparition of three thousand strike-breakers furnishes the Brooklyn Rapid Transit employés with food for serious reflection. Hitherto, since 1914, there has been an abundance of employment. Those who suffered most from the spiralling of wages and prices were not what is called laborers, but salaried men, whose income remained relatively fixed. As they are not organized their grievances are not audible, at least to the striking wage earners. But we are now passing into a new era.

These strike-breakers are recruited from "factory towns in the Middle "West, in Chicago, Cleveland, De- "troit, and New England industrial "centres where unemployment has "resulted from the shutting down of "many mills." What they are suffering from is not the malady of the salaried man—a diminishing ratio of income to living cost—but something even more fatal, the cessation of all income. The thing that confronts the strikers is no longer a question of the ability of the company to pay what they think an equitable wage, but a question of the ability of the industrial fabric as a whole to stand up against the incessant demands for higher wages and shorter hours.

In view of this new omen, a verbal passage reported yesterday has a doubly ironic sound. When the counsel for the strikers had read Judge MAYER'S statement of his terms, together with a statement from Mayor HYLAN, he was silent, and a man on the floor asked what they were. Mr. FRIDIGER replied: "Don't take any "expression of the Mayor or the mem- "bers of the Board of Estimate as "their opinion. They are public offi- "cials and their first duty is to the "public." It was obviously Mr. FRIDIGER'S opinion, eagerly shared by the strikers, that their first and only duty was to themselves. It is a view which has been all too prevalent in the world of labor, and which has hitherto received at most a verbal admonishment. This time the rebuke was present and actual. Outside on the line three thousand strike-breakers were at work, the first victims of an era in which wages and prices danced gayly up the spiral without reference to anything but the interests of a single class.

An abundance of strike-breakers is seldom a solitary phenomenon. As a rule, it is speedily followed by a time when there are no strikes—when the wildest agitator perforce submits to arbitration under the law. The world is understocked with commodities and there is still a high demand for labor. With decent regard for the public and for the standards of honest dealing, there will be work and wages for all. But the bread line can be avoided only by listening to the voice that speaks first and always for the general interest.

RESERVE BANK PROFITS.

It was inevitable that the Federal Reserve Bank should be drawn into the campaign. It is one of the great achievements of the party in power, and so the party out of power attacks it. But attacking it on the ground that it is a "profiteer" is going rather far, even for a Presidential campaign. It is true the Federal Reserve Banks have been making money, a great deal of money, but that does not make them profiteers. Their earnings are automatic. They are regulated by two things, the rate at which they rediscount for member banks and the amount of business which the member banks bring them, and they rise or fall as the volume of business expands or contracts and as rediscount rates advance or decline.

Federal Reserve Banks make their own rediscount rates, but the volume of business is governed by the member banks, which are not required to avail themselves of the rediscount privilege. If the member banks do so, as they have been doing, irrespective of the rates of rediscount, that is not the fault of the Reserve Banks, nor is it the fault of the member banks, for the latter would not pay the high rates to the Reserve Banks if the public, for whom the member banks are the intermediaries, were not willing and anxious to secure the accommodation.

What the Federal Reserve Banks have been trying to bring about lately is a contraction of credit, and in doing so they have been exercising the usual functions of a central bank. The idea of a central bank is to supply emergency credit when the ordinary credit of commercial banks becomes exhausted, or to supplement the credit of commercial banks when legitimate demands are excessive. But the central bank is also a regulator, and when commercial banks become overextended it seeks to check that expansion. It supplies emergency credit so that the check may not be too abrupt, but it imposes a high or, as bankers call it, a penalizing rate, so that the contraction may be expedited. To make such a system function properly the central bank must be "on top of the market"; that is, its rediscount rates must be higher than the open market rates. Unfortunately, the Reserve Banks, held to low rates during the war period to facilitate the Government's war finance program, have not as yet attained that position. They are gaining on the market, however.

In the meantime, while the Reserve Banks keep increasing rates, the member banks, urged on by their clients, have been rediscounting heavily, and these rediscounts, coupled with the advancing rates, have given the Reserve Banks the big profits of which the hostile critics are complaining. That is where the earnings come from. Where they go, with the exception of an amount equal to 6 per cent. per annum on the paid-in capital of the Reserve Banks, is into the United States Treasury, paid in as franchise tax. The charge that this franchise tax will "soon become a great burden and handicap on business" is ridiculous. When the Reserve Banks are established "on top of the market," where they belong and where such central banks as the Bank of England are, the big earnings probably will largely disappear. For then they will have such control of the credit situation that their penalizing rates will serve speedily to curb credit expansion, and the member banks will not be rediscounting so lavishly because it will not be profitable for them to do so.

GERMANY AND RUSSIA.

Dr. WALTER SIMONS, the German Foreign Minister, admits that his Government was "urged" to collaborate with the Bolsheviki during their recent advance into Poland, "to break "the bonds imposed by the Treaty of "Versailles." Whether the urging came from Germans or Russians he does not say, but that many in both nations hoped for such a coalition there can be no doubt. Nor is there any doubt that the Germans were wise in declining to have anything to do with the proposal. Dr. SIMONS states the reasons succinctly: Germany would at once have become a theatre of war, with French and Russian troops fighting over the German countryside and struggling for the possession of German cities, and "the "disastrous consequences which Bol- "shevism might be expected to bring "with it would have fallen with "double force on Germany." That is to say, there would have been a German civil war either along with or after the Franco-Russian war on German soil. In comparison, the disadvantages of the Treaty are negligible.

Dr. SIMONS also states that proposals were made for German aid in the war against the Red Army. It would be interesting to learn who made these proposals and how far they extended. The French demanded, or were on the point of demanding, passage for troops and war materials through German territory to aid Poland, but so far as is publicly known nobody but Mr. WINSTON CHURCHILL was willing to trust in the disinterestedness and value of German military co-operation. German assistance against Russia would have had to be bought and the price would have been too high.

Now as always there is one way out for the Germans, and that a much cheaper and easier way than any of these short cuts of wild alliances with anybody who may promise to break the Treaty. That is to get down to work and try to carry out the Treaty. If it can be demonstrated that its terms are impossibly onerous, they will be modified; there is no doubt of that. The reason there is so much reluctance to accept the German protests is because so many of those protests have been obviously dishonest in motive and false in statement of fact. Getting at the truth of such a complex matter as the economic capacity of present-day Germany is a good deal harder than the recognition of obvious falsehood, but it is not impossible. Mr. PAUL D. CRAVATH, in an article on the Spa conference in yesterday's Evening Post, indicated that the allied representatives were willing to listen to the German arguments on their ability to pay, and that the deferment of the fixing of the total indemnity was a matter of necessity. The sum will not be set till a mixed commission reports on the actual ability of Germany. The main question is whether the Germans are willing to go to work to pay any indemnity.

THE HEN OF CORVALLIS.

From the banks of the Willamette comes the modest but triumphant cackle of a tame, villatic fowl worthy of a nobler place in history than swan Zeus calling on Leda, the Roman geese that saved the Capitol, Mrs. O'LEARY'S cow, or the Dog of Montargis. The Pride of Oregon lives on Crestview Farm at Corvallis, where there is a State Agricultural College which she is more than living up to. In 131 consecutive days she has laid 131 consecutive eggs; and still the good work goes on. When so many men work as little as possible, produce the least they can when they do work, strike to get rid of work, pine for a longer list of holidays, the example of the Hen of Corvallis is reproof and admonition to much human laziness. She is on the job and the nest every day. Oregon, nursing mother of multitudinous reforms or changes in political machinery, now wears a more splendid aureole than any whims or crotchets of the doctrinaires can give. Hers is the holidayless and incomparable producing bird, the steadiest of mothers, the Hen of Hens.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Safety from Fire Not Achieved.

As both the aviator and the mechanician of the mail airplane that fell near Morristown on Wednesday were killed, the exact reason of the accident may never be known. From the available evidence, however—there is not much and all untrustworthy—it seems probable that a leak of the gasoline reservoir flooded the cockpit, and that sparks from the engine, which was working badly and backfiring, started the fire that was the immediate beginning of the disaster.

Lieutenant MILLER'S record as a flier is such as to make it certain that no lack of skill or courage had anything to do with the death of himself and his companion. He did whatever could have been done, and it was not enough.

That fire should have been the agent of destruction is a disappointing feature of the terrible affair, for the all-metal plane has frequently been extolled as non-inflammable by its inventor and others. Non-inflammable it is, in the ordinary sense, and in comparison with planes that have wings of cloth and wood, but that its occupants can be burned to death while the fuel used is no better protected than now is lamentably evident. This is not to deny superiority to the Larsen or "German Junker" machine, but it is evident that safety from fire aloft has not yet been attained. Perhaps it never will be attained completely while the source of energy remains—and apparently it always must remain in aviation—a liquid as eager to burn as is gasoline.

One Feature of the Case Misunderstood.

In spite of Lieutenant MILLER'S death, there is no reason for charging that aviation is still a particularly dangerous form of locomotion. It has its perils, undoubtedly, but so have all the other methods of moving from place to place at high speed, and occasional fatal accidents to airplanes will not, and should not, stop the use of them any more than they put an end to the operation of railway and steamship lines or the utilization of automobiles.

The length of Lieutenant MILLER'S service in the air, during both war and peace, is significant, in this respect, and it also is a reminder that most people are unaware of the large amount of transportation by airplane that has been going on regularly every day for many months past.

The suggestion that the mailbags were thrown from the Lieutenant's machine in an effort to save from destruction the precious freight intrusted to them—an effort made heroic by performance when almost certain death was staring him and his companion in the face—is a view of the affair that will be taken only by those who misunderstand the situation that confronted the aviators and what their duty in the situation really was.

In more than probability the mailbags were thrown out, not to save their contents, but to lighten the weight carried, decrease the rapidity of descent, and give the men the only chance they had to save their lives. To do that was their first and highest duty, and the idea of diminishing their chances of escape for the sake of saving the registered letters could not have entered minds as sensible as theirs.

They were not men to be without a sense of relative values, and they were on civilian, not military, service.

A Protest from an "Intellectual."

In a recent advertisement by the Federal Bureau of Standards, positions carrying salaries of $120 a month were offered to college graduates, and other places paying $110 or a little more or less to those with three years of technical training. One consequence of this advertisement is the receipt by the bureau of a letter from a correspondent who angrily declares it to be a deadly insult to the intellectually educated men of the country.

"You put a collegiate education at a discount far below truck driving," he writes, and "you are willing to pay people who clean sewers more than those who have gone through high school and then devoted time and money to the acquirement of an advanced education."

Continuing, the angry letter-writer says that thousands and thousands of illiterates are striking for, and getting, more remuneration for their work than is offered to the possessors of trained minds, and the latter, therefore, are tempted to become Bolsheviki if recognition of their value continues to be denied.

From the reading of this document there comes the suspicion that, if the writer of it ever did go to college or to a technical school, he did not profit there as much as he might have done—that his mind is not as well trained as he thinks. Of course, it is not pleasant for professional men to earn less than mechanics, but in these domains as in others the law of supply and demand is decisive, and a large wage that never will be much increased is not preferable to a small salary that may lead to one forever beyond the artisan's reach. The complaint of the bureau's critic is not wholly unfounded, but he exaggerates the injustice of which he is or imagines himself to be the victim, and he takes no account of his compensations, either in the doing of enjoyable work instead of dull drudgery or in high rewards he can get for special competence.

Paper Covers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is no doubt that many buyers of books heartily approved the suggestion made in your columns a few days ago in favor of issuing more books in unbound style. As you say, the book without a permanent cover may be read comfortably at least two or three times. The purchaser may then, if he thinks it worth the price, have it bound in whatever style he may desire. Let us hope that some of our American publishers, as you so cogently advocate, will consider the advisability of trying the French plan.

As to novels, what could be more satisfactory than the old Franklin Square Library of thirty, or was it fifty, years ago?

WHEN COTTON IS WHITE.

And cotton is high—
Blow on you winds o'er de field,
Fan out de bolls and keep 'em dry
Till de long night comes!

De cotton is white,
De field is wide—
De sun is hot in de mornin',
If I keep my strength
I'll pick it dry,
Even de young bolls formin'!
De rent 'll be paid,
De pan 'll be full,
When cotton is white in de dawnin'!

So pick dat cotton, niggah—
Pick her all down de row—
An' when you ain't a pickin'
Be usin' o' de hoe,
For de rent 'll be paid
And de pocket be full
When cotton is white in de mornin'!

TREATMENT OF PRISONERS.

Correspondence on Its Value to Humanity in Prison Administration.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A few days ago I sent to Mr. Adolph Lewisohn a copy of The New York Law Journal containing the remarks of Supreme Court Justice Mitchell in reply to a presentment of the Bronx Grand Jury criticising those persons in charge of prisoners who believe in giving some entertainment to prisoners, i. e., moving pictures and the like. Mr. Lewisohn has written me the inclosed letter, which I thought would be of interest to your readers and the public generally:

"Prospect Point Camp,
"Upper Saranac, N. Y.,
"Aug. 29, 1920.

"Dear Judge Levy: I received the copy of The New York Law Journal containing a report of the remarks of Judge Mitchell of the Supreme Court of Bronx County and note his argument. Of course, he has a right to his opinion, but I do not agree with him. The method of cruelty and torture of prisoners has been practiced and tried some thousands of years, but has not brought us anywhere. They had the Inquisition and the galley slaves, and it is not so very long ago when from fifty to one hundred offences were punishable by the death penalty. We need not go so far back, for a little while ago I saw convicts at work on the roads in Florida with ball and chain, and a man watching over them on horseback with loaded gun. All these antiquated methods do not decrease crime, and, on the contrary, are brutalizing in their effect. When these men who are so treated go out into the world they are much worse than they were before, and are a serious menace to the community. What we want to do is to try to cure them, set them to work, teach them a trade, let them add to the producing power, and fit them out so that they will be able to make an honest living and are likely to be able to take care of themselves and their families when they are released from prison, and not likely to spread disease, either physical or mental, to the rest of the community. In that case, there is a chance of a good many of them to be restored to the natural condition of self-respecting citizens. Please notice that I say 'a good many of them,' meaning a considerable percentage, not all, of course; but by harsh and cruel treatment there is very little chance for any, or at least any reasonable number, to be reclaimed. The idea that the prisoners, even with what we call reasonably good treatment, have such a good time of it as indicated in Judge Mitchell's remarks, is a mistaken one. The average person wants his liberty, and certainly does not want to be at the mercy of the keepers or those in charge of any prison. What is, in my opinion, the most important factor in the whole matter is that those in charge of the prisoners, like the wardens, keepers, probation officers and others, should be of a high order, should receive fair remuneration, and it should be taken entirely out of politics, so that they will show a good example and will be just, and a good influence, something on the order of the Judges, who are, on an average, of the highest standard and generally have the confidence of the public.

Very truly yours,
"ADOLPH LEWISOHN."

After many years of experience with both children and adults involved in anti-social conduct, I agree with the distinguished writer of the above communication.

THE LEAGUE AND THE COURT

Professor Corwin Replies to David Hunter Miller.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

David Hunter Miller's comments upon Senator Harding's recent address, published in your issue of Aug. 30, are misleading in almost every respect. (1) Senator Harding's assertion that Congress would not "dare" use its constitutional liberty to refuse a call for men and munitions under the League was simply an emphatic way of saying, as the entire context shows, that for Congress to do so, once the United States had accepted the League unqualifiedly, would constitute a breach of national good faith and honor. (2) That the League contemplates the possibility of the use of military forces, and so war, is proved by the explicit language of Article XVI., to say nothing of Article X., against which, in its original form, the President's legal advisers at Paris—one of them being Mr. Miller himself—protested that in certain contingencies such a guarantee meant war. (3) The words which Mr. Miller quotes from an utterance of Lloyd George simply go to confirm Senator Harding's own contention, that the League is dead. (4) Mr. Miller cites the activities of the International Labor Conference to prove that the League is still functioning. But the League and the conference are separated from each other in the Treaty of Versailles by twelve sections and more than 300 articles, and need not in future have the least connection with each other. (5) The confusion which Mr. Miller attributes to Senator Harding between The Hague Tribunal and a court of international justice is not necessarily implied in the Senator's language.

The Court of International Justice will continue in the juristic tradition of The Hague Court, and this tradition was radically departed from in the League Covenant. Moreover, we are now informed that the original membership of the court called for by the Root-Phillemore plan is to be chosen by The Hague Tribunal. (6) Because Senator Harding is willing to see "the just decrees" of The Hague Tribunal "enforceable," Mr. Miller leaps to the conclusion that he would, therefore, favor seeing Great Britain "enforce" an adverse decision in a boundary dispute between the United States and Mexico against the former. Does Mr. Miller think that such a method would render such a decision "enforceable"?

Senator Harding has made a notable contribution not only toward defining the League issues, but also toward providing it with what will undoubtedly be its final solution in a general way. His words deserve far better treatment than Mr. Miller's jaunty handling of them.

Money-Order Profiteering.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to second the remarks of Morgan Barnes re money-order profiteering by the United States postal authorities.

Some time ago I periodically sent to England money orders at the rate of $4.87 until I was put wise to the use of bank drafts at a rate of $3.40 at that period.

I wrote the Postmaster General on the subject, who replied courteously that owing to the Post Office Convention between certain countries they were bound to charge said rate, $4.87.

But here lies the rub—a relative who sent £50 by money order to this country put me to a loss of £10 because the United States Post Office would only cash same at the prevailing rate of exchange in this country.

Is the Post Office Convention is lived up to, why should do they not pay out at the $4.87 rate, the same as their exact?

THE CHILDREN'S COURT.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There are always two ways of doing a thing. One is to anticipate it, study it, prepare to meet it and develop whatever is good in it. Another, and perhaps more often adopted, is to ignore its presence until its occurrence and then, in excitement, hurry and negligently, because unprepared, find many worries, difficulties and perhaps disaster as a result of our inattention. Which of those are we, who are greatly interested, taking with regard to the proposal to increase the age limit of the jurisdiction of the Children's Court? We all know that it will come up and come up shortly, for already at the last Legislature more than one bill was introduced looking to that end. Knowing it is coming, how shall we act? Let a bill be introduced and then all at sixes and sevens rush off to Albany in different camps appearing for and against the measure? Is it not better for all those who are concerned or may be affected to come together, hear both sides of the question, for there are two sides, and wisely determine the best course and how to meet it? There are, in fact, many sides to be considered.

First—How will it affect the work of the Children's Court? Will it be necessary only to change the age of jurisdiction from 16 to 18, or would it be better to give a joint jurisdiction to the Magistrate's Court, so that a case of a young person between 16 and 18 would in the first instance go to the Magistrate's Court or in the discretion of the Magistrate to the Children's Court? If this were passed, would it deprive the youth of any right guaranteed by the Constitution? Would it be necessary to make arrangements in the courts for forcible detention places in the case of the larger grown boys? Would it be necessary to provide additional exclusive places of detention for the larger and more sophisticated girls from the younger and more innocent ones?

Second—How would the procedure of the court have to be changed to meet the case? Would the newcomers be charged with felonies and misdemeanors, or would an act by a boy or girl of 17 years be only an act of juvenile delinquency? Do young people between the given ages appreciate the right and wrong of larceny, assault, burglary, robbery and the taking of people's property or even lives? And should they be placed in the minor preventive institutions or should they, when their responsibility is fixed, be treated with more advanced, educational or corrective measures?

Third—Are the institutions now being so generally and so satisfactorily used the proper place for the care of advanced youth or should they be sent to the Sheriff for temporary care and to jail, the reformatory or prison for disposition? Are the institutions, such as the New York Catholic Protectory, New York Jewish Protectory, Aid Society and the Children's Village, prepared to receive the older ones proposed? Do the charters of these institutions permit of their taking children over 16 years of age? Should the charters be amended or should new institutions be organized? Will the managers and supporters of these and similar homes now being so efficiently conducted be willing to extend their work? If not, can the Children's Court handle the cases and the youths with better success than the present method? Will the Legislature increase the age for the reception of girls at the State Training School for Girls and the various other institutions that now receive only those under 16 years?

Fourth—If the change is made how many more cases will be held in the Children's Court? Will it be necessary in order to handle the cases to slur over the work of all of them due to the increase of cases to consider, and will it be necessary to increase the number of Children's Courts? Would it be better to establish a "Youth's Court" (as in Chicago) and there treat the cases of the more advanced rather than crowd out the care of the little ones by herding them and their disabilities into one tribunal with their seniors? Is the problem of the child under 16 often the same as that of the one over 16, or is it mostly a separate and new problem? And, finally, should not every interest, including those of an older growth, be consulted when we are considering this important proposed step?

At the present time there are but two institutions that can receive youths over 16 years, and these are the Roman Catholic House of the Good Shepherd for girls, and in special cases the House of Refuge for boys.

If we should make the change let us do it intelligently, and before making the attempt let us come together and consider whether from all points of view it is wise to do so and in every way how to secure the best results.

In establishing the Children's Court the State has secured a real gain and before this gain is jeopardized let us make sure the step is one in advance. Is it?

Lodge and Poland.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When an advocate is unwilling to state fairly the question which he is discussing and resorts to misleading statements, it is a confession of defeat—an admission that if the real case is stated, his position cannot be maintained. What must be the inference when Senator Lodge, the Republican leader in the fight against the Peace Treaty, makes such a statement as the following which I quote from a carefully prepared speech delivered by him last week:

"The sympathy of every American is with the Poles. If we were a member of the League and had agreed to Article X. and Poland summoned us no action of the League would be necessary. We should have to go, and go to war with Russia and send several hundred thousands, perhaps millions, of our men, as well as millions of our money."

It is difficult to believe that Mr. Lodge does not know that Article X. imposes no obligation on one member of the League to furnish aid when another member chooses to demand it. The appeal of any member is to the League itself and not to another member. The only obligation of any member is to do what the council of the League decides to do by unanimous vote.

Is Mr. Lodge's cause so bad that he must descend to misrepresentation?

The Cox Luncheon.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The hundreds who were accorded the privilege of attending the splendid reception and luncheon for Governor Cox last Saturday doubtless feel as does one loyal Democrat—that the arrangements, management, in fact everything, could not have been better. And as for the great war Governor of Ohio and Democratic nominee for President—well may it be said that he is "gentle in manners, but resolute in deed." The League of Nations snarl is truly "dignified, undignified, undignified!"

WASHINGTON GROWTH LAGS.

State Drops Behind Connecticut—Has Population of 1,356,316.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The population growth in Washington State in the last ten years was little more than one-third of its numerical increase in the previous ten years. The total 1920 population was 1,356,316, as announced today by the Census Bureau. As a result Washington, which ranked as thirtieth State ten years ago, is now outranked by Connecticut, thirty-first State in 1910.

Washington's increase numerically was 214,326, while Connecticut, which had about 27,000 fewer people than Washington ten years ago, has shown an increase of 265,829 in the last decade and now has about 34,000 more people than Washington.

The rate of growth of Washington, 18.8 per cent. in the last ten years, was the smallest in the State's history. Its highest rate of growth was 375.6 per cent. in the decade ending with 1890, while in the decade ending with 1910 it was 120.4 per cent., the highest rate of increase shown by any State in the Union in that census.

Other population figures announced by the Census Bureau were:

Spokane County, Wash., containing Spokane, 141,289, an increase of 1,885 or 1.4 per cent.

Twin Falls, Idaho, 8,324, an increase of 3,006 or 58.3 per cent.

Point Pleasant, W. Va., 3,059, an increase of 1,014 or 49.6 per cent.

Roosevelt, N. J., 11,047, an increase of 5,261 or 90.0 per cent.

Carthage, Mo. (revised), 20,068. Previously announced, 10,053.

Joplin, Mo. (revised), 29,902. Previously announced, 29,855.

Announcement of the population of the State of Colorado, Boulder, Col., and Troy, N. Y., with revised figures for Denver, Col., will be made tomorrow.

FLEET CORPORATION WINS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Justice Siddons of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia today disposed of the motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction interposed by the Government in the suit brought by the Pusey & Jones Shipbuilding Company against the Emergency Fleet Corporation by holding that the court had no jurisdiction so far as it involved power of the Emergency Fleet Corporation to deduct from the award of the company $3,776,737.

The court held that the Emergency Fleet Corporation acted as the agent of the President and sustained the contention of the Government that the remedy provided by the statute for a suit against the United States in the Court of Claims was exclusive.

The court, however, enjoined the Emergency Fleet Corporation from foreclosing a mortgage on the plaintiff's property until he had opportunity to file suit in the Court of Claims.

Later Premier Dato made public a declaration as to the Government's program, saying the principal efforts of the Ministry would be toward a settlement of industrial difficulties and proper organization of food supplies so that the country will enjoy equal distribution, with the elimination of profiteering.

"In all other respects," said the statement, "the policy of the Government will be to follow the course adopted when the former Government took office, aiming at steady advancement along progressive lines."

TURKISH ENVOY TO VATICAN.

Sultan to Send First Minister in Gratitude to Pope.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1 (Associated Press).—Turkey will send a Minister to the Vatican, it was announced today. This is the first time Islam officially has affiliated with Christendom, the step being taken on the Sultan's initiative as a mark of gratitude for the Pope's financial and other aid to Turkish war prisoners through Mgr. Dolci, the Apostolic Delegate here during the war.

Before the Minister is sent to Rome the Vatican will be asked if he will be received.

Damad Ferid Pasha, the Grand Vizier, has expressed the hope that he will be sent to London as Turkish Minister. He feels, it is said, that it will be unsafe for him to remain here.

Delegates from two of the largest organizations of French war veterans will leave here soon to attend the American convention. It is understood they will discuss a project to make the membership cards of the veteran organizations of all the allied countries interchangeable as regards courtesies and privileges.

ASK COURT TO FORCE PAY FOR TEACHERS

Controller Craig's Refusal to Honor Increase Will Be Resisted by Mayor's Order.

MANDAMUS TO BE SOUGHT

Corporation Counsel O'Brien Assures President Prall Higher Salaries Must Be Paid.

Mandamus proceedings will be resorted to if necessary to compel Controller Charles L. Craig to pay the increase in salaries due to school teachers and the clerical force of the Board of Education provided for by the Lockwood-Donohue bill. When the Mayor learned yesterday that the Controller had notified President Anning S. Prall of the Board of Education that he would not honor the August payrolls unless the amounts were reduced to the original salaries, he wrote to President Prall and Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien suggesting that they confer as to the advisability of instituting mandamus proceedings.

President Prall called at the office of Controller Craig with a letter demanding that the payroll for August audited by his board be paid in full. Controller Craig is not in the city, but the letter was laid before Deputy Controller Arthur J. Philbin, who promised to take the matter up with the Controller. Mr. Prall was informed that the August checks were being made out by the Finance Department so far as the administrative clerical forces are concerned at the old rate, the amount of the increased pay being deducted from the Board of Education's payroll.

Mr. Prall said he had been advised by the Corporation Counsel that there was no question but the increased pay is due and must eventually be paid. He warned the teaching, supervising, clerical and janitorial forces to accept under protest any salary checks that did not include the increases.

"If the Controller refuses these payrolls," Mr. Prall said, "he is not only visiting hardship upon the entire teaching and administrative forces, but is also defying the express command of the statutes. In addition to the mandatory provisions contained in the Lockwood-Simpson and Lockwood-Donohue bills there is the direction of Section 140 of the Greater New York Charter."

KNIGHTS VISIT GENOA.

Lay Wreath at Statue of Columbus —Crowds Cheer Them.

GENOA, Sept. 2.—The American Knights of Columbus visited today the city of the birth of their patron, Christopher Columbus, and deposited a massive wreath at the foot of the statue of the discoverer. The Mayor of the city declared a civic holiday.

The Knights visited the home of Columbus and were followed everywhere by cheering crowds. In the afternoon General Massone, Mayor of Genoa, and the American Consul, James J. Murphy, Jr., gave a reception at the City Hall.

The Knights will leave Genoa for Nice Friday. From Nice they will make a pilgrimage to Lourdes, returning to Paris on Sept. 7.

KYOTO,

SAYS MEXICO SEEKS TO WIN CONFIDENCE

De la Huerta, in Opening Congress, Says All Necessary Guarantees Will Be Given.

SHOWS PROGRESS MADE

In Last Six Months the Country Has Regained Much of Her Lost Prestige, He Says.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—President de la Huerta formally opened Congress yesterday afternoon and delivered the Presidential message containing 30,000 words. The President went to Congress from the Palace by auto, rather than in the state carriage, thus departing from long established precedents. There was no long line of soldiers as in former years. Large crowds thronged the streets.

The President's address, in part, follows:

"The Mexican Government is at peace internally and with foreign nations. We desire to cultivate friendly relations with all nations and to create confidence in the good-will of Mexico, which is anxious and capable of fulfilling her obligations.

"Despite difficulties the Government's efforts to protect the lives and interests of foreigners have produced good results and the Government will continue putting forth every effort to give foreigners full guarantees."

Reviews of Oil Situation.

The President, touching on the oil question, said that as a result of hard work the oil department was growing daily. The department had formed a new law of exploitation, which would make easy the conduct of the oil business. The oil industry, which had grown most exclusively in Northern Vera Cruz, was now slowly extending to other parts of the republic. The Government had granted five concessions and was about to give more—two in Lower California, two in Sonora, one in Colima and others in Michoacan, Jalisco, Guerrero, Campeche, Quintana Roo and Tamaulipas.

He referred to the denouncements of oil lands in Chihuahua, Durango and Coahuila as worthy of notice in that all the new interests that were being created under our laws were counteracting the opposition that had been made by oil men who were against the principles of nationalization of the subsoil.

By virtue of their concessions, the President said, one Mexican petroleum company has a production of 5,000 barrels daily, whereof 750 barrels belong to the Government, or 15 per cent. of the production, which was agreed to in this class of concession. The number of wells driven is placed at 1,123; wells located, 147; productive wells, 313; wells sunk, 123; abandoned, 540. Thirty-nine permits for new wells had been given.

President de la Huerta referred to the activities of a number of oil companies which opposed the Government policy. "It is public knowledge that there exists a group of oil men which places all classes of obstacles before our oil legislation," he said, adding: "This group, in the first days of the establishment of the present Government, tried without success to have the decrees which they think damage their interests revoked. These companies have also been against the concessions for the extraction of oil in the Federal zones. According to precedents on concessions, it can be said that when the majority of wells sunk by the Government are producing their revenue will cover almost all the national budget."

Proposes to Revise Treaties.

Speaking on foreign affairs, President de la Huerta stated that treaties of amity and trade with several nations were being studied, with a view to revising them to meet the situations which have grown out of the European war. Treaties to be made with other nations are also under consideration. For the first time in ten years extradition treaties between Mexico and other countries were again in force, and extraditions had been asked and granted between Mexico, the United States and Cuba.

Speaking of the Jenkins case, he said it was under consideration by the courts and a decision was expected shortly.

Steps had been taken to furnish to Mexicans and citizens of other countries greater protection. The Executive had taken great interest in the protection of foreigners, and they would receive guarantees, he said.

In this connection, the President said, the Government had not ceased to weigh the heavy and serious responsibilities contracted by previous administrations, above all during the course of the revolutionary movement, and it was studying the question of indemnities to foreigners resident in Mexico for damages which they had suffered, including funds taken from banks, &c. He expected these questions to be solved in so far as means at the disposal of the country permitted.

Says Country Is Now at Peace.

Describing the present condition of the country, the President said that peace prevailed. All the rebels in the field against Carranza had capitulated, and but a few small bands of highwaymen were still at large and were being pursued by large forces.

The War Department reported that revolutionary troops mustered out total 28,000 men and 700 officers. Forty-seven Generals and 1,008 other officers had been discharged for various reasons, 160 officers being given dishonorable discharges. The total strength of the army now consisted of 130 regiments of cavalry, seventy-five battalions of infantry, seven regiments of field artillery, with corresponding auxiliary forces. Many of these were below organization strength and were to be consolidated in the reorganization of the army. The strength of the army personnel in future was to be 85,549 men, 178 general officers, 2,079 field officers and 11,789 junior officers.

The President also announced that a General Staff for the army would be formed. Regarding aviation he said that a commission had been formed to make meteorological study of air currents in the country and map air routes. He did not wish Mexico to be behind in aero service calls and had called a meeting to consider propositions to establish an aero express passenger service. The Government was now studying one proposition and probably would grant a concession shortly.

Taking up the increase in interior business, the President said that, taking the stamp as a criterion, business had increased during the last six months by 6,698,770 pesos. Custom taxes had been remitted on machinery needed to build up the country and export taxes on articles which were produced in excess of the country's needs.

Reporting the work of the Attorney General, the President said that preferential attention had been given to events attending the departure of Carranza from the capital, responsibility for which fell to various high officials and military officers of the last administration. These were being held responsible for thefts of public funds, as well as for the death of Carranza.

$1,000 on Strike in Capital.

MEXICO City, Sept. 2 (Associated Press).—Thirty-one thousand workers, including mill hands, employes of cigarette factories and some printers, unexpectedly struck here yesterday, according to unofficial statistics published by the newspaper El Universal.

The newspaper says there is apprehension that the strike will spread and that street car men and other unions will become involved.

Charles Hoyle, an American citizen, who was kidnapped by the bandit Pedro Zamora at Cuale, State of Jalisco, on Aug. 20, and who was later released, arrived at Guadalajara yesterday afternoon. He is seeking 100,000 pesos ransom which Zamora is demanding for W. A. (Sandy) Gardiner, another American, who, with W. B. Johnson, a British subject, is still being held captive by the bandit.

MEXICO EXPELLING BOLSHEVIKI THERE

She Informs All American Governments of Plots to Establish Soviets.

TO DEPORT DRAFT EVADERS

L. E. A. Gale, an American, Will Be Arrested as Soon as He Reaches United States Soil.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Mexican Government has sent information to all American Governments indicating that certain Bolshevist leaders some months ago selected Mexico as a base of operations from which to propagate Bolshevism in the western world. The message says that it was owing to the exposure of the Bolshevist plots in Mexico within the last few days that the De la Huerta Government was led to order the expulsion from Mexico of several of the most prominent leaders in the movement, one of them the New York draft deserter, Lynn E. A. Gale, who since 1917 has been the editor of the most bitterly anti-American paper published in Mexico.

According to the information reaching Washington, the De la Huerta investigation disclosed that the movement in Mexico was directed from Europe, probably from Russia, and that among other things the leaders had planned for demonstrations in various North and South American countries on Jan. 1 next. The fact that a vicious propaganda was being waged in Mexico came to the attention of the Mexican Government as a result of the circulation in the Mexican Army and military schools of treasonable circulars, the appeals being sent in many instances to soldiers about to be mustered out of the Mexican service by orders of President De la Huerta.

The decision of the Mexican Government to deport Gale and his wife back to the United States was reported yesterday in press dispatches from Mexico City, and was confirmed here today.

Gale, during the Carranza administration, was very close to the late First Chief and efforts to have him returned to the United States, where he is wanted for desertion, were vetoed by Carranza. It is stated in Mexico City in the highest quarters that the expenses incurred by Gale in publishing his Bolshevist and anti-American paper were borne by the Carranza administration. The American Embassy is fully cognizant of the details of the Carranza-Gale alliance.

The national organization which calls itself the Mexican Communist Party is directed by an executive committee, of which Jose Refugio Rodriguez is Secretary General and Treasurer. The other members of the committee and their respective departments for organizing work are as follows: Timoteo Garcia, organizer of agricultural and fishery workers; C. F. Tabler, the mining industry; Vicente Ortega, railwaymen; Francisco Cervantes Lopez, industrial workers; Maclovio Pacheco, building workers, and Lynn A. E. Gale, publicity.

Worked With I. W. W.

The elimination of Gale and Tabler by expulsion under Article 33 of the Constitution is but a part of the eradication of Bolshevism by President de la Huerta. The posters that started the investigation were designed by the Red leaders, Gale, Tabler and Cervantes Lopez. In the report made to the President after the investigation it was stated that the organization under the guise of the I. W. W., of which also the Bolsheviki are members, "has long been engaged in the most skillful propaganda in efforts to organize the Mexican proletariat along the line of the most advanced Socialism, that is, Bolshevism."

Up to September of last year Gale was the only member of the Socialist Party in Mexico who had openly joined the I. W. W. and was working for Bolshevism. From that time on the movement has been increasing in activities and the membership has been growing. For some time the work of the organization was purely academic, but recently the members have been engaged in practical politics.

The literature in Mexico is said to be that intended to be followed in all the Latin-American countries. The organizers in Mexico receive their instructions from Moscow, and in turn transmit it to their workers throughout the Americas from Canada to Argentina.

Tabler, named as in charge of propaganda among the miners, is a German, and, like Gale, was ordered deported to Germany under the provisions of Article 33 of the Mexican Constitution. Other foreigners said to be concerned in the movement are expected to be ordered deported within the next few days.

There are other American draft deserters besides Gale in the movement, and they are said to be marked for early return to this country.

Gale will be arrested by agents of the Department of Justice as soon as he arrives at the border. It is understood that he will be landed on American soil at Laredo, Texas.

SWISS SEE COLLAPSE IN GERMAN INDUSTRY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 2.—The independent exports commission, representing Swiss industries and agriculture, which has just returned from investigating commercial and agricultural conditions in Germany, reports that stagnation still continues.

Business houses, the commission reports, are selling off goods at half prices such as were prevalent last March. Manufacturers are holding back and production everywhere is restricted.

Consequently, it is said, unemployment in Germany is increasing terribly, so that a fall in wages can hardly be avoided.

This, however, is anticipated with alarm, because of the political ferment in Germany and of the conditions on that country's eastern frontier.

For next Winter, the Swiss report says, matters look black. Many manufacturers are glad or a pretext for restricting their output, which pretext they now have in the reduced quantity of coal available since Aug. 1.

The Westphalian and Rhineland iron and steel works already are reducing output, alleging that since Germany is compelled to supply so much coal to the Entente, the factories have not enough for themselves. Similar conditions are beginning to prevail in Central and Southern Germany.

It is estimated that, owing to the coal shortage, the output of the iron and steel industry can only attain 40 per cent. of normal. In Saxony, in the china, glass and paper works, where pit-coal can be used, the industries are more normal.

This year's harvest in Germany, say the Swiss agricultural experts, is satisfactory, particularly the potato crop. Nevertheless Germany must still partly depend on imported food.

The commission's opinion, in conclusion, is that Germany cannot work out her own salvation without outside help nor fulfill her treaty obligations unless the allied powers and the United States combine to lend a helping hand.

ROOT AT PILGRIM FETE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 2.—About 2,000 Dutch, American and British attended the Pilgrim meeting in the Nieuwe Kerk, Amsterdam, this evening, when addresses were made by Dr. Henry Atkinson of New York and the Rev. Mr. Aubrey of Cambridge, while Bishop Darlington read cabled messages from fourteen societies in America.

The American Minister gave a luncheon today to about forty Pilgrim delegates. Mr. Phillips's guests included, besides Foreign Minister Vankarnebeek, Elihu Root, just arrived on matters of the Court of Arbitration, and several American officers of the United States cruiser Frederick.

At an afternoon reception in the Amsterdam Town Hall an address was made by Hamilton Holt, who touched on the Presidential campaign, saying "America took nearly three years to come into the war and the same time to make peace."

The most picturesque event of the celebration in Holland was today's boat trip along the way the Pilgrims went from Leyden to Delfshaven. Among the 1920 Pilgrims were two descendants of 1620, Bishop Brewster of Maine and William Bradford Dowse of Massachusetts. The Rev. Dr. Boynton of Brooklyn spoke in the Dutch Reformed Church at Delfshaven.

Bishop Brewster made an address this afternoon in the cathedral at Rotterdam. After a large dinner in the Zoological Gardens, at which the Foreign Minister presided, the "Pilgrims" sailed for Plymouth, as had their predecessors 300 years ago.

YANKEES THRASHED BY BOSTON RED SOX

WEAK AT BAT AND IN FIELD

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The rarified atmosphere of Fenway Park proved to be not all what the doctor ordered for the New York Yankees today, when they opened their series with the Red Sox. The home players, thoroughly acclimated and quite accustomed to the lofty altitude of six inches above sea level, capered circles about their unresisting guests and tucked the game away by the conclusive score of 6 to 2.

If the Yankees had worn masks and petticoats today they could not have been any more thoroughly disguised than than they were by the kind of baseball they played. Nobody, not even their wives and mothers, would have recognized them as the same athletes who won that dazzling 2-to-0 victory over the Browns on Wednesday. At the bat, in the field and on the base paths they were awful; but while sitting on the bench awaiting their batting turns they were pretty fair. Their display of baseball was such, in fact, that stray New Yorkers who wandered out to Fenway Park to see the game put a soft drawl into their talk so that people around would think they came from Atlanta or Memphis and not suspect them of being Yankee partisans.

It wasn't so much Bob Shawkey's fault. He pitched good ball, allowing only half a dozen hits; but his mates played ball on their knees behind him. Shawkey gave way to a pinch hitter in the eighth and McGraw wound up the game. Myers found the visitors in a listless mood with the ash and they got only five safeties off his slant, one of them being a four-base bang by Ward.

Red Sox Take Early Lead.

In the opening inning, after Scott had thrown out Peck and Schang had fielded Pipp's little dribbler in front of the plate, Myers whiffed Bob Meusel. Then the Red Sox proceeded to stack up a brace of runs on one infield single and one even more prolific error.

Hooper waited and got a base on balls. Vitt attempted to sacrifice, but Shawkey threw his tap into centre field, Hooper scoring and Vitt taking second. Menosky sacrificed, Ward to Pipp, Vitt taking third. Hendryx singled through the box, Vitt scoring. McInnis lined to Pipp, who stepped on first base, doubling up Hendryx.

It was one-two-three for the Yanks again in the second, but the Red Sox put over what proved to be the deciding tally. Schang tripled to left field. Scott singled to centre, scoring Schang. Brady popped to Peck. Myers hit into a double play, Pratt to Peck to Pipp.

Aaron Ward opened the third session with a screaming drive to the depths of centre field for a home run. There was nothing else stirring, however, for Ruel grounded to Vitt, Shawkey rolled to Brady, and Peck grounded to Scott.

Local Team Gets One More.

Once more the Red Sox added unearned increment to their store in their half of the third. Hooper filed to Meusel. Vitt walked and stole second. Bodie took Menosky's fly to right centre. Hendryx hit the scoreboard for two bases, Vitt scoring. McInnis rolled to Ward.

In the fourth the New Yorkers garnered one more run. Thereafter they were utterly quiescent for the remainder of the afternoon, courteously but firmly rejecting opportunities to score which arose ever and again. In this fourth session Pipp bounced to McInnis. Meusel was safe on Scott's error. Pratt singled, Meusel taking third and Pratt moving up on the throw. Lewis rolled to Scott, Meusel scoring. Pratt, however, was run down, Scott to Vitt, Lewis reaching first. Bodie filed to Hooper.

Scott singled, with one out, in the Red Sox' half of the same inning, but Brady hit into a double play, Pratt to Pipp. Both teams were easy victims in the fifth.

There was lots of action in the sixth. The Yanks made a couple of sharp safe drives, and failed to cash in at the plate only through ultra-stupid baseball. After Walter Pipp had been walked Meusel singled to centre, Pipp taking second. Pipp took a steal off second and was nipped, Schang to Scott. Pratt doubled to right centre, Meusel going to third. Lewis bunted to McInnis, Meusel being out to Schang. Lewis loafed and was doubled, Schang to McInnis.

Still Another for Red Sox.

The local men in their portion of the inning got no hits whatever, but they landed a perfectly good run. Menosky walked. Hendryx forced him, Ward to Pratt. Pipp fumbled Pratt's relay, thus gumming a double play. Hendryx was trapped between first and second on an attempted steal. Pratt, however, blithely tossed the ball into the Boston dugout, Hendryx going to third. McInnis filed to Bodie, Hendryx scoring. Schang popped to Pratt.

The seventh was one of those hurry-up-and-get-it-over innings for both sides, with only three batters up on each side. In the eighth Vick batted for Shawkey and lashed out a sharp grounder on which Vitt made a great play for the out at first. Peck and Pipp were each outs, the former on a roller to Scott and the latter on a foul to Schang.

McGraw went into the box for the visitors in the latter half of the eighth and the Red Sox got their final tally off his delivery. Harry Hooper opened on him with a triple to right. Ward threw out Vitt and Hooper scored after Lewis had caught Menosky's fly. Wallie Pipp absorbed Hendryx's high one.

Meusel opened the ninth with a slam over second for a single. His cries for help went unheeded, for Pratt filed to Hooper and Lewis hit into a double play.

Trapshooting Stages Notable Comeback in U. S. and Canada.

Trapshooting received quite a set-back while the war was on, for no less than 2,000 trapshooting clubs passed in their checks. Trapshooting, however, is a sport that can come back. Those who shot at the traps prior to the war resumed clay target shooting just as soon as they got back in "civvies" and a lot of men who never shot at targets before did so when the opportunity presented itself since the war.

During 1919, 575 trapshooting clubs were formed or revived and now there are 2,217 trapshooting clubs in the United States and Canada. At this time last year there were 1,703 in the United States, 70 in Canada, 7 in Alaska, one in the Canal Zone and 25 in Hawaii, Philippines and China. Alaska now has ten clubs and there are 103 in Canada. We have no figures on the Zone nor the islands in the Pacific.

Pennsylvania has more gun clubs than any other State—220. Philadelphia has more gun clubs than any other city, 24; Chicago has 19 and New York 11. Buffalo has 10; St. Louis, 7; Newark, N. J., 8, and Baltimore, Boston, Washington and Detroit have three each.

GIANTS AT LAST DEFEAT PIRATES

Jess Barnes Leads McGrawmen to 5-to-1 Victory in Final Game of the Series.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 2.—The Giants will stand just so much, and then they draw the line. After dropping four in a row on Forbes Field the New Yorkers decided that the Pirates were in earnest in the matter of taking a fall out of John McGraw's penant hopes. So they arose, repelled the invader and routed the pesky Pirates in a 5 to 1 victory. The belated triumph gave the Giants one success in the five engagements here, and made the Western record eight wins and seven losses.

It required the expert services of Dr. Jess Barnes, the specialist, to take care of the Pirates this afternoon. Jess was the old reliable with the mysterious curves, and, aside from a bad first inning, he was the personification of mystery itself. The specialist was touched up for nine hits, but the scoring was limited to one run, which is far more important. In the first inning, two singles were merged with a stolen base to produce the only tally of the afternoon for George Gibson's pennant chasers.

Meanwhile the Giants were making merry with the offerings of Earl Hamilton, the portside flinger. After being baffled for one inning by Mr. Hamilton, the McGrawmen bestirred themselves and refused to be fooled any longer. They were anxious to get away from the Smoky City, but before they departed they wanted to take a final swing at the Pirates, just to show there were no hard feelings. The Giants expect to take up the argument next year, when they reappear at Forbes Field.

Lee King was the bright boy with the stick. Lee lost one game with a disastrous muff of a fly with two out and he decided to atone. He maced Hamilton for three hits, all of them singles. Bancroft, Kelly and Burns added to their eminence as citizens by slamming out a double each. Frankie Frisch was the only Manhattanite who failed to get a finger in the pie, outside of Jess Barnes, who was too busy in the box to bother about his batting average.

A Steady Fire.

Hamilton lasted eight innings under the crossfire, which was steady without being explosive. In the last half of the eighth Lee batted for the left-hander, clearing the way for the entrance of Wisner on the mound in the ninth. The Giants made their fifth and last run off the relief hurler.

The Giants entrained for home tonight, sadder but wiser. They are two and a half games behind the champion Reds and two contests separated from the Robins, who did not play today and consequently lost a half game to both their nearest rivals in the pennant embroglio. The Pittsburgh visit was the most disastrous of the year to the Giants, who had prided themselves on not having lost a series in the West. McGraw was pleased with the fighting spirit displayed today and looks for an improvement when the lads hit the home lot. They will tarry at the Polo Grounds tomorrow for a one-game series with the Braves, this to be followed with a two-game altercation with the Phillies.

Barnes was unsteady in the first frame today and allowed a run to trickle over. The way it happened was this: Bigbee, the first batter, beat out a hit to Bancroft but was forced at second by Barbare when the latter grounded to Larry Doyle. After Southworth had filed to Young, Barbare stole second, tearing up a lot of ground and a part of his stomach in doing so. McKechnie had to run for Barbare, and later went to second base, Barbare retiring to patch up his uniform and his disposition. He was only slightly hurt. When the affair had been smoothed over, Nicholson inserted a single into left which brought McKechnie across with the Pirates' only tally of the contest. Frisch ended the rally by throwing Whitted out at first.

Kelly Starts It.

Long George Kelly was the party who began the Giants' uprising in the second. George doubled to left centre with one out and romped to third while Caton was throwing King out at first. Doyle walked and Hamilton was so upset by his generosity that he made a wild pitch, Kelly racing across the plate and Doyle pulling up at second. Snyder walked, but Barnes fanned.

Jess was still a trifle wabbly in the second and allowed Caton and Grimm to single. The former, however, got frisky and tried to take third on Grimm's blow. Young cut him off at the far corner with a splendid throw to Frisch. Doyle threw out Hamilton.

Bancroft's double with one out in the third started trouble, but the rally fell short. Another wild pitch by the temperamental Hamilton advanced Bancroft to third. There he slowly expired, while Young was flying to Nicholson in short centre and Frisch was grounding out to McKechnie. In the fourth the New Yorkers pushed over what later proved to be the winning tally. Kelly again started the rally and singled to Caton. Caton's grounder bounced over Grimm's topknot, Kelly reaching third. When Doyle hit to Grimm, Kelly beat the throw plateward, King making second in safety. Snyder sacrificed him to third, but Barnes fanned and Burns's short fly nestled in Nicholson's waiting glove.

In the sixth the Giants made it 4 to 1 by annexing two more markers. King beat out a bunt, but was out at third trying to take two bases on Doyle's single to right. Larry was safe at second when McKechnie snuffed Whitted's hurl on Snyder's grounder. Barnes's infield out advanced both runners, and they kept on running when George Burns smacked a timely single to centre.

Burns Commits Robbery.

Burns's leaping stab robbed Whitted of a triple in the seventh. The ball bounded out of the left fielder's mit, but he speared it before it could reach the sod. Schmidt beat out an infield hit, but the next two hitters were easy for Barnes. In the Pirates half of the chapter Lee more singles off Hamilton, but Barnes spilled the beans by driving into a double play, Snyder being nipped at second. In the Pirates' half of the chapter Lee batted for Hamilton and fanned, thus spoiling a high piece of strategy on the part of George Gibson. Bigbee fouled out and McKechnie singled. He died on first when Doyle grabbed Southworth's grounder for the easy out at first.

The final run came over for the Giants in the ninth, with Wisner twirling for Pittsburgh. Burns doubled to start it off and was sacrificed to third by Bancroft. Young slammed a high-bounding grounder over Caton's head and Burns cashed in at the plate. In the Pirates' half Schmidt wasted a triple with two out, Young smaring Caton's fly for the third out.

READING BUNCHES HITS OFF SKEETERS

Miners Score Victory by 7 to 4 in Farewell Appearance in Jersey City.

Reading got away with an even break yesterday in the home of the Skeeters by combining an easy victory with a farewell appearance against the Jersey City team. The score was 7 to 4.

The Miners put in a busy afternoon at bat and dug up a streak of hitting that gave them an early lead, which was maintained until the finish. Karp twirled for Hummell's outfit, and had the Skeeters at his mercy for six rounds, their batting efforts being restricted to a pair of singles. In the seventh, however, Donovan's boys found the proper groove, after two men had been disposed of, and pummeled Karp's delivery for a pair of doubles and a triple, which, with a pair of passes, accounted for four runs on the Jersey City slate and forced Karp's retirement.

Barnhardt was summoned as the relief artist and worked through the remaining periods safely, although a snappy double play in the eighth pulled the big fellow out of a hole after the home artists had got going.

Fred Harscher was on duty for the short enders and got along well until the fourth. In that inning Bowman, the husky first baseman recently turned over with Fred Thomas by the Washington Club as part of the deal with Reading for the services of Brower, cracked out a speedy grass-cutter to left, the ball bounding through Wigelsworth and earning Bowman credit for a home run. This broke the ice and was followed by a fusillade of slugging by the visitors in the sixth, which provided the necessary material for putting the game beyond the reach of the home athletes.

The trouble in this eventful period began with Burns's hot drive just out of Zitman's reach. Thomas slammed a grounder too hot for Harscher. Altenburg forced Thomas at the midway. Altenburg stole second and Bowman was permitted to stroll. Harscher preferred to take a chance on Mariott, but made a poor guess, as the latter came to the scratch with the corners all clogged and cleaned up with a hard drive to centre, the ball getting beyond Zimmerman, three runs scoring and Mariott easing up on the warm corner. Sheridan's drive through the box sent Mariott over with what proved the winning run.

Bowman, the Washington recruit, played a heavy part in the Miners' success with a homer, a base on balls and a triple in his four times up, which netted him three runs. Mariott, however, proved the real sensation at bat by peeling off three singles and a double in his four trips to the rubber. Mooers, Kane and Zitman shared honors for the home team.

AIMS AT HARVARD GAME.

Holy Cross Eleven Will Put Its Strongest Team on Field Sept. 25.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 2.—Inasmuch as the important game of the early football season for Holy Cross will take place with Harvard at Soldiers Field on Sept. 25, the eleven from Worcester will swing into intensive training this Fall sooner than ever before. The Holy Cross team will report on Sept. 8, one day later than Harvard, Yale and many other leading elevens of the East, but the idea of Coach Cleo O'Donnell will be to turn from preliminary into more active and intensive work at the earliest practicable moment.

O'Donnell says he is going to put the strongest possible team into the field against the Crimson, and to that end will be willing to rebuild his entire machine, if necessary, after the Harvard game is over. The indications are that Harvard will have one of the closest opening contests on its schedule for years and that Holy Cross will offer

JOHNSTON DEFEATS WILLIAMS AT NET

WINS BY 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-0

Eight men are left today in competition for the individual tennis championship of the United States on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills. In the order of the draw, from top to bottom, as they will meet this afternoon, they are G. Colket Caner, Massachusetts State champion; Irving C. Wright, his fellow-Bostonian; Watson M. Washburn, winner of the Seabright and Westchester tournaments; William M. Johnston, the playing-through champion; Clarence J. Griffin, his partner in the national doubles title; Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia, William T. Tilden, 2d, considered the world's champion, as the result of his victory at Wimbledon, and Walter Westbrook, champion of Michigan.

The four matches that occupied the grand-stand courts yesterday were those of actual and potential Davis Cup candidates, and in nearly every case the logical favorite won. The present champion defeated Richard Norris Williams, 2d, in straight sets, 6–3, 6–4, 7–5; Tilden gave young Vincent Richards a thorough beating at 6–3, 3–6, 6–3, 6–0; Washburn took three sets from Charles S. Garland, all scored 7–5; Wallace Johnson staged the nearest approach to an upset by eliminating Roland Roberts, 6–2, 3–6, 6–3, 4–6, 6–4, leaving only two Californians in the last eight.

The third round of the veterans' singles was completed, with an upset in the defeat of last year's winner, Clarence Hobart, by Arthur Ingraham; seven juniors reached the round before the semi-finals, Lewis White, William Aydelotte, W. W. Ingraham, Harold Semple, Charles Watson, 3d, Milo Miller, and A. W. Jones, and the semi-finals of the boys' event found William Einsmann, Weller Evans, Rudge Nichols and J. L. Farquhar as the survivors.

A Full Program.

It was probably the biggest day that a national tennis tournament has ever seen, for the perfect weather brought out a huge crowd, and it was estimated that over 10,000 people jammed their way into the grounds. Perhaps never before have two such sensational matches been played simultaneously as the Johnston-Williams and the Tilden-Richards encounters, with Roberts and Johnson and ashburn and Garland thrown in for good measure. From a little after 1 o'clock until 5::0 the enclosure in front of the club house was in a constant buzz of excitement, which swelled into waves of enthusiasm as one spectacular shot after another brought a succession of thrills.

The battle of the champions, Williams and Johnston, each with two legs on the challenge cup, with only one more victory needed for permanent possession of the trophy, came very near to duplicating the historic meeting of these same stars in the final of 1916, which still remains the pinnacle of human achievement on a tennis court. If Williams had been able to win th ethird set, in which he led at 5—2 and at one time needed only a single point for the decision, the match might easily have gone the limit, with the winner in doubt to the very end. But an accident to his foot slowed him up badly, and after Johnston had started a courageous pull-up, it seemed as though the 1916 title-holder did not care much more about the outcome.

Up to the time of his slump, however, Williams had been playing super-tennis. In fact his game looked stronger than Johnston's even while he was losing the first two sets. He won his points for the most part in overwhelming style, while those that he lost were largely on errors. Double faults at crucial moments hurt his game and he had some very bad luck in just missing the lines. His driving from deep court was as fine as any that has ever been seen at Forest Hills and he hit the ball equally hard forehand and backhand. At volleying he was less consistent but often brilliant.

Johnston Offers No Weakness.

Johnston depended on steadiness and the ability to cover the court and played a match typical of his best efforts as an unbeatable finalist. He made some amazing returns, always driving the ball hard and accurately, and when he had worked his way in for close volleying he was almost certain to produce results. It was tennis in which no particular factor stood out prominently, but which offered practically no weaknesses to his opponent.

The first three games of the Johnston-Williams match were upsets of service, Williams losing twice and Johnston once. The champion broke through again for a 4—1 lead, but promptly lost his delivery in turn. They divided service to 5—3, when a streak of netting lost for Williams once more, and the set went against him, 6—3. It was an even battle in the second up to 3-all, when Williams got a break by extraordinary accuracy in driving, his fastest shots knocking the dust off the lines and beating the champion completely. Johnston, however, caught up on a lucky double-fault, the net cord tipping the second ball outside, and then went on to win the set at 6—4, ending with another break on his rival's errors.

The set-point, however, came up no less than seven times before the session closed, twice on double faults, three times on outs and nets, and twice through Johnston's own aggressive shots, the latter finally winning on an out at the side that was so close that the players themselves went right on, unaware that the set had ended.

Williams Hurts His Ankle.

In the final session, Williams had the misfortune to twist his ankle, and this unquestionably slowed him up after he had acquired a winning lead of 5—2, with only one point needed for the set. He broke through Johnston's service for the opening game, and another break sent his lead to 4—1. Johnston then recovered a game by splendid hitting but lost the next, and the match seemed slated for at least four sets. Williams, however, could not quite put over the winning point, and lost his own service twice more in succession, the second break making it 5—all. Johnston now scented a straight-set victory, and served a love-game with a series of unbeatable shots. Williams led at 40—15 on the next, but two errors deuced the score, and a double fault brought up the match point. The netting of a low volley ended it at 7—5 in Johnston's favor.

The champion had evidently forgotten the game score, and did not realize that he had won, for he picked up the balls and prepared to serve. Then, seeing Williams with outstretched hand at the net, and Umpire Conlin waving his arms above the din of the applauding spectators, he grinned half sheepishly and ran forward to extend his condolences.

Tilden Beats Richards.

It is said that the best mixed doubles teams are formed by having the man play the woman a preliminary singles match and beating her so badly that no question of their relative standing can ever arise in the future. According to this theory, William T. Tilden, 2d, and Vincent Richards may some day become a world-beating doubles combination, for the trouncing that the Wimbledon winner handed the Yonkers boy yesterday afternoon was a classic of tennis psychology, and settled once for all the embarrassing doubts that have been raised by the prodigy-mongers ever since the pupil defeated his master for the indoor title two years ago.

Young Richards is certainly one of the ten best players in America today. But he is no Tilden, and never has been. His extraordinary self-confidence and his intimate knowledge of his mentor's tactics have given him an advantage over the world's champion that some greater stroke-masters do not possess. For some reason, the tall Philadelphian has been in the habit of going to pieces against Richards, and in some quarters it has been assumed that the mere appearance of the white-headed Fordhamite on the other side of the net was sufficient to capture the so-called "goat" of Tilden. Yesterday that mythical animal grazed peacefully in the sunlight of pitiless publicity and watched its owner make a Forest Hills holiday of the boy who had announced that he was absolutely sure of winning, and had openly resented the bets of as much as 4 to 1 that were laid against him.

Richards will probably be a far better tennis player a few years from now as a result of the beating that he got yesterday. The terrific mauling that he was handed by Williams last year undoubtedly had a chastening effect, but the "idea fixe" of his superiority over Tilden had still to be removed. It was accomplished painfully but with considerable neatness yesterday. The fact that Richards won a set hardly affected the one-sidedness of the match. Tilden threw it away on errors, playing carelessly and erratically, as he had done against the veteran Hardy on the previous day.

Two Double Faults.

Tilden started badly, serving two double faults in the opening game and volleying out for the break. Richards was very confident, and, took long chances from the outset, whereas Tilden was inclined to play the ball softly, trusting to accuracy of placement, which he was far from possessing. After the youngster had taken a 2—0 lead on service, however, Tilden unlimbered his cannon-ball delivery, an unusual proceeding for him so early in a match, and two tremendous aces helped him to his first game. Richards won again with good serving, but Tilden accounted for another game and then broke through for 3-all with well-placed volleys ending in a clean pass off service. More cannon-ball serving made it 4—3 in Tilden's favor, and with Richards rapidly going to pieces, he upset the youngster once more, dropping the ball again and again right on the side lines, and then the cleaning up at 6—3 with beautiful hitting from all positions.

Richards broke through for a lead of 3—1 in the second set, with Tilden dropping back into the nervous and rather careless style of his opening games, and losing on a wonderful three-quarter volley, backhanded by the junior champion. The world's titleholder, however, picked up his game immediately, and upset the delivery of Richards with scarcely an effort, tying the score at 3-all with more irresistible serving. Richards went ahead to 4—3 and was then presented with a break for 5—3 through two successive double faults, Tilden completely losing control. The set-point came up three times before Richards was able to finish it at 6—3, Tilden's errors helping him out in the pinch.

Double-faulting again had Tilden in trouble at the start of the third session, but he pulled out safely, taking the game with a marvelous reaching volley of an apparently impossible get by the youngster. He broke through for the next, but Richards promptly equalized, and they remained on even terms up to 3—all, when Tilden, having won his service, broke through for a decisive lead of 5—3, driving magnificently to his opponent's feet as he came in, and forcing him to net his defensive volleys. The superiority of the internationalist was impressively emphasized when he finished the 6—3 score with a love game, which included three big aces.

A Foregone Conclusion.

The result was a foregone conclusion after that. Tilden came back from his ten-minute rest brimming with confidence, and right on his toes, obviously determined to teach his former doubles partner a lesson that he would not soon forget. The love-set that followed was a slaughter, complete and absolute. The youngster was so badly beaten by the majority of Tilden's shots that toward the close he began to make gratuitous errors, failing to score even on his simpler chances. He netted a number of volleys, and even though he brought off some spectacular returns, there was never even a suggestion of his again figuring seriously as a contender. Richards made only three points in the first three games, losing his service twice, while Tilden won his own delivery at love. With 4—0 called against him, the youngster had barely raised his total of points to five, and it was only in the last two games that he put up a real resistance.

Both of these went to deuce twice, and on his last serve Tilden trailed at 30—40. But in each case he had enough tennis in reserve to pull through, and at the finish there was no questioning the completeness of his triumph. The score by points follows:

FIRST SET.

Tilden	3	1	4	1	4	5	4	4	4—30	6

SECOND SET.

Richards	4	5	4	4	1	0	7	4	7—36	6
Tilden	2	7	2	1	4	4	5	0	5—30	3

THIRD SET.

Tilden	5	4	1	2	4	4	4	5	4—33	6
Richards	3	0	4	4	2	6	1	3	0—23	3

FOURTH SET.

Tilden	4	4	4	4	6	6—28	6

Washburn's victory over Garland was to be expected, for he has been playing better tennis than the Yale man practically all season. Both had been in a slump recently, but were back to top form yesterday, with Garland making a surprisingly good showing, considering his record in doubles of late. It was a battle of two similar styles, both men depending largely on steadiness and carefully judged court tactics. Off the forehand they were practically equal, but Washburn had a more aggressive backhand to call upon, and his volleying was slightly superior, with a more severe service to force the openings.

The annual dinner of the U. S. L. T. A. was held last night at the Vanderbilt and in the course of the festivities a silver pitcher and tray was presented to George Adee, ex-President of the association. An enthusiastic greeting was given to the members of the Davis Cup team, each player of the group making a bit of a speech. Norris Williams, especially, proved himself a reconteur of the first order.

The summaries:

Fourth Round—G. Colker Caner, Boston, defeated L. E. Nahan, New York, 6—1, 6—3, 6—2; Irving C. Wright, Boston, defeated Ralph H. Burdick, Chicago, 6—4, 6—2, 9—7; Watson M. MRS. MALLORY GOES INTO FINAL ROUND

Takes Hard-Fought Victory from Miss Tennant in Rockaway Tennis Play.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory was the heroine of the invitation tennis tournament yesterday in the play at the Rockaway Hunting Club at Cedarhurst, L. I. She reached the final round in the singles by a straight set but exceedingly hard-fought victory over Miss Eleanor Tennant of California, and she was one of the semi-finalists in the doubles with her partner, Miss Eleanor Goss.

A peculiar fact of the second set of singles between Mrs. Mallory and Miss Tennant was that both players made the same point score. Mrs. Mallory won the set, but her California rival matched her in the matters of points won. Both gained 40 points. But Mrs. Mallory had the call in the matter of superior steadiness and that was what gave her the match. The former national women's champion was in particularly good form in the first set. Her drives from back court in the opening counter were marvelously placed all the way. Miss Tennant could do little with them. But in the second set it was different.

Miss Tennant played more like her California predecessors in Eastern invasion in the second set. Once or twice, she even dared to move to the net. It is queer that Mrs. Mallory's opponents take so few chances against her at the net. Mrs. Mallory is almost unbeatable by one of her own sex at the back court game, but it is obvious that she can be beaten. Anybody who goes up to the net and cuts off her strokes can do it. Practically a masculine game would be required, but players like Miss Tennant are perfectly capable of lifting their games to heights not necessarily masculine but which could give Mrs. Mallory all kinds of difficulty.

The first set was simple for Mrs. Mallory yesterday. She was driving in the manner which has given her her fame and Miss Tennant could make no progress against her whatever. She played her at her own game and in the driving she was no match for her opponent. The odd part of it was that in the second set she continued the same tactics and still held Mrs. Mallory even. In fact, she was several times within a point of evening the set count. In the twelfth game Miss Tennant had Mrs. Mallory 40—15 and needed but a point for the set. But the ex-champion evened the count, not on her own good playing so much as on two errors by Miss Tennant. One splendid placement by Mrs. Mallory along the sidelines should be placed to her everlasting credit. But, outside of that, Miss Tennant could have beaten her if only she had been willing to take a chance and go to the net.

Points followed service for the most part in the Mallory-Tennant match. It was a tremendously fine battle and the closeness of it is indicated especially by the score of the second set.

FIRST SET.

																	Tot. Pts.	G.
Mrs. Mallory	6	5	4	4	4	6—33	6
Miss Tennant	4	3	2	1	2	6	4—22	1

NATURALIST VICTOR IN THE MANHATTAN

CLOSE RACE IN THE TOMBOY

Racing returned to Long Island yesterday with the opening of the Autumn meeting at Belmont Park and from the attendance it appeared that the sport must have sneaked in unannounced. One of the smallest crowds of the season was present for the running of the Manhattan Handicap, which went to J. E. Widener's Naturalist, and the Tomboy Handicap for two-year-old fillies, which was captured by E. R. Bradley's Believe Idle Hour.

The slim attendance was something of a surprise to the management of the course, as no fault could be found with the weather. The day, in fact, was ideal for racing, and the only excuse was that many of the racing enthusiasts are out of town to remain until after Labor Day.

Belmont Park offered a very slim card for the opening day and one that left little to enthuse over. Withdrawals from the original list left small fields from which most of the contention had been lost. This was in a large measure due to the fact that many of the horses which had been racing at Saratoga had not arrived at Belmont Park yesterday. Owners have had trouble in making shipments, but the condition will be remedied in another day or so. The horses of Commander J. K. L. Ross were among those which did not arrive in New York, and as a result it was necessary to scratch both Sir Barton and Boniface from the Manhattan Handicap, which seemed to be pretty much at their mercy, as well as Muttikins from the Tomboy Handicap, where she appeared to have an excellent chance.

Naturalist Best in Mile Race.

The absence of the Ross pair gave Naturalist a chance for a victory in a field of four starters which included Jack Stuart, Audacious and Mad Hatter, and he made the most of it, proving again that he is one of the best performers at a mile. He was made the favorite and was one of the six public choices to get home in front, this being the second day in succession when all the favorites were returned winners.

Naturalist was well supported, but there was a frenzied rush to back Jack Stuart, which had run a remarkably fine race back of Sir Barton at Saratoga. However, the Widener gelding had all the speed and displayed fine courage in the stretch drive when Jack Stuart made a desperate effort to get up. Naturalist won by a length and Jack Stuart took the place by a length from Audacious.

Jockey Clarence Kummer took advantage of the early speed of Naturalist and fairly sprinted him into a commanding lead in the first three furlongs. Mad Hatter and Audacious were trailing him and Jack Stuart was far back. Kummer took up slightly on Naturalist at the turn and gave him a short breathing spell, which it developed he needed. Naturalist had little trouble in outrunning Audacious and Mad Hatter, but at the turn into the stretch Jack Stuart, under his light impost of 107 pounds, began to move up with a rush and, disposing of the other two, challenged Naturalist. Kummer rode the winner to the end and the gelding pinned his ears back and held Jack Stuart safe to the end despite the fact that he had 129 pounds up. Audacious and Mad Hatter were beaten at the head of the stretch, but they fought it out for third money and Audacious gained that position by a nose. Mad Hatter had been used up in chasing the winner in the early sages and had no speed left when it came to the last furlong.

The Starters in the Handicap.

There were nine starters for the Tomboy Handicap and Believe Idle Hour won the five-and-half-furlong dash by only a nose from E. F. Whitney's By Jimminy, with G. D. Widener's Last Straw third. The Bradley filly was up in the last stride after meeting with some interference in the first furlong.

G. W. Loft's Tamarisk broke in front of the field and raced into a lead of nearly two lengths. At the head of the stretch she appeared to be the winner, as Believe Idle Hour was then third, three lengths back, while By Jimminy was pressing the leader. But Tamarisk could not continue her pace and at the furlong pole she began to slow up and finished fourth. By Jimminy took the lead from her, but Believe Idle Hour finished with a rush under a hard drive. Honey Girl, which was an added starter, the presence of which caused a slight flurry in the speculating, failed to show any of her vaunted speed and was never a contender.

The Greentree Stable's Peter Piper had scarcely to extend himself to win the opening event, a six-furlong dash over the main course, in which he defeated Dream of the Valley by five lengths, with Osgood third among four starters. There was no speed in the race to make Peter Piper do his best and, breaking with his usual alacrity, he raced into a long lead at once and was never out of a gallop in the last furlong. Dream of the Valley broke slowly and raced up easily to dispose of the other two. Peter Piper might have had a harder contest had some of the originally named horses started. Among these were Motor Cop, On Watch and Arnold. As it was, Peter Piper was offered at 1 to 6 and therefore had few supporters.

Care Free Disqualified.

M. L. Schwartz's Care Free won the second race, a five-and-a-half furlong test for maiden two-year-olds, only to lose it on a disqualification. The decision of the judges gave the victory to G. A. Cochran's St. Michael, with Teddy R. second and Tout Or third. Care Free raced in front all the way, but was tiring at the finish and bore over on St. Michael as the latter moved up. The foul occurred in front of the stands and was plainly seen.

W. H. Fizer's Dorcas was much the best of the four which went to the post in the fifth event at a mile. She caught Albert A. at the head of the stretch and moved away to win by five lengths. American Boy saved third from Ben Gow, which had been played as though his number had already been hung up.

The Glen Riddle Farm provided the winner of the last race at five and a half furlongs for two-year-old maidens in Wachapreague, which won by a nose from Frigate with Playfellow, brother of Man o' War, third.

The summaries:

EARLIER START FOR RACING.

Change in Time Made to Relieve Railroad Congestion.

The racing public will be asked to cooperate with the Long Island Railway, which finds itself seriously short of equipment for the handling of its heavy out-going New York passenger service between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock. The problem will be solved, it is thought, by curtailing slightly the time between races and advancing the hour when the races are to begin. This would bring the program to a close at 4:30 and the bulk of the public would reach the Long Island terminals by 5 o'clock. The adoption of this plan would give the railway the return of its much-needed equipment, and in addition will enable out-of-town patrons to reach their homes earlier. In discussing the proposed change yesterday at Belmont Park Major August Belmont, President of the Westchester Racing Association, said:

"The Long Island Railroad is confronted with the task of transporting an ever-increasing army of business men and workers to and from their suburban homes, and in the evenings when racing is on at the tracks in the vicinity of New York they find the need of every bit of rolling stock in their possession. The peak of the load is between 5 and 6 o'clock, and if we can help the company to maintain the service it is not only our duty to the railroad but to the great New York public as well. The racing public has always been generous, and we feel sure that they will meet the railroad's wishes with its customary sportsmanlike spirit.

"The most practical solution, it would appear, is to begin the races at 2:15 and curtail the time between the first two and the last five minutes, leaving the standard interval of half an hour for the more important stake events."

The races for today will be called at 2:30 as usual, but there will be intervals of twenty-five minutes only between the events, so that the program will be concluded by 4:30.

RICH STAKES ARE ON CARD.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Sept. 2.—The Kentucky Derby and Suburban Hapdicap winner, Paul Jones, son of Sea King and May Florence, and distance runner of parts, will be one of the headliners of the Harford Agricultural and Breeders' Association September racing which will be inaugurated here on Sept. 11 with the decision of the Harford County Handicap, a $5,000 race of one mile and a sixteenth for 3-year-olds and over.

Upwards of $200,000 will be distributed among horsemen in the course of the Havre de Grace meeting. The overnight purses will range in value from $1,200 to $2,400 and three $10,000 stakes will be run, namely, the Potomac, one mile and a sixteenth, for 3-year-olds exclusively; the Eastern Shore, three-quarters of a mile, for 2-year-olds exclusively and the Harve de Grace, one mile and a furlong, for 3-year-olds and over. The greatest racers of various ages of the strongest Eastern and Western stables have been nominated for these stakes.

Paul Jones, the best horse Sea King has sent to the races since Thomas Fortune Ryan brought him over from Great Britain for service at his Oakridge stud in Nelson County, Va., has been laid up since the early part of June. After winning the Suburban Handicap at Belmont Park, Captain Ral Parr and his trainer, William Garth, took him to Kentucky to start in the Latonia Derby. But Paul fell lame at Latonia galloping for the Derby and did not start.

He was shipped immediately to Saratoga, where, through most of July and all of August, he got a steady preparation for Fall racing in Maryland. Mr. Garth believes that he will race to his best form here and later on at Laurel Park and Pimlico. Paul Jones is no stranger to Havre de Grace. Last Fall he won the first mile race of the season for 2-year-olds. Last Spring he showed at Havre de Grace for the first time under silks the quality that was to see him safely home in the Kentucky Derby and Suburban Handicap renewals.

The races of the fall meeting of the Havre de Grace program in which Paul Jones will start, unless the plans of the Parr stable miscarry, are the Harford, Potomac and Havre de Grace Handicap. Very likely Paul Jones will have Blazes as a running mate in these races. Blazes is good again.

FRED EDMAN WINS THE HERALD TROT

Captures Two-Year-Old Stakes and Also Leads Readville Field in 2:06 Trot.

READVILLE, Mass., Sept. 2.—Fred Edman, the Tennesseean, was the top jockey at the Grand Circuit races today, capturing The Boston Herald's $2,000 purse offered for two-year-old trotters, and later in the afternoon leading the field in the 2:06 trot. Favonian was his entry in the juvenile event, while his unbeaten mare on the "big line" this season, Tootsie Toise, accounted for his second victory of the day.

Favonian had little difficulty in winning The Herald purse, trailing in each heat until the field swung into the home stretch, then brushing past the leaders in the race to the wire. Tootsie Toise let the others make the pace in the first heat of the 2:06 trot until she mowed them down in the home stretch battle. But in the final she led all the way.

Charley Valentine's gelding, Walnut Frisco, was the best of the field in the 2:08 trot, so much faster, in fact, that the Ohio trainer won the final heat from Dottie Day after making a running break at the three-quarter pole. Finishes were close in the 2:14 pace, but Billy Crozier's mount, Billy Sunday, just managed to stave off the rushes of his opponents at the wire in each heat.

BOXING OPPONENTS FAIL.

Are Unable to Force Referendum on Massachusetts Bill.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Opponents of the bill to legalize boxing in Massachusetts admitted today their failure to muster enough opposition to the bill to force a referendum at the next election. The act was passed by the Legislature this year and on June 11 a petition for the referendum was filed with the Secretary of State. According to the law, the petitioners had ninety days from the date the bill was signed by the Governor, June 4, to secure the 15,000 signatures necessary on the petition. The time limit expired today.

The Massachusetts Federation of Churches, which led the fight for the referendum, made the following statement through its Secretary, the Rev. E. Tallmadge Root:

"We have failed to secure the 15,000 signatures required to place the referendum upon the ballot. The reason for the failure is so significant that we feel it best to make a frank statement. The difficulty lay in the fact that members of the churches were taking their vacations during July and August. The machinery on which the State bodies relied was found to be practically out of commission. The church people have preferred vacation to victory. Next to victory, the best thing for a cause is a stinging defeat. We will not regret this episode if it arouses the churches."

Assisting the federation were the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the State Committee of the Y. M. C. A., and other religious and reform bodies. It was announced today that only 3,600 signatures had been obtained in the campaign launched.

The new act will be effective in a city upon its acceptance by the Mayor and Council, and upon its approval by the voters at a city election will go into effect permanently.

WOMEN IN POLO MATCHES.

Formation of Feminine Teams is Planned for Boston Tourney.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Polo played by women's fours, a distinct novelty in this country, though an established competition in England, is contemplated as a special feature of the interclub polo contests at the meeting of the Boston Fair Association at Readville, Sept. 30, Oct. 1 and 2. It is planned to form two or more teams of young women, who will play for special trophies.

B. Nason Hamlin is in charge of the plans for the interclub tournament for the Copley-Plaza trophy. Four teams have already entered. They are the Westwood Wanderers, the Dedham Freebooters, the Myopia Canaries and the Norfolk Reds. The trophy was won last year by a Myopia team.

Several of the leading local players have entered ponies in the polo pony race to be held at the Waltham Fair, Sept. 9, 10 and 11. The race will be at three-eighths of a mile and will be open only to ponies that have played in competition. B. Nason Hamlin has entered his pony, Max Pete, while John Bowditch, William Grosvenor, J. D. Clark and Lothrop Weld have also entered their mounts. A trophy has been offered by John Bowditch.

AERIAL RACES NEXT YEAR.

Contests to be Conducted for Cash Prizes, Says Major Glidden.

The transcontinental aerial touring contests from New York to San Francisco and New York to Los Angeles have been changed to closed circuit contests by the new Contest Committee of the Aero Club of America, and Major Charles J. Glidden, President of the Aerial League of the World, has telegraphed to the President of the Aero Club of California, San Francisco, and the President of the Aero Club of Southern California at Los Angeles, that the contests will be conducted by the Aerial League of America in 1921 for cash prizes.

The contests will be open to all aviators in the world, including some 20,000 in the United States, and will be under rules similar to those governing automobile contests for cross-country touring, making them sane and safe.

Suspension of Jockey Rice Is Continued by Stewards

Jockey Ted Rice will have still more time to reflect upon the riding tactics which caused his suspension at Saratoga. The stewards of the Jockey Club held a meeting yesterday and continued the suspension. Rice was set down for seizing the equipment of another horse in the race. The application of T. McTaggart to have his suspension lifted was also denied.

Betting Shows Dempsey but Slight Favorite Over Miske

Special to The New York Times.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Sept. 2.—Judging by the size of the commissions that have been received it seems likely that considerable money will change hands on the result of the Dempsey-Miske bout. One wager of $5,000 even money that Miske would stay ten rounds was gobbled up as quickly as it was offered. Ten thousand dollars was bet against $8,000 that Dempsey will win the bout. This would indicate that the odds are 10 to 8. But this ten thousand can be placed in the category of "easy money," to use a sporting vernacular.

The real odds here in Benton Harbor are 3 to 1 with Dempsey the favorite. Late arrivals from Chicago state that the odds in that city are 2 to 1. Almost every bet that is made is at different odds. At 10 to 8 Dempsey would enter the ring one of the shortest priced champions ever to defend the heavyweight title. Willard had this distinction at Toledo when he climbed through the ropes regarded only as an even chance in the betting. Up to a few hours before his bout with Dempsey the odds were 6 to 5 with Willard the favorite.

ALL PARTS OF U. S. ARE REPRESENTED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—One of America's Olympic hurdlers, Walker Smith of Cornell, who has been training with other members of the team at Queen's Club, today told an inquirer for THE NEW YORK TIMES that this was the first time that most of the Americans on the team had visited England.

"We have not been able to pick our men for the meet here quite so freely as you," he said, "because so many have gone back, but we have men who are representative of all America here. There are about a dozen from the far Pacific Coast, as many from the great Middle West and the remainder are Easterners and from the Southern States. I think there is a Yale man, but no Harvard man, in the list. Still, American colleges are pretty well represented."

John Moakley, the visitors' chief coach, expressed his pleasure today at the invitation of the Achilles Club, which has made the meeting possible.

"Not for twenty-five years," said Mr. Baker, Secretary of the Achilles Club, "has there been an Anglo-American sporting event of this kind in England. The British team is representative of England, Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. The two teams are as good if not better than any ever before seen in this country. We believe that the relay races, which are not very common here, will prove highly popular and help to make this interesting form of sport more appreciated. This is one of the objects of the meeting."

AMERICAN TEAM WINS.

St. Louis Football Soccer Players Take Stockholm Game.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 1.—The All-St. Louis Football team in a fast association football game today defeated the Noorkoping team, 3 to 1. The score at the end of the first half was 2 to 1.

The Tremont Tennis Courts will hold its fifth annual tennis tournament in men's singles and doubles, starting Sunday, Sept. 5. Entries close Sept. 4, with F. R. Becker, at 909 Trement Avenue, New York.

Borton Sues Vernon Manager.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 1.—W. Baker "Babe" Borton, former first baseman of the Vernon team of the Pacific Coast League today filed suit for $50,000 damages for alleged libel against William Essick, manager of the Vernon club. The suit is based on statements asserted to have been made by Essick regarding Borton's charges that Vernon players contributed to a fund to aid their team win the 1919 pennant.

BIG BATTLERS WORK OUT AT TOP SPEED

Special to The New York Times.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Sept. 2.—With only one more day of hard work remaining before Billy Miske and Jack Dempsey ease up in their training for the ten-round bout for the heavyweight championship of the world here on Monday afternoon, speed was the order of the day at both camps today. Champion and challenger alike cast aside all brakes and gave their sparring partners a merry whirl. Both boxers waded through six rounds of real action with the big ten-ounce "pillows," the training gloves.

In this respect, as on every day thus far, Dempsey got the better workout. Miske feels the lack of capable sparring partners. He is woefully in need of some one at his Eastman Springs camp to make him extend himself. Some one to compel him to step around at a lively clip. He has no one to do the forcing and is compelled to set all the pace himself. This is far from being a good arrangement.

A well known veteran boxer, who was among the arrivals in this crowded sector today, remarked after watching Miske perform: "I think he gets a better workout with the pulleys and the sandbag than he does with his sparring partners. He could knock them all out in a punch apiece. What he needs is some one to get in the ring and make him step around. He needs a husky in front of him who is willing to risk taking a stiff one on the jaw or a solid one in the body in order to keep crowding Miske. Sparring partners are important factors in the preparation of a fighter for an important bout like this."

Greb Swaps Blows with Champion.

It was Harry Greb who again today gave Dempsey his stiffest workout. The Pittsburgher was in fine fettle after the excellent showing he made against the champion yesterday. He was full of pep. With the call of time signalizing the beginning of activities, Greb promptly rushed Dempsey. The onslaught was so sudden that Jack was caught off his guard and it took a solid left hook into the body, plied with all the force at Greb's command, which is considerable, to jolt Dempsey into action. Then the fur began to fly.

It was a whirlwind three rounds that these two fighters staged for the edification of the biggest crowd that has yet shoe-horned its way into the grandstand at the baseball park in front of which the ring is built. There were fully 2,000 people present, and they were treated to as much action in those three rounds as is usually crowded into eight of a real bout.

The bout caused the crowd to burst into cheers and prolonged applause. In fact, during the intermission between the second and third rounds Ted Hayes, who acts as announcer at the Dempsey camp, was compelled to request the spectators to refrain from urging either of the men to greater efforts.

Dempsey Slows Up a Bit.

These three rounds were followed by three more against Marty Farrell, another middleweight. Dempsey perceptibly eased up in his work against his second opponent.

Although Dempsey insists that his wind is perfect and that he is not troubled by shortness of breath while working out, to those who have studied him closely as it appears as if his wind might be in better shape. He was puffing very hard after boxing Greb. Of course, it was an unusually fast workout, but it seemed to take him longer than it should to recover his wind even after so strenuous a session. By this is not meant that Dempsey is likely to suffer from shortness of wind in Monday's battle.

The lack of strong sparring partners makes Miske more or less of an unknown quantity. Certain it is that he is much bigger than he was when he fought Dempsey before. He weighs fully 14 pounds more; his arms are bigger around the biceps and in the forearms; his chest is fuller and he is broader across the shoulders. There is every reason to believe that he is a harder puncher than he was. But just how strong a defense he has or how versatile an attack he has developed is destined to remain a mystery until he climbs into the ring to face Dempsey.

Wilson Is Miske's Best Asset.

Miske has no partner capable of throwing punches at him. George Wilson of Chicago is the best of the outfit. But he is a mauler and is only good for giving Billy a workout in the wrestling that invariably accompanies clinching. Joe Wagner climbed into the ring this afternoon after a day's layoff because of a freshly blossoming cauliflower ear. His ear was still very sore and Miske was unable to direct any heavy punches at his head. Against Jack Heinen Miske is also compelled to devote all of his attention to body work, for Heinen's injured jaw must not be massaged with too much zest. Miske boxed two rounds each against these three men today.

Miske Denies Report That His Health Is Impaired

Special to The New York Times.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Sept. 2.—Billy Miske is very much perturbed over the report that has been circulated that he is still suffering from the effects of an operation. "I had my tonsils cut out about six months ago," said Miske, "and at the same time I had a slight curvature of the spine, which demanded complete rest. My back was put in some kind of a brace and I was compelled to loll around a hospital for a few days. That is all that was the matter with me and you can say for me that I have not only fully recovered but I never was in better shape in my life."

The referee situation, so far as an official announcement is concerned, is still up in the air. Thomas Biggers, Chairman of the Michigan State Boxing Commission, has been expected to arrive here for the all-important conference with the promoter and the managers of the two fighters for the last few days, but again today he failed to put in an appearance. Tonight it was stated that he would positively be here tomorrow and that a definite announcement would be made tomorrow evening.

Floyd Fitzsimmons, the promoter, announced tonight that the advance sale had reached the impressive total of $50,000. He said that today's sale had been slightly over $7,000. "I am sure that we will have a gate of $150,000," said Fitzsimmons. "There is every indication of it."

The work of raising the ring eighteen inches was completed today and the iron stakes for the wire fence that will be strung around outside of the arena itself to keep the crowds from rushing to the place and climbing into the arena without the formality of leaving some iron men in the box office were driven into place. The wire will be strung tomorrow. "Everything will be in readiness not later than Saturday evening," said Fitzsimmons. "We will put the padlocks on the place before sundown on Saturday."

In order to keep the $5 seats, the cheapest to be had, from falling into the hands of speculators, it has been decided not to place them on sale until Monday morning.

The bout will be held rain or shine. The ring is to be covered by a big piece of canvas so that it will be amply protected against either sun or rain.

CLOSE CONTESTS FOR HORSE SHOW HONORS

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 2.—Mrs. Joseph S. Sylvester of Boston with her chestnut gelding Torrington Wildfire scored a signal victory at the second day of the Newport Horse Show this afternoon, when she was awarded the blue over Harry Newman's Lord Brilliant and Lady Warwick from Chicago and Franklin B. Jourdan's Fairview Princess from Brooklyn in the class for large harness horses. This makes Torrington Wildfire a contestant for championship honors tomorrow, and he probably will be one of the opponents of Reginald C. Vanderbilt's famous mare Lady Dilham, that has met and vanquished all comers at more than one Newport horse show. Mr. Vanderbilt's entry from Sandy Point Farm annexed another honor today, when the mare took the medal that had been offered by the American Hackney Horse Society as the first prize in the class for registered hackneys, this victory being scored over Jourdan's Waddington Rector.

A close competition has developed at the show this year between the Newman and Jourdan entries. The owners of these horses are both new exhibitors to the Newport show and their entries in the harness classes have been one of the features of the first two days.

The stock market broadened out yesterday in a fashion not seen before in several weeks, the buying movement taking in the copper shares and a number of industrials lately dormant. Dealings were more significant because of the field they covered than in respect to actual price movements. Nevertheless, the list was fairly free of weakness and, under the continued leadership of the railroad stocks, quotations recorded, at the close, gains extending from good-sized fractions to more than 3 points. Evidence of monetary ease, referring to demand loan only, was supplied in a call rate as low as 6 per cent. The highest was 8 and the rate for renewals of standing loans was the same, with a 7 per cent. ruling quotation. The banks which had received deposits of some $20,000,000, paid in on the recent Treasury certificate sale, were due yesterday to transfer them to Government account at the Reserve Bank so that the recession of the demand loan quotation occurred at the moment of a little extra disturbance of deposits of lending institutions.

The action of call money this week has indicated one of two things, or perhaps both. First, the banks must have experienced some easement in the matter of withdrawals of interior bank deposits, which had considerable influence upon loanable funds the week before. Second, it would appear as though the purchases of stocks in the last few days have consisted of short covering, which entails no expansion of loans and of accumulations largely covered by cash. If these theories are not explanatory of the unexpectedly low call rate of 6 per cent., at a time when dealings in stocks had grown considerably over recent daily turnovers, there must have been accretions to idle funds at New York which would hardly be looked for during the approach to the peak of the Autumn money and credit demands. Time money remained scarce with the rate unchanged.

The stock market seemed to pay scant attention to the "vacations" of many thousands of hard coal miners which, being of the same heedless calibre as the "outlaw" railway strikes of the Spring months, contained possibilities of much difficulty for industries already practically on fuel rations. A protracted coal strike would be likely to add a heavy burden upon manufacturing lines, especially those which have seen their overheads increased substantially in the last two or three months by a lessened output. But the financial markets have not reacted to labor disturbances recently as they did before, and indications of the breaking of the local street car strike yesterday were looked upon as prophetic of lessened success of strikes in the future. As the railroads are thought to have a fairly clear labor sheet for some time to come, it may be that speculative interest in rail shares denotes confidence among buyers that outside difficulties will not apply to them. At any rate, it was more noticeable yesterday than on any other day of the week that the rail list was being searched for likely issues, resulting in dealings in common and preferred stocks of usually bashful tendencies in an active market. The appearance of first and second preferred issues contributed more than a little to the widening of the trading list.

Cotton recovered part of the preceding day's loss in a rapid buying movement which followed early heaviness. The foreign exchanges were again very dull and changes of quotations were without importance.

18 Sheets of Banknotes Stolen.

The Federal Reserve Bank yesterday issued a warning that eighteen sheets of incompleted bank notes of the First National Bank of Portland, Conn., had been stolen. They number from 10028 to 10045 inclusive with Treasury numbers N97234?D to N97?59?D and the bank asks if they are received they be held and the Reserve Bank be notified by wire.

FRANCE WILL SEND $80,000,000 IN GOLD

Nearly One-third of Anglo-French Loan Maturing Oct. 1 to be Paid in Metal.

NEW LOAN OF $100,000,000

Refunding Issue Expected to Yield 8 Per Cent. and Run Fifteen to Twenty Years.

In process of negotiations with J. P. Morgan & Co. over details of the Anglo-French loan maturity on Oct. 15, the French Government has decided to send more gold than was believed probable a few weeks ago. It was learned yesterday that instead of a maximum of $50,000,000 the aggregate of shipments will probably be about $80,000,000. The first consignment is scheduled to leave Havre tomorrow, amounting to between $5,000,000 and $6,0000,000. Thereafter the bankers here expect to receive shipments as rapidly as steamers are able to bring the metal from French ports.

Definite news of a sailing date for the initial shipment straightened out a situation which had been rather puzzling to the banking community for some time. It was believed last week that the first consignment was then on the high seas, but it develops that the gold in question was metal coming for British account, part of the flow to New York that has been on for the last two months.

The decision by the French Treasury to pay so large a part of the $200,000,000 share of the Anglo-French obligation in gold will act to reduce either the amount to be borrowed in a refunding loan in this country or the total of exchange to be remitted here from Paris. It is understood that the banking syndicate, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., which will handle the loan, made several suggestions to the French Ministry of Finance. These have been studied in Paris during the last ten days, and details of the decision are expected to come by cable before the end of the week. The bankers hope to make an announcement on the matter shortly after Labor Day, although it may come sooner.

The banking community looks for a loan of $100,000,000, which will probably be offered on a basis to yield the buyer of bonds about 8 per cent. The life of the loan is not known, estimates putting it at fifteen to twenty years, these periods representing a change of the original belief that the maturity would be five or ten years. The French Treasury is understood to have accumulated at New York between $60,000,000 and $70,000,000 through purchases of dollar exchange. The larger of these totals, added to $30,000,000 gold receipts and a loan of $100,000,000 would cover the necessary amount of the maturing obligation.

Presumably, France will take gold from the Bank of France gold holdings, which amount to approximately $1,118,000,000. Of this total, however, $390,000,000 is on deposit in London as collateral for loans made during 1916 and 1917. In some banking quarters it is believed possible that the French and British Governments may agree to substitute other collateral for a part of the gold at London, releasing metal for shipment to New York.

WESTERN PACIFIC FINANCES.

Exchange of Bonds for Denver & Rio Grande Securities Proposed.

The offer of the Western Pacific Railroad Corporation to exchange its 4 per cent. ten-year secured bonds for the 7 per cent. cumulative adjustment mortgage bonds of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad made yesterday to the holders of the Denver Company securities caused some surprise in the financial district.

At the offices of the Equitable Trust Company Trustees for Western Pacific bondholders the offer was explained as logical as Western Pacific securities should be preferable to others in view of the heavy judgment which Western Pacific bondholders have against the Denver & Rio Grande.

In some quarters it was suggested that this will tighten the grip of the Western Pacific properties on the other road and that it may be the forerunner of a merging of the two properties which is now possible under the Transportation Act.

The Western Pacific offer is conditioned on its being accepted by holders of $7,510,000 adjustment income bonds of the Denver & Rio Grande before Sept. 20.

RAIL AID INCREASES DEBT.

August Help of $160,000,000 Adds $101,755,000 to Obligations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Federal guarantee of railroad earnings resulted in an increase in the public debt of $101,755,000 during August, according to Treasury figures issued today, showing the nation's gross debt to be $24,324,672,000.

Advances to the carriers against probable deficits during the month were said by Treasury officials to have reached nearly $160,000,000, and on this basis they figured there would have been a slight reduction in the public debt had not the earnings guarantee been in effect.

Payments to the roads in August do not correctly indicate the amount to which they will be entitled when a final accounting for the six months period over which the guarantee extended is made, it was added. As a result, the drain on the Treasury probably will continue for several months, but officials believe it would be possible to clear up all transactions with the railroads, with the exception of the revolving fund, by the opening of the new year.

The figures made public today show redemption of approximately $2,500,000 in Liberty Bonds during the last thirty days, about $1,500,000 of which were of the third loan.

Pacific Gas Earnings Grow.

The condensed approximate income account of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for the six months ended June 30, 1920, shows an increase in gross earnings of $3,482,363, to $16,374,736, while net income increased $234,084, to $5,071,291. After the payment of interest and other charges there was a surplus available for dividends of $2,080,576, as compared with $2,127,763 in the previous year. After the payment of dividends of 6 per cent. on the preferred and 5 per cent. on the common stock there was a balance of $364,041.

Plan $12,000,000 Railroad Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad Company today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue fifteen-year 7½ per cent. collateral trust bonds to an amount not exceeding $7,500,000 and to issue $1,000,000 in fifteen-year 6 per cent. collateral trust notes. Similar request was made by the Boston & Maine Railroad, which desires to issue bonds to the amount of $3,843,000.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Market Gains Ground.

Stock market prices moved forward yesterday with more buoyancy than has been apparent for a long time. Furthermore, the scope of the market broadened to encompass issues which have not made their appearance with any frequency of late. The advance was not confined alone to the rails, for the industrials participated in the upward trend, some of them making good gains on the day's turnover. The bulk of activity was, however, in the rail group. There is considerable speculation as to where the buying of the rails originates. In some degree there is no doubt public participation, the stocks being taken out of the Street for deposit in strong boxes, but this would hardly account for the heavy volume of business in the rails, since the public generally is a bit shy of the market. There is still some nursing to be done of hurts which came with the market crashes, and even where resources were not impaired there is wholesome respect or fear engendered. Still the character of the buying indicates the turnover in the rails is not all of the highly speculative sort.

Money Rate Eases.

A factor in yesterday's market operations was the decline in the rate for call funds. After opening at 8 per cent., money dropped to 6 per cent., and this had a pronounced effect on market sentiment. It might even be said that 6 per cent. was a subnormal rate even though it is high as compared with some of the low rates of the pre-war period. With money of higher value now, 7 per cent. would probably be called a normal rate. The 6 per cent. figure of yesterday, therefore, aroused some enthusiasm among traders, since it was construed to mean that the demands of the West were in large part satisfied, and some optimistically inclined were of the opinion that money might be flowing back from the interior banks. However that may be, the rate of call funds was easier than had been expected and the situation occasioned some surprise.

***

Delaware & Hudson.

During the last two months Delaware & Hudson stock has had a big advance. Yesterday on a small turnover the shares touched par, at which price they were up nearly seventeen points from the low of the year, on June 29. The low price was made when there was a fear that the dividend might be cut or passed. This feeling prevailed as to a number of the higher class railroad issues following the Chicago & Northwestern cut. The advance in freight rates offers excellent opportunities to the rails, and with earnings to increase as a result of this new revenue some of the rails, such as D & H, have been picked up by bargain hunters. Delaware & Hudson pays 9 per cent. and even at par the yield is attractive. When the stock was selling in the low 90's the yield was well above 10 per cent. Yesterday's advance was 3 points and this was on a turnover of only 100 shares.

***

Stocks Not Plentiful.

From the action of the market yesterday it appeared that stocks were not in anything like plentiful supply around current levels. This condition has been brought about by the sight of rising prices. No doubt there is a goodly sprinkling of stocks in weak hands, but these shares will not come out while the market continues to demonstrate an underlying strength. In a number of instances yesterday there were some big jumps in quotations on small transactions. This made any endeavor of the shorts to cover rather difficult. There is probably quite a short interest in the industrials, but the covering is being done with great care.

***

Anaconda Copper Output.

During August the output of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company was 11,800,000 pounds of copper. This is about the same as the July output. The figures are, however, well below those which indicate capacity operations.

The Railroad Meeting.

Railroad men will pay close attention today to the member road meeting of the Association of Railway Executives in Chicago. Most of the Presidents of local companies left yesterday afternoon and last night to attend, but a canvass of several offices failed to produce the program of the meeting other than in a general way. As is usually the case there will be a discussion of general problems facing the roads and different committees will make reports on what they have accomplished in the fields they cover. Some progress is understood to have been made by the Labor Committee, which has been conferring with representatives of the railroad labor organizations, although no information has been forthcoming from the committee regarding its activities. In some quarters important news regarding the railroad labor situation is expected to result from the meeting, although in others it is the understanding that, while some progress has been made, no definite announcement may be expected for some time.

A Significant Decline.

The decline in the premium for New York funds in Montreal to a low at 9¼ per cent. was considered as significant yesterday in view of recent rumors that Canada would ship substantial amounts of gold here. In June the premium for New York funds in Montreal touched its high at 15⅜ per cent., and the decline has been slow but steady since then. Yesterday the premium fluctuated widely from a low at 9¼ to a high at 10⅜ per cent. In some quarters this was attributed to the possibility of Canada's reducing the extent of her unfavorable trade balance here as she begins to realize upon her crops.

Improvement in Bonds Continues.

Trading in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange was even broader yesterday, some of the corporate issues showing a decidedly improved undertone and increased activity, the total turnover being more than $4,000,000, which was the largest for some time. As in recent days the low priced speculative railroad bonds were the most active and registered the biggest gains, with Peoria & Eastern incomes advancing 4 points, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5s gaining 1⅜, Hudson & Manhattan incomes moving up 1 point and Erie convertible, "Series A," showing a net advance of 3½ points.

***

Anticipating Payment.

The feature of trading yesterday in foreign government bonds on the Stock Exchange was the advance of Anglo-French 5s to 100, the first time that the issue has touched par since it was sold in this market in the Fall of 1915. This evidently was in anticipation of the paying off of the loan Oct. 15. While this advance was taking place some of the other foreign governments were inclined to heaviness, and the appreciation of ⅝ of a point in the price for City of Paris 6s was attributed to the general betterment of the market as a whole.

Efficiency from Co-operation.

It has been reported recently in railroad circles that a fair part of the increase in efficiency which has made its appearance in the ranks of railroad labor is due to the fact that since the roads have been returned to private operation there has been a revival of the co-operation which obtained before Federal control. Some executives say that the desire of many of the men is to re-create the teamwork which was in force before the roads were taken over. In some quarters this increase in efficiency was attributed to the fact that the roads are now paying their employes on the new wage scales and have disbursed a lot of back pay. Opposed to this is the belief of operators that the pride which workers used to take in their individual companies and the services they rendered has started to come back.

324 IN LAW'S NET ON WAR CONTRACTS

SHIPPING BOARD CASES UP

Every Section of Country Represented — Justice Department Promises Fair Hearing.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2 (Associated Press).—Prosecution of 324 contractors, marking the beginning of a move by the Government to clean up its war contract controversies, has been ordered by the Department of Justice. The proceedings will include both criminal and civil action and involve "millions of dollars," department officials said today.

Practically all of the cases embraced by the prosecution order were turned over by the War Department, but there were indications that similar cases would be received from other Government departments. The Shipping Board is understood to be planning to request criminal prosecution in half a dozen cases in addition to those already in the hands of the Attorney General.

Robert T. Scott, assistant to the Attorney General, said it would be the policy of the Government not to deal leniently with the fraud cases. He explained, however, that those contractors against whom civil proceedings only were to be instituted would receive every opportunity to straighten out controversies before the matters are thrown into litigation.

All Cases to Local Jurisdictions.

The contracts represent practically every section of the country, and court actions will be sought in the various local jurisdictions, according to those in charge of the cases for the Department of Justice.

Contracts on which action will be pressed were said to involve amounts "ranging from a few thousand to a few million each." They include agreements for the furnishing of supplies of nearly every commodity which the Government purchased for war purposes, as well as construction of camps, cantonments and warehouses and of other facilities for the training of the army.

Preparatory to instituting legal proceedings, in most cases the Government has started a rechecking of such data and figures as it has, planning later to pursue the investigation into the records of the firms and individuals whose contracts are questioned. This work will require several months and the possibility of early settlement of most of the suits appears remote.

Some Settlements Out of Court.

Officials expressed the belief that, although the War Department had failed to reach an agreement, many of the controversies would be settled out of court. The War Department abolished its fraud and graft investigating sections some months ago, and its facilities for making necessary inquiries in most of the cases are limited.

With respect to a score or more of the contract settlements in dispute the belief was expressed that "honest mistakes" had been made by the contractor or subcontractor, and that an investigation of records would produce grounds on which adjustments of the matters could be easily made.

It was said that in other cases, however, "plain fraud and conspiracy" had been proved so clearly that no other course was open to the Government except direct action looking to the indictment of the violators of the law.

NEW INCOME TAX RULINGS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Treasury Department promulgated today three new regulations relative to income of lessors of improvements made upon real estate by lessees. The first of the regulations deals with rents and royalties, while the other two bear upon rentals and capital sum recoverable through depreciation allowances. The text of the regulations follows:

"Article 48, Rents and Royalties—When buildings are erected or improvements are made by a lessee in pursuance of an agreement with the lessor, and such buildings or improvements are not subject to removal by the lessee, the lessor receives income at the time when such buildings or improvements are completed to the extent of the fair market price or value of such buildings or improvements subject to the lease. This amount would ordinarily be the difference between the value of the land free from the lease without such improvements and the value of the land subject to the lease with such improvements. If for any other reason than a bona fide purchase from the lessee by the lessee is terminated, so that the lessor comes into possession and control of the property prior to the time originally fixed for the termination of the lease, the lessor receives additional income for the year in which the lease is so terminated to the extent that the value of such buildings or improvements when he became entitled to such possession exceeds the fair market price or value thereof to him as determined when the same completed became part of the realty. No appreciation in value due to causes other than the premature termination of the lease shall be included. Conversely, if the buildings or improvements are destroyed prior to the termination of the lease the lessor is entitled to deduct as a loss of the year when such destruction takes place the fair market price or value of such buildings or improvements subject to the lease as determined when the same completed became a part of the realty, or the value thereof subject to the lease on March 1, 1913, less any salvage value subject to the lease to the extent that such loss was not compensated by insurance."

"Article 109. Rentals—Where a leasehold is acquired for business purposes for a specific sum the purchaser may take as a deduction in his return an aliquot part of such sum each year, based on the number of years the lease has to run. Taxes paid by a tenant to or for a landlord for business property are additional rent and constitute a deductible item to the tenant and taxable income to the landlord, the amount of the tax being deductible by the latter. The cost borne by a lessee in erecting buildings or making permanent improvements on ground of which he is lessee is held to be capital investment and not deductible as a business expense. In order to return to such taxpayer his investment of capital an annual deduction may be made from gross income of an amount equal to the total cost of such improvements, divided by the number of years remaining of the term of lease, and such deduction shall be in lieu of a deduction for depreciation. If the remainder of the term of lease is greater than the probable life of the buildings erected or of the improvements made this deduction shall take the form of an allowance for depreciation.

"Article 104. Capital Sum Recoverable Through Depreciation Allowances—The capital sum to be replaced by depreciation allowances is the cost of the property in respect of which the allowance is made, except that in the case of property acquired by the taxpayer prior to March 1, 1913, the capital sum to be replaced is the fair market value of the property as of that date. In the absence of proof to the contrary it will be assumed that such value as of March 1, 1913, is the cost of the property less depreciation up to that date. To this sum should be added from time to time the cost of improvements, additions and betterments, the cost of which is not deducted as an expense in the taxpayer's return, and from it should be deducted from time to time the amount of any definite loss or damage sustained by the property through casualty, as distinguished from the gradual exhaustion of its utility which is the basis of the depreciation allowance. In the case of the acquisition after March 1, 1913, or a combination of depreciable and non-depreciable property for a lump price, as, for example, land and buildings, the capital sum to be replaced is limited to that part of the lump price which represents the value of the depreciable property at the time of such acquisition. Where the lessee of real property erects buildings or makes permanent improvements which become part of the realty and income or loss has been returned by the lessor as a result thereof, as provided in Article 48, the capital sum to be replaced by depreciation allowances is held to be the same as though no such buildings had been erected or such improvements made."

REJECT WHEAT-POOL PLAN.

Farm Organizations Are Told It Would Violate Anti-Trust Law.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 2.—Declaring the project not feasible, the Resolutions Committee of the National Board of Farm Organizations today rejected a plan drafted in committee for the formation of a nation-wide wheat pool, to be controlled by farmers.

It was pointed out to the committee that the proposed pool might be a violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law. The best farmers could hope for, it was said, was the right to market their products co-operatively.

Delegates at noon went in a body to Governor Cox's office, where the Democratic nominee talked to them on farm issues, and told them what his policies would be.

GOVERNOR FAVORS CITY-BUILT HOMES

Recommends That Legislature Empower Municipalities to Construct Homes.

MANY REMEDIES PROPOSED

Legislature to be Asked to Close All Loopholes in Present Laws to Landlords.

Governor Alfred E. Smith is convinced that the present housing crisis is so serious that the State should give New York City the power to build houses. The Governor, who took an aggressive part in the conference called yesterday at the City Hall by the Joint Legislative Committee on Housing, told the conference that the Legislature, in the interest of public health and the public welfare, might well delegate its police power and its police authority to any of its municipalities during the existence of the crisis.

Although he felt that the Home Rule bill of 1913 empowered the city to deal with the housing question, the Governor declared that for fear this might be questioned he wanted to see the Legislature reconfer the public power in the act itself and put it on the ground of public health and public welfare, so that there would be no trouble if the matter were carried to the Court of Appeals.

Important amendments to the existing laws and new laws of a drastic nature that would tend to close the loopholes in the present laws to unscrupulous landlords were discussed by real estate men, tenants, city officials and others interested in the housing shortage.

Governor Moved by Clerk's Tale.

The Governor was visibly moved by the tale of a Wall Street clerk, earning $35 a week, with a family of six persons. The clerk said that at the present rents, apartments formerly bringing $30, were renting at $60 and even $90, and that being unable to find a home he had been compelled to move to a dark, dingy cellar, and even there the janitor was attempting to force him out because he had five children.

Edward P. Doyle, Secretary of the Mayor's Housing Conference Committee and legislative agent of the Real Estate Board who was implacably opposed to State aid, put his opposition on the ground that he was a Jeffersonian Democrat. He said the best government was the one that governed least.

"But there was no shortage of houses in Jefferson's time," said the Governor.

Mr. Doyle attempted to defend his position by a quotation from the Book of Deuteronomy and this time the Governor quickly interjected, "But that was written so long ago that it doesn't meet the housing situation today." Mr. Doyle retired from the lists.

Representatives of real estate interests and Frank Mann, Tenement House Commissioner, opposed the proposition of municipal housing on the ground that the costs would be greater than if construction were put in the hands of private individuals or firms. Mr. Mann said that in England the residents of municipal houses were looked on as semipaupers.

Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, secretary of the State Reconstruction Commission, explained the proposals of the commission at some length. The legislators listened with interest to the commission's program and it was indicated that a considerable measure of the proposals would be placed before the lawmakers at the special session.

Outlines Tentative Program.

Among the other recommendations that it seemed apparent the committee would make to the Legislature were the following:

The appointment of boards of referees in the municipal districts whose duty it would be to obtain all the facts in relation to rent litigation and to advise Judges of their findings.

A further extension of stays to be granted tenants on the expiration of the limit of one year obtaining under the new laws. It is sought to have the stay extended for the duration of the housing crisis in legitimate cases.

The gravity of the entire housing situation was expressed for the committee by Senator Charles C. Lockwood.

"The people are on a hot griddle," said the Senator. "They do not know what will happen to them from month to month. We've got to take them off the griddle."

Many suggestions looking to relief were offered to the committee. There was practical unanimity on the desirability of restricting the granting of dispossess warrants in the hold-over proceeding to legitimate cases and against granting the warrants to landlords whose only purpose it was to raise the rents.

Aaron J. Levy, head of the Board of Municipal Court Justices, maintained that the matter of the hold-over proceeding should not be a matter of right to the landlord, but that it was a special privilege. He would not grant holdovers before the Judge learned from the landlord why he wanted to maintain the proceedings and convinced the Court he was entitled to them. He would make it like the application to show cause and would have a preliminary hearing before the applicatition was granted. At present the landlord begins a holdover proceeding merely by presenting a paper to a clerk of the court.

Mary Coleman, a lawyer, said that she had been informed by a physician that since the holdover proceedings were held as a club over the head of tenants to force higher rents the number of cases of nervousness and heart trouble in men and women in New York have greatly increased.

Crisis in Washington Heights.

Bernard Hershkopf, speaking for tenants in Washington Heights, asserted that not less than 10,000 families in that section had been ordered to vacate by Sept. 30, the purpose of the landlords being not to gain possession but to obtain more money. Three out of every five tenants in Washington Heights have received notices in holdover proceedings, he said. We asked that the right to use hold-over proceedings as a club to extort unfair rent be abolished and that the proceeding be limited to legitimat purpose.

Justice Levy suggested that the present rent laws and the new ones that may be passed at the special session be made applicable to stores, lofts and offices, as the high cost of living is due in part to exorbitant rents exacted of storekeepers and business men who pass it on immediately to the ultimate consumer.

Justice Frederick Spiegelberg explained that after the expiration of the full legal stay of a year many tenants would find themselves in the same position as the previous year, and he, therefore, asked that legislation be enacted extending stays at their present expiration and until the crisis passed. He criticised those real estate interests who continued to demand the repeal of the rent laws and asserted that the rent laws had nothing to do with the stopping of conbruction.

Senator Lockwood concurred in this and remarked that Chicago, Boston and other cities that had no rent laws were doing even less building than New York.

Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien suggested the amendment of the Home Rule act to make it clear that municipalities have the right to deal with the present emergency. He recommended the broadening of the powers of the Board of Standard and Appeals.

Tenement House Commissioner Mann favored the restriction of the construction of non-essential buildings such as theatres, garages, clubs and halls.

On the question of whether the city should be authorized by the State to build houses or extend its credit for building them, Major F. H. La Guardia, President of the Board of Alderman, said that a constitutional amendment for this purpose was not necessary, that the city now had the power. Unless at least $20,000,000 is provided this year for dwellings, treble that amount will have to be spent in the next five or six years, he said.

Doyle Clashes With Governor.

The Governor showed how keenly he felt on the matter of municipal housing when Mr. Doyle said he was opposed "on principle" to the idea.

"You cannot put it on the ground of principle in a great emergency," said the Governor. "Do you think the city ought to go into the business of lodging people?"

"I do not."

"It did," said the Governor.

"Do you think it ought to be permitted to run a ferry?" he asked of Mr. Doyle.

"No, I do not."

"Well, it did."

"Did it do it successfully?" asked Senator Walters of Mr. Doyle.

"I will answer that," put in the Governor. "Yes."

"Can a mechanic who represents nobody but himself say a few words?" spoke up a voice.

"He can," said the Governor heartily.

John J. McMillan stepped forward. He described himself as a mechanic drawing $8 a day, "and I am not worth it." Saying that he would be "honest about it," he added that other mechanics were drawing wages as great or greater than his own and not doing as much work. He discussed the high prices of materials and said there was no remedy until men come back "to the old-fashioned honesty of their grandfathers." He ventured the opinion that even the League of Nations could not pull down the price of lumber selling for $85 a thousand that formerly sold for $5.50.

The committee will meet again in the City Hall at 9:30 this morning.

DENIES DEAL WITH HUNGARY

France Announces No Commercial Treaty Has Been Signed.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—It was stated specifically on behalf of the French Government today that France had made no treaty of any sort with Hungary, as had been reported in recent unconfirmed advices from Vienna through German channels.

It was added, however, that several notes had been exchanged with the Hungarian Government in connection with French consortiums, which were making investments in Hungary, notably the Budapest harbor project, France having consented to these investments.

The Matin announced the signing of a treaty between France and Hungary relative to commerce between the two countries. This convention, it declared, will stipulate that in case of military necessity the two countries will assure protection of Danube navigation.

The Matin ads that the treaty is in no way prejudicial to the agreements France has made with Jugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

COTTON NET GAINS AVERAGE 100 POINTS

October Leads, with a Rise of 140 Points Above Previous Day's Final Bid Price.

WEATHER MAP A FACTOR

Market Dominated by Professional Trading—Spot Cotton Declines at Liverpool; Sales Light.

Dealings in cotton futures was confined mainly to professional transactions yesterday, and as large profits had accrued on the short side a brisk covering movement was not surprising. In the first quarter-hour, however, prices were inclined lower, influenced by the impetus of Wednesday's heavy selling and by additional pressure from Liverpool. Once these sales were absorbed the market turned sharply about and the various options rose for a net gain of about 100 points, or $5 a bale, on the average. October led with an upturn of 140 points above the previous day's final bid prices before 1 o'clock, and this advantage was held to the close of business.

As professional trading dominated the market it was difficult to trace the effect of true trade influences. However, the quality of dealings in the afternoon, after Liverpool selling slackened, indicated that the traders were paying renewed attention to the weather map, and bullish sentiments was strengthened by overnight rains in Western Tennessee and Northwest Texas. The local spot price paralleled the movement of futures by gaining 150 points, to 31.75 cents a pound.

Transactions at Liverpool, which have had much sentimental influence on this side, continued to show nervousness over the threatened coal strike. Spot cotton declined forty points at the British centre, and futures closed with net declines running from forty-one to forty-six points. Sales at Liverpool totaled no more than 4,000 bales, 3,000 of these being American cotton. These totals have appeared frequently of late in the daily record, showing that British spinners are decidedly conservative in laying in supplies.

SEE FIGHT FOR COTTON BELT

Move to Oust Gould Behind Stock Activity, Report in Wall Street.

A fight for control of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company—the Cotton Belt—which may result in the establishing of a new management in place of Edwin Gould and his associates, is on, according to gossip in the financial district. Mr. Gould, who is Chairman of the board of the company, could not be found yesterday afternoon or last night to either affirm or deny the rumor, and it went the round of the commission houses without any noticeable check.

Both the common and preferred shares have become active recently, and yesterday both sold at new high points for the last two years. In some stock market circles this was taken to indicate that the demand for the shares was originating in powerful quarters, and that there was more behind the movement than the general appreciation of prices for railroad shares. The high yesterday for the preferred stock was 42¾, and for the common 28¾. The sharp advance was attributed also by those who credited the rumor of a fight for control to the chance that a large block of the stock had been obtained outside of the Stock Exchange, and to the fact that this week the books of the company will close for the annual meeting of stockholders on the first Tuesday in October.

At the same time that the rumor was being circulated there were those who scouted it and gave the general improvement in the railroad situation as the reason for the stimulated interest in the stock. In addition attention was drawn to the fact that the earnings of the company have been steadily improving, and that its outlook for continued improvement seems good.

Edwin Gould and his associates have dominated the road for years, and interest in the rumor was keen for the reason that should the control pass from his hands it would mean that the last of the important railroad properties ruled by a member of the Gould family had passed into other hands. St. Louis & Southwestern has never been known as one of the Gould roads in the sense that Western Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande have been known, but it has been managed for years by Edwin Gould independent of the other Gould properties, control of which has been wrested from George Gould and others in the last ten years.

If a fight for control has been going on and large blocks of the stock have changed hands at private sale, the fact will be disclosed at the October annual meeting of shareholders.

The Citizens' Transportation Committee, composed of representatives of the Merchants' Association of New York, the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce of the Borough of Queens, sent a telegram of protest yesterday to the United States Railway Labor Board, now in session in Chicago, against the proposal of organized labor for the establishment of National Adjustment Boards in place of the local boards which dealt with such questions before the railroads passed under the control of the United States Railroad Administration.

The telegram was sent to Judge R. M. Barton, Chairman of the board, and was signed by W. Fellowes Morgan, Chairman of the committee, who also sent appeals to other commercial organizations throughout the country to co-operate in objection to the plan.

APARTMENT HOUSE SIEGE STILL IN FORCE

There was no truce yesterday in the siege of No. 102 West Eightieth Street, an apartment building known as the Anderson. Miss Floy Anderson and her sister, Mrs. Emmons Pervear, flanked by two detectives, maintained an all-day and an all-night vigil behind the locked front door, and ingress and exit were permitted only to tenants and their friends.

The siege is the result of a three-cornered dispute in which the Dormond Realty Co., the new owners of the building, the tenants and Miss Anderson and her sister have been engaged for several days.

Miss Anderson and her sister have had the house on lease for ten years. Recently the Dormond Realty Co. of 34 Park Row purchased it and notified the tenants and the lessees that they would take possession on Sept. 1.

Negotiations were then begun between the lessees and the new owners. Miss Anderson and Mrs. Pervear, who own about $40,000 worth of furniture in the seventy-nine rooms, wanted an extension of time so that they might sell their furniture. Their lease expired at midnight on Wednesday, but they asserted they had an oral lease for another month and that the owners had promised them a month to month lease for as long a time as it would take them to sell their possessions.

The former lessees said that the new owners notified them they would have to leave when the lease actually expired and promised to permit the tenants to remain until Oct. 1 at greatly advanced rentals.

In order to prevent the new owners from obtaining immediate possession the former lessees locked the front door and kept a guard behind it, refusing entrance to the new owners or their representatives. Even the tradesmen in the neighborhood were not permitted in the building lest they prove to be agents of the owners in disguise.

The situation took a turn yesterday and for a time it appeared hopeful that a compromise would be reached. Counsel for the three contestants met in the office of Cherug & Cherug, 3 East Twenty-ninth Street, who represented the tenants. Morris Gossett acted as counsel for the new owners and Morris Grossman for the former lessees. After two hours of argument the meeting broke up without having reached a decision.

It was reported that the Dormond Realty Company was willing to buy the furniture in the house at a fair price, but that they wanted to appraise it. They were reported as unwilling to permit a public auction on the premises. The lessees said that the new owners promised to have the chattels transferred to a building they own in the vicinity, but that this promise was not carried out.

The new owners could not be reached yesterday, but it was reported that they would appear at the Municipal Court, Broadway and Ninety-sixth Street, this morning and ask for a court order dispossessing the old lessees and the tenants.

The Springfield Is Sold.

The Springfield, a six-story apartment building, on plot 100 by 100, at 180 Claremont Avenue, northeast corner of 125th Street, has been purchased by the Monarch Realty Company from Hyman Cohen for a reported price of $275,000. Hasbergen & Sinderband negotiated the transaction.

Cedarhurst Auction Sale.

Joseph P. Day will offer at a holiday auction sale 316 lots located in Cedarhurst Park, Long Island, between Cedarhurst Lake and West Broadway, the Rockaway Turnpike (State Road to Jamaica) and Arlington Road. The sale will be conducted on the premises Saturday and Monday.

WHEAT ADVANCES STRONG.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Wheat took an upward swing in price today after a hesitating start. The strength which developed was ascribed to prospects of a continued good export demand. Selling pressure ceased when it became apparent that offerings were being quickly absorbed. Opening prices, which ranged from ¼c decline to ¼c advance, with December $2.35 to $2.35¼ and March $2.30½, were followed by a moderate general sag and then by a sharp rise to well above yesterday's finish.

Houses with seaboard connections bought freely and the market continued to ascend. Damage reports from Argentina attracted special notice. The close was nervous, 4¾c to 5¼c net higher, with December $2.39⅝ to $2.40 and March $2.37.

STANDARD

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday .....6 per cent. for the best names
Wednesday .....8 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Dress Trade Active.

Quite an active call for dress goods is being received from the dress manufacturers, and from this it is inferred that business has picked up in that line. The demand from the cloak and suit houses is not so good, but it also has improved lately, and prospects of increased activity are considered much brighter. The garment manufacturers started the season with fairly large stocks of fabrics and bought only as they had need of certain materials. Now, from the signs of an improved demand, it is felt that surpluses have dwindled and additional yardage will be required in larger quantities.

Don't Figure on Replacements.

In explaining a large advance in the price of one of his lines, a manufacturing clothier took occasion to go over all his costs. Roughly speaking, his labor cost 33⅓ more and there were equal increases in the cost of the fabric and the trimmings. The price of all but labor has declined since he last purchased his woolens, linings, buttons, &c., but his prices did not take into account the lower replacement costs. In the opinion of the buyer with whom he was talking, basing costs on replacement values would be a proper thing to do in view of the fact that replacement costs were used when the market was advancing. The point he made was that if woolens can be bought for less now they ought to be figured at the present market value instead of the prices that prevailed months ago.

Woolen Opening Dates.

A number of woolen openings are scheduled for next week, now that the American Woolen Company has definitely set Sept. 9 as the date of showing its Spring lines. The United States Worsted Company announced yesterday that all lines would be opened on September 15. Among selling agents as well as buyers considerable interest attaches to the prices to be named for the new season. Following their usual custom, many of the mills will withhold prices until it is seen what values are established by the largest factors.

***

Interest in Price Standards.

Interest in the opening prices of Spring woolens is so keen in the market that several small bets have been made on what certain standard constructions will be quoted at. There are some willing to wager that the price of 3192, the key serge of the leading factor, will be offered at $3.60. Other guesses on the price of this fabric range as high as $4.12. The opening price for last Spring was $4.50. Buyers are of the opinion that prices, as a rule, will be some 20 per cent. under last year, but there are mill agents who think that not much more than 10 per cent., or 15 per cent. at the most, will be represented in the concessions.

***

Less Anticipation Done.

Even where customers of good financial standing are concerned, wholesalers find that the customary anticipations are not so commonly made. This is especially true in the case where less is received from a discount than has to be paid out for borrowed money. Thus, where the usual 6 per cent. interest is allowed to a house for discounting, money must be borrowed at a rate which figures out close to 9 per cent. This is an unprofitable transaction, and for that reason there is small attraction in anticipating payments. Where 2 per cent. is allowed for payment in ten days there is still a slight advantage in favor of the customer who anticipates.

***

Shoe Men Are Marking Time.

With the bulk of the business that was placed and replaced on men's Fall shoes by retailers as a result of recent price reductions averaging from $1 to $1.50 a pair in hand, manufacturers are again marking time prior to sending their men out on the road with Spring lines. One of the leading concerns, it was said yesterday, is planning to commence putting its lines before the retailers early next week, but it was further said that the manufacturing trade as a whole would not offer Spring shoes until retailers show more signs of being content with prices as they now stand on Fall goods. In a few isolated cases, in which buyers have sought goods for the coming season, business has been done on an "at value" basis, but the volume of merchandise disposed of in that way is very limited.

Gray Goods Trading Varied.

While a fairly wide range of merchandise was sold in the local market for gray goods yesterday, the aggregate volume of business done was not large. Both first and second hands sold the goods, with the latter the most active in that respect. Spot sales of print cloths included 38½-inch 60-48s at 11½ cents and 32-inch 64-60s at 12 cents, while in the sheetings 5.50s were sold for immediate shipment at 11 cents. Nearby business was done on 39-inch 64-104 4.20-yard sateens at 17½ cents. Some slack-twist voiles were moved at prices ranging from 12 to 12½ cents.

***

Fine Hosiery Sales Retarded.

Better business could be done in the finer grade of women's silk hose for Fall if the merchandise men of many of the larger stores were not so insistent on checking the operations of buyers in the hope of still lower prices later on. While there is real difficulty in disposing of stockings wholesaling from $24 a dozen down, due to the full stocks of the majority of stores, the better goods are said to be so scarce in many retail establishments where merchandise men hold sway that business is actually being lost by the hosiery department. Not only has a check been put on active buying for Fall in the case of the higher-priced goods, but many merchandise men have stopped the receipt of goods due on old orders. With the finer merchandise short in first hands, however, there is now said to be little danger of prices breaking to any extent, if at all.

Raw Silk Markets Inactive.

The Yokohama raw silk market continues inactive but steady on the better grades of silks. Low-grade tram stocks, however, have eased off to the basis of 1,130 yen per picul for Sinshiu No. 1. Stocks on hand there, according to cables received by H. L. Gwalter & Co. of this city, remain unchanged at 40,000 bales. Canton is quiet for American account, with prices higher there than in the local market. The fifth crop will yield from 6,000 to 7,000 bales for export, which is about the same as last year. Shanghai is also quiet, with some concessions being offered on steam filatures. Milan is reported a little more active and stronger. The local market is quiet and unchanged, with business limited to actual needs.

Sixteen officers from the ship will be entertained at dinner tonight by the Spanish Ambassador and tomorrow will pay their respects to members of the Cabinet. The Alphonso XIII. will sail Saturday for New York.

Are Turning to Lighter Tans.

A thing that is attracting attention in the women's shoe trade at the present time, and which is being reflected in the business done on the better grades of women's silk hosiery, is the change in the trend of tan footwear from the darker shades of brown to the lighter ones. Some of the more popular shades of the latter, more particularly olive, have in them distinct tinges of green. Generally speaking, the so-called African and covert browns are giving way to olive, castor, Palm Beach, &c. The change is expected to stimulate retail business in both shoes and hose.

New Company Takes Over Office Building at 63 to 65 Wall Street for Long Term.

HAS OPTION TO PURCHASE

But It Must Be Exercised Before Sept. 30, 1928—Price Fixed Is $1,000,000.

The closing of a long term lease for a valuable Wall Street building, with a clause permitting its purchase, by the lessee, was the feature of a moderately active market yesterday, in which both business and residential properties figured prominently.

The Number Sixty-Three Wall Street Corporation has secured an option to purchase at $1,000,000 and a lease for twenty years and six months on the thirteen-story Sampson Building, at 63-65 Wall Street from the United States Trust Company as trustee.

The building is located next to the eight-story home of Brown Bros & Co., and less than 100 feet from the National City Bank, which occupies the block bounded by Wall, William and Hanover Streets and Exchange Place. The rental to be paid by the lessees ranges from $47,500 to $61,000 per annum, the lease becoming effective November 1. The option of purchase at $1,000,000 must be exercised before September 30, 1928. The Sampson Building has been in the possession of the owner for a great many years. It has a Wall Street frontage of 55.6 feet, with a depth of from 130 to 90 feet on its westerly and easterly lines respectively.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—A disturbance of considerable intensity remains centred over the Canadian Maritime Provinces, but it is moving slowly seaward. All parts of the country east of the Rocky Mountains are covered by high pressure which has its crest over the Great Lakes. Cool weather for this date prevails generally east of the Rocky Mountains and there were frosts Thursday morning in Wyoming west of the Rocky Mountains. Temperatures are normal.

There have been local thunderstorms within the last twenty-four hours in the Gulf States, Georgia and Florida and local rains over the Northern Plains States. Fair weather continued in other parts of the country. Fair weather with temperatures below normal will continue Friday and Saturday generally east of the Mississippi River, but with some probability of thunder showers on the South Atlantic and East Gulf Coasts.

Winds Off Atlantic Coast—North of Sandy Hook will be moderate to fresh west and northwest; Sandy Hook to Hatteras, fresh northern; Hatteras to Florida Straits, East and West Gulf, gentle variable winds, partly cloudy and occasional showers.

127 RUM RAIDS NET ONLY FOUR ARRESTS

Less Than Two Gallons of Whisky Found in the Two Bars That Did Sell Liquor.

SALOONS WELCOME SEARCH

Man with Spurious Revenue Badge Arrested by Agents and Held Under $15,000 Bail.

Five squads of Prohibition Enforcement Agents, encouraged by the success with which they corralled twenty-nine saloon keepers Wednesday in the "White Light" district, yesterday descended on 127 saloons in Washington Heights and the Bronx, but when they reported last evening to James Shevlin, Supervising Prohibition Enforcement Agent, it was found that only two Bronx saloon keepers had fallen into their net.

The enforcement agents in all but two instances found the saloon keepers had dispensed with the services of their bartenders over night, evidently in anticipation of a visit from Shevlin's men. The descent on the saloons was made at an appointed hour, but less than two gallons of whisky were seized.

John B. Quigley, Assistant Supervising Prohibition Enforcement Agent, was in personal charge of the agents. He instructed all of them to make every effort to purchase liquor in the suspected saloons. Should a saloon keeper refuse to sell, they were to show their badges and other credentials and then search the premises.

The Results of the Raid.

Late in the afternoon Frank H. Kelly reported that he and two other agents bought drinks of whisky in the saloon conducted by Allen J. Borstein, 229 St. Ann's Avenue, the Bronx, and arrested Borstein and his bartender, Albert Schiff. Two bottles of whisky, all that was found in the saloon, were seized. Another agent later reported that he and his assistants had purchased whisky in the saloon of Richard Gans, 2,374 Third Avenue, the Bronx. Gans and his bartender, Sigmund Hochfelder, were arrested and two bottles of whisky confiscated.

"All of the agents reported that the saloon keepers made no attempt to interfere with a search of their premises," Mr. Quigley said. "In fact, the men reported, the proprietors were unusually courteous, telling them to 'Go as far as you like.'

"My instructions were to search cellars as well as bars and rear rooms of suspected places, so it is evident that saloon keepers decided to have no liquors on the premises during the day. It may be that they think this drive will be discontinued in a few days, but Mr. Shevlin has determined to disappoint them in that respect.

"Our investigation of the illicit sale of liquor has revealed that not many saloons keep large stocks of liquor on hand. We believe they have but little of the stuff in their establishments at a time, but we are arranging to find out where they get what little they have."

29 Saloon Keepers Arraigned.

Mr. Shevlin pointed out the necessity for secrecy as to the next district to be visited by his men, but he said the raids on Wednesday had been so fruitful that he believed the city would be less of an alcoholic oasis henceforth than at any time since the Volstead act went into effect.

The twenty-nine saloon keepers arrested Wednesday were arraigned in a group yesterday before United States Commissioner Samuel H. Hitchcock and held in $500 bail each. All of them waived examination, and it is believed they will be called for pleading within the next few days.

Through the arrest of John O'Brien, a speculator, of 470 West Forty-seventh Street, on a charge of impersonating a prohibition agent, it was learned that Mr. Shevlin had spread out a dragnet for the men alleged to have been transporting liquor through the city under the guise of being connected with the prohibition enforcement office.

Agents Mangin, Green and Lord learned several days ago that several men had blank nickel shields converted to appear like those used by the prohibition agents. Mr. Shevlin assigned a dozen men to the case. Yesterday afternoon Lord was in the jewelry store of David Robbin, 17 Eldridge Street, when O'Brien, Lord said, entered and asked for a badge which he had left with the jeweler to be engraved.

Held in $15,000 Bail.

Lord whistled to Mangin and Green, who were across the street, and the three agents seized and overpowered O'Brien. The badge was found hidden in one of the prisoner's socks. The letters "U. S." had been engraved upon the centre of the badge and the words "Internal Revenue Officer" indented on a plain surface at the bottom.

The agents took their prisoner to the Federal Building, where he was arraigned before the United States Commissioner. Lord testified O'Brien had told the jeweler he had six other badges to be engraved in a like manner, and promised to return with them in a few days.

Ben A. Matthews, Assistant Federal Prosecutor, told the Commissioner the work of the prohibition enforcement office was hampered by the activities of men using spurious badges, and asked that O'Brien be held in heavy bail. Commissioner Hitchcock fixed the amount at $15,000, and O'Brien was remanded to the Tombs in default of a bondsman.

Mr. Shevlin said he believed O'Brien could reveal the identity of the men who have been posing as prohibition agents. He intimated that his men had information on which they hoped to round up the leaders in the conspiracy.

ENRIGHT PROPOSES MORE TRAFFIC ROOM

New Streets, Subways, Viaducts and Arcades to Lessen Peril to Pedestrians.

PUBLIC LARGELY TO BLAME

Of Street Accidents 78 Per Cent. Are Due to Victims' Carelessness—Wants Police Control.

Police Commissioner Enright, discussing traffic with the Grand Jury yesterday, said New York's street travel was increasing and developing so many complex problems that new handling methods must be found to meet future conditions.

"Until some plan is made to take care of the growing traffic and the increasing population it will be hard to blame any one for conditions," the Commissioner suggested. "More subways, viaducts over busy streets, arcades, and, in some instances, new streets, must be provided to meet adequately the movement of vehicles and pedestrians."

The majority of accidents to persons crossing the streets he attributed to their own carelessness, and estimated that 78 per cent. of them were directly due to lack of caution. Assistant District Attorney Ryttenberg asked if a law to prevent persons crossing except at street intersections would reduce danger. Mr. Enright said it might help, but added that such a law could not be uniformly enforced and that people should not be thus restricted.

The greatest menace to the public, according to the Commissioner, is motor trucks and sightseeing cars. These types of cars are continually being increased in length and width, and he advised that conditions warranted limits to size. He approved the recommendations of City Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb of the Traffic Court, for transfer of the license power over vehicles from the Bureau of Licenses to the Police Department.

"Scotland Yard has supervision over all London licenses," he said. "Deputy Commissioner John A. Harriss, in charge of traffic, is now in London, studying traffic conditions, and will report on his return."

Commissioner Enright said New York had one policeman for each 515 of population, while London has one for 290 persons and Paris one for every 333. New York needs 1,000 additional patrolmen, he said—400 for traffic work. Seven per cent. of the entire police personnel are now on traffic duty.

BURGLARS CUT STEEL DOORS

Burglars cut through two steel doors and robbed the Brooklyn Hosiery Company, on the top floor of a loft building at 31-35 Broadway, Brooklyn, early yesterday. A red moving van was seen to make three trips from the place by a woman living across the street. The goods stolen were valued at from $5,000 to $10,000.

The robbery was discovered by Joseph Schneider, engineer of the building, when he reported for work. The men had climbed to the roof of a one-story building adjoining the loft and opened a second-floor window. An elevator took them to the fifth floor. They cut through the steel door opening to the elevator shaft, piled the goods on the elevator, forced a second steel door in the basement, put the loot in a van and escaped.

ALIENS IN SUGAR FIGHT; 13 HURT AT ELLIS ISLAND

General Rumpus Starts When Immigrant Empties Bowl Into His Pocket.

The sight of granulated sugar, the first many of them had seen in five years, proved too much yesterday for the aliens detained at Ellis Island and its appearance on the tables in the main dining hall precipitated a fight which resulted in one man being taken to the hospital with three broken ribs and many others being treated for various degrees of bruises. Sugar had not been a part of the regular Ellis menu for the last few years and Commissioner Frederick A. Wallis recently ordered it restored.

A sugar craving Slav started the rumpus. He wet a finger and stuck it in a bowl of the white crystals. He licked his finger, liked the taste and emptied the contents of the sugar bowl into his pocket.

Angry aliens came at him from all directions until it seemed as though practically all the 1,767 detained on the island were engaged in the fight. Guards, waiters and reinforcements from the kitchen finally succeeded in prying the combatants apart and in restoring peace.

On taking stock of the casualties, it was found that Khune Rothenberg, taken recently as a stowaway from the steamship Rotterdam and held for deportation, had three fractured ribs. A dozen or more others also required surgical attention.

Commissioner Wallis said he would continue to serve sugar but that it probably would be given in small quantities to each person after the manner in many New York restaurants during sugar famine periods, instead of being served in bulk with opportunity for each to help himself.

20 BASE HOSPITAL BUILDINGS BURN

Flames Sweep Bronx Structures Abandoned by Army Six Months Ago.

Twenty of the sixty buildings of Base Hospital No. 1, at Bainbridge Avenue and Gunhill Road, the Bronx, which housed thousands of wounded soldiers during and after the war but was abandoned as a hospital six months ago, were destroyed by a fire which started shortly after 11 o'clock last night.

The Fire Department responded to an alarm sent in by Herbert Webber, night clerk of the Montefiore Home, near the hospital. Only two buildings were burning when the firemen arrived, but so much time was lost getting water on the blaze that several acres of one-story barrack buildings were destroyed before the blaze was put out.

The six hydrants on the hospital site were hidden by long grass which had grown up since the place was abandoned for hospital uses. The fire-fighters were forced to give up their search for these hydrants and to run lines of hose 800 and 1,000 feet long in order to get streams of water on the buildings.

The buildings had been sold to a contractor, who had started to remove them. The loss was placed at $50,000. The blaze on top of the hill, where the buildings were located, lighted up the sky so brilliantly that persons several miles distant thought a large section of the Bronx must be in flames.

MARTENS LOSES $1,000 BOND

Soviet "Ambassador's" Application Denied by Justice McCook.

The application of Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, self-styled Ambassador from the Soviet Government to the United States, for an order compelling Attorney General Newton to return to him a $1,000 Liberty bond deposited as security that he would appear and testify before the Lusk Committee, was denied yesterday by Supreme Court Justice McCook.

The court said that Martens had not established his right to the bond and that there was no reason why his word should be taken against that of Deputy Attorney General Becker, who contended that Martens had broken his promise to appear. The court remarked that Martens's conduct on other occasions had been "contumacious and disingenuous."

Justice McCook gave permission to Mr. Becker to apply to have the bond forfeited and paid into the State Treasury.
